Presidential Comments

Dr. James Votruba noted:

- The past several weeks have been a time of celebration as various colleges, departments, and student organizations have recognized student and organizational excellence. This celebration of excellence culminates this weekend with commencement.
- We will have over 1,400 degree recipients this spring, including nearly 1,100 at the undergraduate level. This is a 12% increase in undergraduate degrees and a 16.5% increase in total degrees granted.
- Of particular note, we will graduate our first students in the Doctorate in Educational Leadership.
- Recently, we celebrated a number of awards for outstanding faculty excellence.
    - Regents Professor Miriam Kennan in biology will receive the 2011Frank Sinton Milburn Award as NKU's Outstanding Faculty Member.
    - Associate Professor Maureen Doyle in Computer Science won this year's award for Excellent Performance in Teaching.
    - Assistant Professor Willard Peveler in Kinesiology and Health received this year's award for Excellent Performance in Scholarly or Creative Activity
    - Assistant Professor Andrea Watkins in History and Geography won this year's award for Excellent Performance in Outreach and Public Engagement. Dr. Watkins is the daughter of Regents Professor Jim Ramage, also in History and Geography.
    - This year's award for sustained Excellence in Scholarly and Creative Activity went to Associate Professor Gregory Hatchett in Counseling, Social Work, and Leadership.
    - And this year's award for Sustained Excellence in Outreach and Public Engagement went to Associate Professor Judy Voelker in the department of Sociology, Anthropology and Philosophy.
- Looking to next fall, applications are again at record numbers, both in terms of the quality and number of students in the 2011 entering class.
- This morning, the board reviewed next year's proposed university budget. The reason we are able to invest in our programs and people, even in these challenging times, is because of the leadership displayed by our vice presidents, deans, chairs, and directors as they worked together on behalf of major campus budget restructuring. This has meant sacrifice on the part of many so that investments could be made in our most important priorities. I am fully confident at this point that we will sustain the momentum that has characterized the university over the past decade.
- This spring, our NKU Diversity Task Force developed our new plan for realizing diversity goals. Under the able leadership of Vice President Davenport and Professor Kannan, the task force will recommend a variety of steps that we can take to insure that we continue to build a strong and diverse student body as well as employee base.
- February bar passage rates saw Chase lead all Kentucky law schools with a 91% passage rate for first time takers and an 86% pass rate for all test takers.
- NKU has won The Business Courier's competition as "2011 Healthiest Employers of Greater Cincinnati" for the 1,500-4,999 employees category. This award program recognizes organizations that are committed to creating a healthy workplace. We have seen a real transformation in our culture. NKU has been proactive in investing and offering the appropriate resources, tools and policies which help to ensure that we make "healthy" the easier choice for everyone on our campus. I regularly hear from employees the difference these supports have made in their lives and the lives of their families. Many of our employees are rising up to be wellness champions, encouraging each other to choose health and wellness. NKU is a model in our community for achieving this level of success. This recognition would not have been possible without the efforts of our Director of Wellness, Karen Campbell; and her staff; the student wellness ambassadors; the Healthy Workplace Committee; and all of the wellness champions among the staff and faculty.

- Finally, this time of year often involves transitions in our leadership.
    - I first want to thank Regent Nancy Barone for her leadership on behalf of NKU, most recently as chair of the NKU Board. This has been a challenging time for the university and Nancy has provided a steady hand on the tiller as we navigated uncertain waters.
    - I want to thank Regent Kevin Golden for his outstanding leadership of this year's Student Government Association and his many contributions to the NKU board. This year, SGA recommended to the board a new student fee to support the construction of a new student health center in order to better serve our students, faculty, and staff. This will be a lasting legacy of this year's SGA and Kevin provided strong leadership.
    - This spring we say goodbye to Vice President Zeb Davenport who will move to IUPUI in a vice presidential role. Our entire campus has benefited from Zeb's outstanding leadership and he will be missed. Under his leadership, Student Affairs has achieved new levels of performance, particularly around strategic planning and support for student success. Thank you, Zeb!
    - And we want to welcome Dr. Lisa Rhine as Interim Vice President for Student Affairs. Lisa has a strong background in initiatives related to student retention. She has experience in both student and academic affairs, and enjoys broad campus wide confidence and respect.
    - Dustin Robinson is the new SGA President and will be joining the board for at the July retreat.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee: (Reports given by Regent Dennis Repenning)

1. Report on Campus Recreation Center:

This morning we heard a presentation from Kevin Golden, Student Government President and Michelle Forlenza, Student Senator and Chair of the University Improvements Committee on the proposed fee to support an expanded and renovated campus recreation center and new intramural fields.

A timeline was presented that illustrated a sustained commitment from SGA over the past six years to improve the campus recreation center facilities, funding for programs, services and student employment.

Information was provided on the CPE Special Use Fee Exemption Policy and the requirements student government needed to follow to be in compliance with the new policy. The proposed fee would be $5 per credit hour up to 12 credit hours starting this fall and would increase to a maximum of $16 per credit hour by the 2013-14 academic year.

2. Report on 2011-12 Operating Budget and Tuition Rates:

President Votruba, Dr. Sue Hodges Moore, Vice President for Planning, Policy & Budget, and Ken Kline, Senior Budget Director, provided an overview of the 2011-12 annual operating budget, and proposed tuition rates and fees for 2011-12.

The total operating budget for the university is proposed at $214 million. Projected revenue increases and reallocated funds will be used to fund fixed cost increases, maintenance and operations of Griffin Hall, salary increases, and other investment priorities.

Tuition rates are proposed at a 5% increase in undergraduate resident tuition in accordance with the Council on Postsecondary Education's tuition caps. Other rates are based on CPE policy and market forces.

Mr. Ken Ramey provided an overview of the six-year capital plan development process.

3. Report on Diversity Plan:

Dr. Zebulun Davenport and Dr. Miriam Kannan presented the Diversity Plan this morning. In response to CPE's Diversity Policy, which requires each Kentucky Public Institution to create an Institution-wide Diversity Plan, President Votruba charged a 38 member Diversity Task Force co-chaired by Dr. Davenport and Dr. Kannan to draft a diversity plan. The charge was to develop a comprehensive University-wide Diversity Plan that addressed four strategic areas as defined by the CPE including Student Body Diversity, Student Success, Workforce Diversity (faculty, staff) and Campus Climate. Once this draft plan is approved by the Board of Regents, it will be submitted to the Council on Postsecondary Education for review. The plan will then be returned to NKU for additional edits if necessary.

Presidential Comments

Dr. James Votruba noted:

- Spent the day with Professor, Kristi Haik, as Faculty for a Day. Kristi came to me about 8-9 months ago with the idea for a shadowing program. Administrators would shadow faculty for a day, and faculty would shadow administrators for a day. I would like to invite all Vice Presidents and each Regent to shadow a faculty member, for either a half or full day, to get a better understanding of the University.

- NKU is off to a very strong start this academic year.
- Congratulations to all those involved in the enrollment process. NKU is increasingly becoming the first choice for some of the areas best prepared high school students.
    - Our partnership with P-12 education is one of the strongest in the country
- Plaza renovation is near completion.
- Griffin Hall is on-line and functioning smoothly. The dedication coming up on October 10th.
- We have two new program areas on the consent agenda: JD & Masters of Health Informatics and JD & Masters of Business Informatics.
- Welcome to Regent Virginia Fox, Regent Dustin Robinson, Dean Rick Kolbe, Interim Dean Kevin Kirby, Director of Panning & Performance, Vicki Natale.
- Kate Ritter will replace Casey Lundberg in our office.
- Thank you to Casey Lundberg for her many contributions to the President's Office.
- I also want to acknowledge the retirement of Associate Provost, Mary Ryan. Her knowledge of the University as well as her commitment will be deeply missed.

This morning we heard a presentation from Samuel Zachary, Dean of the College of Arts & Sciences, and 13 of his colleagues from 11 different Arts & Sciences departments and programs. Collectively, these faculty provided descriptive and data frameworks delineating the college's mission, core values, programs, centers, forms of teaching services, involvement in creative activity, and service. Dean Zachary briefly sketched in this framework and then periodically solicited help from his colleagues in detailing specific academic experiences to illustrate many framework elements. In the end, Dean Zachary and his colleagues emphasized the extraordinary breadth and delivery of the college, as well as its central role in forming a foundation of knowledge for every NKU student.

Regent Virginia G. Fox seconded Regent Nathaniel G. Smith's motion to approve the minutes of the September 14, 2011 Board of Regents meetings. (Motion carried)

Presidential Comments:
Dr. James Votruba noted:

- Griffin Hall dedication was a success. Thank you to all who made it possible.
- During the annual financial report we affirmed that the university is in a strong financial position. There are still major uncertainties as we move forward. The conservative approach to budgeting the university has chosen has served us well. The university has absorbed budget reductions, maintenance and operating costs, and increased costs to state retirement plans.
- I have signed and support the CPE budget request we heard this morning.
- Our priorities as a university lie within the Points of Focus document which was distributed to the board.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee: (Reports given by Secretary, Dennis Repenning)

Report on Annual Financial Report:

Crissy Fiscus and Richard Dorton, from the audit firm Dean Dorton Allen Ford presented a discussion on their role in the Internal Control process. Ms. Fiscus stated that external auditors are not required to give an opinion on internal controls as part of the financial statement audit. They are, however, required to document their understanding of internal controls in significant audit areas and obtain evidence that key controls are implemented as designed. These procedures are performed to adequately assess the risk of material misstatements to the NKU financial statements. Dean Dorton Allen Ford also discussed how they gain an understanding of key information technology systems and controls to ensure these systems and controls are designed appropriately and implemented.

Ms. Fiscus provided the Board with a discussion of external auditor's required procedures related to fraud. During the audit process members of DDAF interviewed the Chair of the Board of Regents, members of management and Internal Audit regarding their views of potential fraud risks. In addition, DDAF performed tests over NKU's general ledger to search for inappropriate journal entries. Ms. Fiscus stated there was no indication of fraud identified during the audit.

Larry Meyer, Director of Financial and Operational Audit, gave a presentation on risk and how it serves as the foundation for each year's audit plan. A number of risk categories are used to rank each University department and process from highest risk to lowest. High and medium risk units are given priority in the audit plan. During audit process internal controls are tested to ensure they effectively mitigate risk. Internal auditors also test for the existence of fraudulent activity as part of each audit.

Vice President Ramey and Comptroller Kerdolff presented the University's 2010-11 Annual Financial Report. Highlights included:

- The changes in the university's assets, liabilities and net assets were discussed:
    - Assets grew by $38 million
    - Liabilities declined by $6 million. The review of liabilities included a comparison of NKU's debt capacity to the university's benchmarks.
    - Net assets increased by $44 million for the year, primarily due to capital appropriations and capital grants and gifts related to construction projects and positive operating results.
- Revenues increased by $12 million in fiscal year 2011, including a $5 million increase in net tuition. NKU continues to receive less state appropriations per student than any other comprehensive university in Kentucky. In addition, NKU receives less appropriation per student than the university's national benchmarks.
- Expenses were compared to the national benchmarks. Overall the university operating expenses per student are less than the national benchmarks.

The Commonwealth and the university continue to face challenging economic conditions. However, the University is well positioned to continue to make significant progress despite the uncertainties that we face.

Report on CPE Budget Update and Health Innovation Center:
During the presentation about the CPE budget, Vice President Ramey provided an overview of the CPE capital budget request for higher education. The CPE is recommending $64 million in capital funding for NKU for the 2012-14 biennium and a total of $192 million over the next six years. These funds will be used on both new construction and renovation and renewal of existing space. Dr. Gail Wells, Vice President and Provost, Academic Affairs, Dr. Denise Robinson, Dean, College of Health Professions, and Dr. Jeffrey Smith, Chair, Psychological Sciences then provided a more in depth look at the proposed Health Innovations Center.

This was followed by an overview of the CPE operating budget request for higher education provided by Dr. Sue Hodges Moore, Vice President, Planning, Policy and Budget and Ken Kline, Senior Director, Budget Office. The CPE is recommending a $7 million overall budget increase for NKU to fund the maintenance and operations of new buildings, support for P-12 college readiness initiatives, and for performance funds. The performance funds will have to be earned through increasing the number of Bachelor's Degrees awarded, improving the 6-year graduation rate, reducing the graduation rate gap for underprepared students, and increasing transfers from the Kentucky Community and Technical College System.

Audit Committee Report: (Dennis Repenning, Audit Committee Chair)
The Audit Committee, consisting of Chair Mann, Vice Chair Wilson and Secretary Repenning, met with auditors from Dean Dorton Allen and Ford (DDAF) on September 29, 2011 to review the University's audited financial statements. Crissy Fiscus, the lead auditor, indicated that the university fully complied with the requests of the auditors for materials, documents and meeting.

DDAF issued a clean audit for the university with no qualifications.

Members of the Board's audit committee were given an opportunity to ask questions both with management present and management not present.

The Audit Committee has approved the 2010-2011 audited financial statements and submitted them for full Board approval with the consent agenda.

Search and Screening Committee Report: (Report given by Regent Martin C. Butler, Chair of the Presidential Search and Screening Committee)
Regent Martin C. Butler and Carole Beere provided an overview of the Presidential Search website, which is now linked from NKU's home page. On the Presidential Search website one can find the most up to date revised time-lines for the search, a description of each committee member, feedback the committee has received thus far, and an opportunity to provide feedback to the committee and the search firm. All are encouraged to give their feedback.

Report from the Division I Subcommittee (report given by Regent Nathaniel G. Smith, Chair of the Division I Subcommittee)
The Division I Subcommittee met on May 10 and December 1 to consider both the overall transition to Division I intercollegiate athletics and to consider conference affiliation. The subcommittee is unanimous in its support of moving to Division I and is enthusiastic about the Atlantic Sun Conference. Regent Brown and Regent Hawkins joined me as members of the sub-committee.

During our meetings we had an opportunity to hear from both Dr. Scott Eaton and from Ken Kline, the university's budget director.

We carefully studied the costs associated with transitioning to a new athletic classification and are confident that the increased costs are manageable and will not adversely impact other important priorities at the university.

Through our deliberations, we learned that the A-Sun conference is a good fit for the university. The conference offers competitive teams in all sports, has a strong RPI ranking and most importantly, has a demonstrated record of student-athlete academic success. We learned that a full two-thirds of all student athletes in the Atlantic Sun have a 3.0 GPA or higher and this matches the number of NKU student-athletes who also have a 3.0 GPA or higher.

The subcommittee unanimously recommends that the board accept the recommendation to transition to the university's athletics program to Division I and to accept membership into the Atlantic Sun Conference.

Presidential Comments:

Dr. James Votruba noted:
We have spent the last six years studying whether NKU should move to Division I athletics. This university behaves in a disciplined way and we don't do things until we're prepared. We have sought input from the campus and community, two consultants groups have provided us with their analysis of the feasibility to reclassify to Division I, and I've spoken with over a dozen presidents from campuses that have gone D-I recently to more deeply understand the advantages from their perspective.

We found NKU is poised to make the move if we chose. There is strong community, student, faculty, and staff support as long as the move does not undermine investments in other core mission priorities. After all of this study and input, it is the recommendation of the administration that a move to D-I will bring benefit to the entire institution. It brings greater public visibility. It contributes to the capacity to recruit and retain strong students. It will align us with a set of institutions that, in terms of enrollment size, breadth of curriculum, quality of faculty, and excellence across the mission, are more reflective of who we are today and what we would like to become in the future.

The NCAA requires that any school reclassifying to D-I must have a bona fide conference invitation and this is what brings us together today.

Dr. Votruba then introduced Scott Eaton, who introduced the Commissioner of the Atlantic Sun Conference, Ted Gumbart. Dr. Eaton and Commissioner Gumbart discussed why Northern Kentucky University and the Atlantic Sun Conference are a great match. At the end of the discussion, Commissioner Gumbart extended an invitation to join the Atlantic Sun conference to NKU.

A. Presidential Recommendations:

Regent Dustin Robinson seconded Regent Terry Mann's motion to approve the following Presidential Recommendations as listed. (Motion carried)

1. The Board of Regents unanimously approved the reclassification to Division I athletics and membership in the Atlantic Sun Conference.

Report on Subcommitte on Presidential Transition: (Report given by Vice Chair, Brenda Wilson)
The Presidential Transition Committee, comprised of Regent Mann, Bob Zapp, and Regent Wilson, met at the end of December to consider three proposals related to the honoring of President Votruba. Each of these proposals was vetted through the normal university process with one change. Instead of sending the proposals to the President, the proposals were sent directly to the subcommittee.

The subcommittee believes that these recognitions are well deserved and merited given Dr. Votruba's outstanding service.

The Presidential Transition Committee unanimously recommends that the board take the following actions:

1. Approve the naming of the Student Union in honor of President and Mrs Votruba. Regent Robinson and his colleagues in Student Government initiated a resolution to do this and it was passes unanimously by Student Government. The resolution was then forwarded to the university's naming committee where it was also unanimously approved.

2. Approve the awarding of an honorary degree to President Votruba at the May, 2012 commencement. This proposal has been vetted by the honorary degree committee at the university and was unanimously approved.

3. Approve naming a new privately-endowed scholarship fund, the "James and Rachel Votruba Endowed Scholarship Fund." The university has received nearly $200,000 in private gift commitments for this purpose and additional fundraising efforts throughout the remainder of this fiscal year will provide others the opportunity to contribute to this fund as a way of participating directly in honoring and thanking the Votrubas.

Regent Dustin R. Robinson seconded Regent Brenda L. Wilson's motion to approve the three recommendations of the Presidential Transition Committee. (Motion carried)

Presidential Comments:

Dr. James Votruba noted:
I am deeply moved by the actions just taken by the Board of Regents to honor Rachel and me. For both of us, NKU has been a labor of love for 15 years. Thank you to the Board of Regents, Dustin Robinson, and the Student Government for the action you took a few moments ago. I couldn't imagine a better place to work than Northern Kentucky University.

There are serious budget challenges ahead. There are additional budget reductions coming our way in the neighborhood of 7%, next fiscal year. We will not know anything for sure until the Governor's budget address on January 17th. NKU is well positioned to handle these reductions, but they will cause pain for our campus, our students in terms of affordability and access, and NKU's capacity to support regional programs.

On January 17, there will be an announcement about one of the most ambitious economic development initiatives ever undertaken regionally. NKU's Colleges of Business, Informatics, and Health Innovations are front and center in the initiative.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee: (Reports given by Secretary, Dennis Repenning)

Report on Law and Informatics Institute:

This morning Jon Garon, Professor of Law and inaugural Director of the Law and Informatics Institute, presented an overview of the Institute and its work. The Law & Informatics Institute provides an interdisciplinary approach to the study, research, scholarship, and practical application of informatics, focusing on the regulation and utilization of information.

Report on Professional Development Programs:
This morning Dr. Gail Wells, Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost, presented an overview of the three faculty development programs offered at NKU – sabbatical leaves, summer fellowships, and project grants.

Dr. Yi Hu, Assistant Professor, Department of Computer Science and Dr. Mark Bardgett, Professor, Department of Psychological Science, shared their recent professional development experiences with the Board.

A booklet summarizing 2010-11 faculty development award activities was shared with the Board.

A list of the 2012-13 faculty development award activities is recommended for your approval.

Report on College of Business:
This morning the Board received an overview of the Haile/US Bank College of Business' programs and its people. The presentation highlighted present accomplishments as well as future initiatives. Presenters included: Dr. Rick Kolbe, Dean of the Haile/U.S. Bank College of Business; Dr. David Raska, Assistant Professor, Marketing; Dr. Eileen Weisenbach Keller, Assistant Professor, Marketing and Director, of the Fifth Third Bank Entrepreneurship Institute; and Dr. Ihab Saad, Chair, Department of Construction Management.

Report on Wellness:
Vice President Ramey and Karen Campbell, Director of Wellness provided an overview of the universities wellness program, a model that has received regional and national attention. This recognition culminated with NKU winning The Business Courier competition as "Healthiest Employers of Greater Cincinnati" for the 1,500-4,999 employees category in 2011. The Award methodology was based on a web based assessment survey comprised of 75 scored questions. The categories, scoring, and analysis were developed by a private panel of medical, academic, business, wellness, finance, and statistics professionals. This achievement speaks volumes as to how far NKU has come in its commitment to the wellness and health of our faculty, staff and students.

The program will continue to evolve in 2012 as we support the 4th year of individual health screenings and continued dialogue related to transitioning the campus to an entirely tobacco free environment.

Audit Committee Report: (Report given by Regent Dennis Repenning, Audit Committee Chair)
Yesterday members of the Audit Committee met with Larry Meyer, Director of the Financial and Operational Audit Office. Vice-President Ramey and President Votruba were also present. This was one of three regularly scheduled meetings between the Internal Auditor and the Committee.

Mr. Meyer provided a report on his office's activity during the second quarter of this fiscal year. Larry reviewed recently completed audit reports and gave us an update on the audit plan for the remainder of the year.

The Audit Committee received an update on the actions taken by management to correct the minor recommendations issued by our external auditors. Each recommendation has either been corrected or is in-process and on schedule.

Finally, Larry provided the members with a report that addressed the Kentucky Auditor of Public Accounts recommendations for nonprofit boards to consider. In general the University has already established procedures that incorporate many of the recommendations.

Before the meeting ended the Audit Committee met privately with Larry to discuss issues outside the presences of management.

Search and Screening Committee Report: (Report given by Regent Martin C. Butler, Chair of the Presidential Search and Screening Committee)
In November we issued a vacancy notice for the Presidency in multiple publications. We are about to begin reviewing preliminary active prospects. The search firm has continued to do an excellent job at generating a pool of active prospects. We will begin to narrow down the list to identify individuals we would like to meet with further. The finalists names will be made public, and they will be brought to campus for meetings. We expect the campus visits will take place between March 15 and March 30th.

Presidential Comments:

Dr. James Votruba noted:

As you saw this morning, technology is changing the way universities go about their work. It is impacting every dimension of our work at NKU. I recommend that the Board annually review how technology is shaping the institution. We have had the benefit of strong leadership from Tim Ferguson, our CIO, and his team who have dedicated themselves to not only meet the IT needs of the campus, but also to implementing the SAP system which has been a monumental task. A special thanks to all the women and men who have brought us to this point.

This morning I updated the board on budget development in the face of yet additional state budget reductions. We have a history of conservative budgeting, and we will adjust to the proposed $3.2 million budget cut if it comes to pass. We will manage the reductions without major disruptions in our work, and we will protect our core. This will be accomplished because of the leadership of our vice presidents, deans, directors, and chairs along with a whole host of leaders throughout the institution who continue to find ways to achieve progress in spite of daunting financial challenges.

This group of Vice Presidents and the groups they represent understand all of the problems this university and higher education confront. In spite of all of that, they have found ways to maintain the momentum.

However, the impact of historic underfunding, repeated state budget reductions, and unfunded mandates like maintenance and operating for new facilities and increased KERS/KTRS contributions will put at risk our ability to achieve what was so central to postsecondary reform fifteen years ago.

Recall that House Bill 1 was not about higher education as an end in itself. It was about higher education as a foundation for Kentucky's economic growth and enhanced opportunity and quality of life for all of our citizens. The impact of these budget reductions and unfunded mandates puts at significant risk our capacity to serve the goals of HB 1.

At a time when access to postsecondary education has never been more important for individual and regional progress, and when demand for access to NKU has never been stronger, these budget decisions put at risk our capacity to continue to grow enrollments. In other words, they place access at risk.

At a time when regional employers are demanding new and expanded academic programs in such areas as health professions, informatics, and STEM, our capacity to fund such new and expanded programs will be limited at best.

At a time when our region is calling on us to be a full partner in supporting economic growth through such initiatives as UpTech, we will not have the capacity to respond to the level required.

At a time when talent defines regional destiny and enhanced P-12 education is a foundation for any economic development strategy, these budget decisions will force us to curtail our P-12 engagement.

At a time when families and students are struggling with the impact of this prolonged recession, we will again be forced to raise tuition in order to sustain the quality of our enterprise.

From my perspective, there are two realities that I want to emphasize. First, we will adjust to these budget decisions. We will adjust with minimal disruption in our core enterprise. Second, the negative consequences of these decisions for our students and for our region have the potential to be significant. The risk is not to the university. The risk is to the goals of HB 1, which are even more important today than they were fifteen years ago.

I want to acknowledge Staff Congress and their decision to name the Staff Congress scholarship in my honor. I am deeply touched by Staff Congress taking this step because I so deeply appreciate all the contributions that our staff have contributed to the university's progress.

I would like to acknowledge three new members of our leadership team. Paul Orscheln, the new Associate Vice President for Enrollment Management; Kent Johnson, Director of General Education; and Beth Sweeney, the new Associate Provost for Administration.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee: (Reports given by Secretary, Dennis Repenning)

Report on Information Technology Update:
Associate Provost and Chief Information Officer, Tim Ferguson, provided an update on the NKU Information Technology department. Also participating in the presentation were Sarah Mann, Associate Director, Center for Innovation and Technology in Education, Mark Wasicsko, Dean College of Education and Human Services, and Kevin Kirby, Dean of the College of Informatics.

The presentation discussed the growing impact of technology on education, future trends in higher education relating to technology, and the changing expectations of students.

The Board learned about the four different IT strategies including: Impact Student Success & Learning Outcomes, Optimize University Operations, Strive for Informational Technology Operational Excellence, and Strengthen the Information Technology Infrastructure.

The presentation concluded with a review of how the Office of Information Technology is supporting the NKU campus through transformational projects aligning with the University's Points of Focus.

Report on State and Federal Legislative Issues Update:
Joe Wind, Vice President for Government and Community Relations provided a policy update outlining issues at the federal and state levels.

At the federal level, the university is focused on securing grants and applied research faculty visits to key agencies. Potential reductions in Pell Grants and other student financial aid programs could significantly impact students. The university has had good success with placing and connecting interns and continues to help place alumni career seekers.

At the state level, the budget forecast continues to dominate the landscape. NKU is $19.3 million underfunded compared to its sister institutions and closing this inequity gap is a major focus, as well as getting approval to issue agency bonds.

Report on Proposed Fees & Service Charges and Budget Update:
President Votruba provided an update of the university's 2012-13 budget. It will be another challenging budget year as the university is anticipating a 6.4% cut from the State and will be addressing an additional $3.2 million increase in non-discretionary expenses. The university is planning for a 6.4% cut to operating budgets. However, the university plans to continue with its current enrollment strategy while maintaining sufficient budget reserves.

Search and Screening Committee Report: (Report given by Regent Martin C. Butler, Chair of the Presidential Search and Screening Committee)
The process has been going very well. The semi-finalist interviews have been finalized, and the committee is seeking additional information on the candidates. The finalists' campus visits will be scheduled within the next two weeks. The visits are expected to be scheduled the weeks of March 26 and April 2. More information will be passed along as it is received.

Subcommittee on Presidential Transition Report: (Report given by Regent Brenda L. Wilson)
A recommendation from Staff Congress was sent to the university's naming committee asking that the Staff Congress Scholarship be renamed to honor President Votruba.

Staff Congress unanimously supports this name change for an existing scholarship to honor President Votruba for his 15 years of unwavering support of Staff Congress, his exceptional service to the university, and his strong commitment to student success. The existing scholarship is awarded by Staff Congress to a son, daughter, or spouse of a permanent NKU staff member.

The university's naming committee also unanimously approved the recommendation and sent it to the Presidential Transition Subcommittee for our deliberation.

The Presidential Transition Subcommittee supports this recommendation, effective immediately.

Regent Dustin R. Robinson seconded Regent Brenda L. Wilson's motion to approve the Presidential Transition Subcommittee's recommendation to rename the Staff Congress scholarship. (Motion carried)

Subcommittee on Presidential Transition Report:
Regent Chuck H. Brown seconded Regent Brenda L. Wilson's motion to approve President Emeritus status for James C. Votruba, effective immediately. (Motion carried)

Chair Terry L. Mann offered a resolution recognizing President James C. Votruba for his tenure as President of the university.

Presidential Comments:
Dr. James Votruba noted:
This is a time of celebration. We will award 1,600 degrees this Sunday. We were also named the Healthiest Employer of Greater Cincinnati in the 1,000-5,000 employees category for the second year in a row.

Later in this meeting, the board will be asked to approve the 2012-13 annual operating budget. Even with another significant state budget reduction, this budget invests in priorities important to our ability to sustain institutional momentum. Included in these priorities are more full-time tenure and tenure track faculty, the launch of a new systems engineering program, a significant upgrade in smart classrooms, a nearly $5 million investment in the University Center renovation to become a new center for student success, deferred maintenance and a 3% non-recurring merit salary increase.

This budget also depends on a 5% tuition increase. The continuing transfer of college cost for the state to the individual student is shortsighted and will weaken the capacity of Americans to achieve the American dream. The Council on Postsecondary Education has done research that suggests tuition increases have done nothing but cover the multiple budget reductions imposed over the past several years. I am recommending this tuition increase because it is essential in order to preserve the quality of our academic experience.

This is my last Board of Regents meeting as President. It has been said that a successful presidency depends on a strong partnership between the board and the president.

I would like to give a special thanks to the departing Regents: Chuck Brown, Chuck Hawkins, Eric Brose and Dustin Robinson for their service to the university.

Today, we welcome three new Regents: Dr. Jacqueline McNally, Associate Professor of Communication Studies; Steve Meier, Associate to the Dean of Students; Erik Pederson, newly elected Student Government Association President.

Today, I would like to thank the devoted university leaders who comprise our Executive Team. Katie Herschede, Executive Assistant to the President/Secretary to the Board of Regents; Gail Wells, Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost; Ken Ramey, Vice President for Administration and Finance; Gerry St. Amand, Vice President for Advancement; Sue Hodges Moore, Vice President for Planning, Policy and Budget; Lisa Rhine, Interim Vice President for Student Affairs; Joe Wind, Vice President for Government and Community Relations; Sara Sidebottom, Vice President for Legal Affairs and General Counsel. I would also like to thank my Assistant, Tammy Knochelmann.

Each of these individuals has understood that one of their most important functions is to support the president and the board in making informed decisions that move the university forward. They have worked tirelessly to frame issues, prepare board materials and do the due diligence necessary before a matter ever reaches the board for its consideration.

On a final note, the most important function of a governing board is the selection and evaluation of the president. Eighteen months ago, we set in motion what we hoped would be a textbook presidential transition process. As the process draws to a close, I believe it has met that high standard. On behalf of the entire university, thank you for your leadership.

Geoff Mearns and I are working closely to assure a smooth transition. We are speaking regularly and reviewing those matters that will require his attention.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee: (Reports given by Secretary, Dennis Repenning)

Report on Housing:
Lisa Rhine, Interim Vice President for Student Affairs, Peter Trentacoste, Interim Assistant Vice President for Student Affairs and Arnie Slaughter, Interim Director of University Housing along with representatives from MGT America Inc., Joseph Carter and Ray Thompson, provided a presentation on University Housing.

Results of the MGT Feasibility Study conducted in 2008:

- Indicated that there is no immediate need for expansion of university housing.
- Identified physical deficiencies in on-campus accommodations and made recommendations for improvement.
- Provided key targets for improvements in Kentucky, Commonwealth, Norse Halls, and Woodcrest Apts
- Offered a near-term plan for renovations and improvements to existing housing stock vs. building additional beds

- Focused on maintaining housing system's financial self-sufficiency

Since the feasibility Study was conducted in 2008, University Housing has invested over 4 million dollars in major and minor improvements. University Housing will continue to monitor demand for on-campus housing, continue to address deferred maintenance in residential housing properties and consider building or purchasing a facility to add 200 beds by 2014 in order to meet projected demand.

Report on 2012-13 Operating Budget and Tuition Rates:
President Votruba, Dr. Sue Hodges Moore, Vice President for Planning, Policy & Budget, and Ken Kline, Senior Budget Director, provided an overview of the 2012-13 annual operating budget, and proposed tuition rates and fees for 2012-13.

The total operating budget for the university is proposed at $223 million. Projected revenue increases and reallocated funds will be used to fund fixed cost increases, state mandated increases in employer retirement contributions, reductions in state appropriations, essential expenditures, and high priority investments.

Tuition rates are proposed at a 5% increase in undergraduate resident tuition in accordance with the Council on Postsecondary Education's tuition caps. Other rates are based on CPE policy and market forces.

Audit Committee Summary: (Report given by Secretary, Dennis Repenning)
On May 1st members of the Audit Committee met with Larry Meyer, Director of the Financial and Operational Audit Office. Vice-President Ramey and President Votruba were also present. This was one of four regularly scheduled meetings between the Internal Auditor and the Committee.

Larry provided a report on his office's activity since our last meeting in January. He summarized the findings and recommendations for seven recently completed audits. He also gave the committee an update on the projects that are currently in process and on track to be completed prior to the end of the fiscal year. The Committee was also informed that next week the external auditor firm Dean Dorton Allen Ford will be on campus to begin preliminary testing for the June 30, 2012 year-end audit.

Finally, Internal Audit is in the process of developing their audit plan for the next fiscal year. Larry provided the committee with an update on the status of that process. Once finalized the audit plan will be submitted to the members of the Audit Committee for comment and approval.

3. Fundraising Report: (Vice President Gerard St. Amand)

   This report lists the grants awarded, with the amount awarded for each grant, for NKU faculty and staff during the February – March 2012 time period, 15 grants were awarded. 5. Organizational Changes Report: (Vice President Sue Moore)
   Under the direction of University Advancement, the Office of Special Events was renamed to the Office of Special Events and Stewardship in the fall 2011. The Office of Special Events was established in 2002 to produce and coordinate a variety of events on and off campus that recognize, thank, congratulate and celebrate special people and moments in the life of NKU. In this way, they help support and cultivate enduring relationships with NKU faculty, staff, students, alumni, the Northern Kentucky community and our donors. The major events on their annual schedule are winter and spring commencement ceremonies and the Lincoln Award ceremony, which recognizes individuals who have had a tremendous and positive influence on our community. Other types of events that the office helps coordinate include building groundbreakings, dedications, and donor gift recognition events. They also partner with community organizations to produce public interest events such as political debates and forums.

In 2008 a decision was reached by University Advancement to eliminate a newly created position, Director of Donor Relations and Stewardship, to meet FY09 budget reduction targets. At the same time, Advancement and university leadership acknowledged the urgent need to steward a growing number of significant major donors secured from a recently completed comprehensive fundraising campaign. Consequently, recurring salary reserve funds within University Advancement were authorized to be used in support of supplemental pay for staff members in the Office of Special Events. In consideration of this pay, two positions, Director and Coordinator, have assumed responsibilities for planning, implementing, and monitoring the president's and vice president of advancement's stewardship activities for the university's highest level donors.

Given the economic climate and subsequent re-structuring efforts within University Development in support of major gift efforts, it is not expected that a new dedicated stewardship position will be considered in the foreseeable future. Additionally, the current approach has been very successful. As a result, it was determined that the permanent assignment of planning and coordination of presidential stewardship activities go to the Director and Coordinator positions in the office of Special Events and that the department be given the new, more appropriate name of Special Events and Stewardship.

Under the direction of Academic Affairs and the Office of Information Technology, the IT Learning Systems organization unit was renamed IT Infrastructure as of March 1, 2012. Since IT Learning Systems no longer exists within the OIT, this change will facilitate administrative changes and ensure that charges are moved to the appropriate cost center/org unit.

Presidential Comments:
I would like to begin my first report as President of our University with a few words of thanks.

First, I am grateful to the faculty, staff, students, alumni and community partners who have assisted me during the initial phase of my transition. So many people have gone out of their way to welcome me and to provide support and guidance to me during these past few months.

I am especially grateful to the members of our senior leadership team and to my office staff. As a result of my mother's death, I needed extra help during the first few weeks of August. Everyone pitched in so that I could be with my family and still be able to meet my commitments here at NKU.

Finally, I want you -- the Board of Regents -- to know how much I appreciate your support and your compassion. During the search process, I was told that this university is more than an institution -- that it is a community. This characterization has proven to be accurate and I'm very fortunate to be here with you. Thank you.

I am also pleased to report that the new academic year is off to a very good start. At the end of the first week, I sent you a brief email report that described several notable events and achievements. Simply put, there is a strong sense of excitement and optimism on campus.

This morning, you heard a report on student enrollment. As you heard, the incoming freshman class is the most academically qualified class in our university's history, and we have a large number of students from outside our metropolitan area. These facts suggest that our university's reputation for academic excellence continues to grow and to spread.

Quantitatively -- in terms of student head count and student credit hours -- enrollment was flat. Fortunately, we built our budget on that estimate so our financial condition is sound. I have asked the Provost and her staff to develop new initiatives to grow enrollments for Spring 2013 and Summer 2013, and I am expecting that we will have an enhanced enrollment strategy for next academic year.

In order for these plans to be effective, we must continue to focus on student success -- that is, increasing our student retention rates and improving our graduation rates.

You heard this morning about the progress in constructing a new Student Success Center. Our objective is to create a one-stop student support center where our staff is prepared and empowered to serve our students and to help them succeed. I expect this center to be collaborative, innovative, and impactful.

This morning you also received a report on our transition to Division I athletics. As we all anticipated, this transition will require our coaches and our athletes to compete on a higher level. I am pleased to report that our student athletes are meeting that challenge. Our women's volleyball deserves some special recognition. The team's record is 9-1. And last weekend, they won a tournament at Harvard. They secured that title by beating their host, three games to none.

The campus has responded with great enthusiasm to our sports teams. As I mentioned in my email, more than 1200 people, including approximately 600 students, attended a men's soccer exhibition team against the University of Kentucky. And last week, more than 1200 people, including 650 students, attended a women's soccer game against Xavier.

These games, and many other activities, are helping us to create a vibrant campus experience for our students.

With respect to all of these activities -- enrollment, student success and athletics as well as all of the other important activities -- we must continue to develop and execute deliberate plans. As you know, the university's current strategic plan is intended to guide our actions through 2014. During the next twelve to eighteen months, we will continue to implement that plan while we develop the next strategic plan, which will guide our progress and growth through 2018 -- our 50^{th} anniversary.

In early October, I will convene a meeting of university leaders. The purpose of this retreat will be to ensure that we are actively implementing the current plan and preparing for the next planning process.

In order to be able to participate meaningfully in these processes, I will continue to engage the university community, both internally and externally. As I mentioned at Convocation, I will soon distribute a stakeholder survey. I am also in the process of scheduling more than twenty meetings on campus with faculty, staff and students. And I will continue to meet with a substantial number of our community partners.

The overarching goal of these activities is to learn what these individuals believe are the distinctive attributes of our university -- to understand what values and characteristics distinguish NKU and position this university to thrive in an increasingly competitive and integrated world.

I am excited and energized by what I already know and what I expect to learn. I have great faith that we will meet the challenges that await us. Thank you.

Joint Finance and Policy Committee Summary (Reports given by Dennis Repenning, Secretary)

Enrollment Report

Their presentation included a brief overview of the facilities, offices and services included in the new Center, and new initiatives and partnerships underway to help enhance student success.

In addition, facility members Kristi Haik and Gail Mackin showcased Project SOAR: Scholarships, Opportunities, Achievements, and Results. This program funded with grants from the National Science Foundation seeks to recruit, retain, educate, and graduate financially needy, academically talented students who will enter the workforce or graduate school in a STEM field.

Audit Committee Summary (Report given by Dennis Repenning, Secretary)

On September 11, 2012, members of the Audit Committee met with Larry Meyer, Director of the Financial and Operational Audit Office, Vice President Ken Ramey, and President Mearns to discuss recent internal audit activity. This was one of three regularly scheduled meetings between the Internal Auditor and the Committee.

Larry provided a report on the activity completed by his office since our last meeting in May. He summarized the findings and recommendations for recently completed audits. He also gave the committee and update on the projects that are currently in process and on pace to be completed before our next meeting in January.

Larry and the Committee discussed the 2012-13 Internal Audit plan. The plan is a result of a risk assessment process that Internal Audit completed during the Spring with input from University management. Sixteen new audit projects are included on this year's schedule. After some discussion the plan was approved.

Finally, Vice President Wells joined the meeting and she and Vice President Ramey led a discussion on the METS Center and The Bank of Kentucky Center operations, financials and business plan.

The summary was presented by Secretary Dennis Repenning. Regent Richard A. Boehne seconded Regent Stephen A. Meier's motion to approve the report. (Motion carried)

2. Fundraising Report: (Vice President Gerard St. Amand)
The attached Fundraising Report summarizes fundraising resources committed from July 1, 2011 through June 30, 2012 totaling $6,928,404 in support of the university.

3. Fundraising Report: (Vice President Gerard St. Amand)
The attached Fundraising Report summarizes fundraising resources committed from July 1, 2012 through July 31, 2012 totaling $150,200 in support of the university.

4. Research/Grants/Contracts Report: (Provost and Vice President Gail Wells)
This report lists the grants awarded, with the amount awarded for each grant, for NKU faculty and staff. During the April – June 2012 time period, 46 grants were awarded. The total amount of money awarded was $3,992,817. From July 1, 2011 through June 30, 2012, the cumulative total number of grants awarded was 122 totaling $9,493,626.

5. Research/Grants/Contracts Report: (Provost and Vice President Gail Wells)
The attached report lists the grants awarded, with the amount awarded for each grant, for NKU faculty and staff for July 2012. From July 1, 2012 through July 31, 2012, the cumulative total number of grants awarded was 7 totaling $820,040.

6. Organizational Changes Report (Vice President Sue Hodges Moore)
Effective July 1, 2012, the KCM, an organizational unit that currently reports to the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost will report to Office of the Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. The KCM was established in 2006 by the state legislature (KRS 164.525) and NKU was subsequently chosen to house the center through June 30, 2016. This reporting change is the result of organizational changes in the college and division to increase efficiency and effectiveness.

Effective immediately, the name of the Department of Political Science and Criminal Justice has been changed to Political Science, Criminal Justice, and Organizational Leadership. With the Organizational Leadership (OL) Program now housed within that department, the current name does not fully convey the identity or accurately represent their identity to their students, faculty, prospective students and faculty, and other stakeholders. The department faculty, the Dean and the Provost unanimously support this change.

Effective immediately, the name for the Career Development Center within the Division of Student Affairs has been changed to Career Services for the following reasons:

- "Career Services" is the contemporary name for this type of office. According to the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE), nearly half (45%) of offices responding to the 2011-12 Career Services Benchmark Survey reported the office title as "Career Services." It is the most popular name. Only 11% of offices still use the name "career development."
- The name better reflects the scope of the office. Career development and career choice is a large part of our mission. However, the staff also prepares students for their job searches (resumes, mock interviews) as well as works to make connections between students and employers through on-campus recruiting, job/career fairs, co-op/internship opportunities, etc.
- The Career Development Center is moving to the second floor of the University Center next spring. If the new "Student Success Center" keeps that name, using the name of "Career Services" instead of "Career Development Center" avoids the problem of a center within a center within the University Center.

Presidential Comments:

Installation:
A few short weeks ago, many of the same people in this room gathered for my installation. I am very grateful to everyone who helped with this significant effort. I would especially like to thank Regent Mann, Regent Repenning and Regent Fox for serving on the Board sub-committee; Kathy Stewart and Krista Wiseman Moore from our special events office; the 100 students who played in the orchestra and their faculty mentors, Dr. Brant Karrick, Dr. Frank Restesan and Dr. Kurt Sander, chair of the Department of Music. There were many, many more who helped behind the scenes. To everyone, I am deeply appreciative. My family and I were honored by your thoughtfulness and special care.

Transition:
I marked my first 100 days as president of our university on November 8. My first days have been spent meeting many of our dedicated faculty, staff, students, graduates and community partners. I have embarked on a listening tour. So far, I have had 20 listening sessions, and we have three more scheduled. These meetings have been with every college and division at the university, plus meetings with our students and open sessions. Additionally, I sent an email to all faculty, staff, students, graduates and many university friends asking them five questions. The questions centered on our strengths, distinctive attributes, most important issues or concerns for the future, opportunities we should take advantage of, and advice for me. More than 500 individuals responded with very thoughtful feedback. I want to thank everyone who submitted their comments. I wasn't able to respond to each person individually because of the overwhelming number. But I want to assure everyone that I am reading their comments and am very grateful for their thoughtful feedback.

As I have been reading through the responses, a number of trends have started to emerge.

- There is a deep, shared commitment to student success.
- NKU is a strong community partner, and we benefit the community as much as it benefits us.
- Many noted that they'd like to see us focus more on our specific goals. Once our goals have been identified, we should focus on execution.
- Respondents from all groups are concerned about the rising cost of higher education.
- Many noted the shifting higher education landscape with the emergence of new technologies and increased government regulation.
- People overwhelmingly believe that NKU is a great place to work and learn and our graduates are proud of their degrees from NKU.

Strategic Planning:
A week ago, I emailed our faculty and staff to announce the makeup of the strategic planning committee. As I have shared, I will chair the committee and the committee will be comprised of:

- Three faculty members
- Two staff members
- An academic department chair
- An academic dean
- One student
- One graduate
- One community leader

All faculty and staff members have been encouraged to nominate themselves or a colleague.

In addition to the Strategic Planning Committee, we plan to have several work groups that include subject matter experts from across the campus and the community to assist with the analysis of external environmental trends and forces and the identification of institutional characteristics and distinctive attributes.

I anticipate that we'll begin our work in January.

While there is much work ahead of us, I am excited to begin this process and continue to hear from colleagues across the campus and our community.

Spring Convocation:
We intend to have a Spring Convocation on January 11, 2013. At this convocation, I plan to share three major things:

1. What I have learned during my transition.
2. Progress on implementation of existing strategies.

3. A more detailed description of the expectations for our strategic planning process.

Both the campus and external communities will be invited to the Spring Convocation in mid-April as has become customary. We'll also have an open forum to discuss next year's budget.

Leadership Searches:

As you know, we are in the process of three searches for major leadership positions. We are currently searching for a vice president for student affairs, dean of the College of Education and Human Services, and dean of the Chase College of Law. Each of these search committees is still in the early stages of its work, and I expect that the committees will complete their work in the spring. We have retained the firm of Witt Kieffer to assist us with the Chase College of Law dean search.

Today, I will also send a note to the campus reporting that Gerry St. Amand has informed me that, effective at the end of this academic year, he will step down from his current position as Vice President for University Advancement. In this position, Gerry has been instrumental in increasing philanthropic support for our university and enhancing our university's image and reputation.

Gerry's decision is propelled by his passion to return to the legal profession – a profession that he served for more than 30 years. His decision is also prompted by his desire to have more time and flexibility to be with his wife, Peggy, and their children and grandchildren in North Carolina and Virginia. Given the sacrifices that he and his family have made for us, they all deserve this time to be together.

In just three short months, I have come to appreciate that Gerry is a valuable member of the university leadership team. He is thoughtful and insightful. And his calm demeanor cloaks an abiding passion for our university.

After an administrative leave, Gerry will rejoin the faculty of the law school that he led so ably as Dean. Given his many talents, I also hope that, in addition to his teaching responsibilities, I will be able to persuade him to assist us in other ways as well.

Enrollment Management:

This fall, we launched a new scholarship process to be more competitive with our peer institutions. For the first time in our history, we are making scholarship offers proactively – that is, without requiring an applicant to apply for a scholarship – and also on a rolling basis. As students apply and are accepted to the university, we will review their file and if they qualify for a scholarship, we will extend an offer to them. We expect that this tactic will help us continue to recruit more high-achieving students who may be considering several universities because they will know their scholarship offer from NKU much earlier. In the past, students wouldn't receive an offer from NKU until the end of February. We are monitoring this program closely and comparing projections to actual numbers on a weekly basis.

Additionally, we continue to focus on Spring 2013 enrollments through increased marketing and outreach to potential transfer students. We have contacted more than 30,000 KCTCS transfer-eligible students to share information about NKU.

Simultaneously, we are focused on our Fall 2013 class and beyond. So far we have generated more than 3,500 applications, which is a 52 percent increase from this time last year. Later this month, we will contact more than 100,000 sophomores and juniors to help build interest in NKU.

Student Success Center:

Student success continues to be our paramount goal. The Student Success Center is just one of our many efforts targeted at retention, graduation and overall success of our students. Work to complete the Center is currently on time and within budget expectations. The first phase is expected to be completed and occupied in February. The second phase is targeted to be open at the beginning of the Fall 2013 semester. As I have shared, simply co-locating offices is not enough to promote and sustain excellence in student success. Vice President Wells and Vice President Rhine have been working closely to ensure that the units in the Student Success Center are fully trained and working seamlessly to promote success. I anticipate that there will be significant positive gains as a result of these efforts.

Fall Sports:

Our transition to Division I athletics continues to go well. Our student athletes have responded to the increased competition on the field and continue to excel in the classroom.

- Our women's volleyball team had an outstanding record this year. The team finished the season with a 25-7 record, including 12-6 in the Atlantic Sun Conference which put them in third place. The team finished out its season on the highest note possible by rallying to upset first-place Florida Gulf Coast on the road on Saturday. The team posted the best overall regular season record in the A-Sun during its first season.

- The men's soccer team finished its season with a 7-10-1 overall record. The team's 4-3-1 record in the A-Sun put them in fourth place overall. Of their losses, eight were by just one goal, which gives you an idea of their overall competitiveness.

- The women's soccer team finished its season with a 6-11 overall record. The Norse were 3-6 in the A-Sun, which put them in seventh place overall. Of their losses, nine were by just one goal, again demonstrating their overall competitiveness.

- The men's and women's cross country teams performed very well at the Atlantic Sun Conference Championships held Oct. 27 at Florida Gulf Coast University. The women's team finished eighth out of 10 teams, with every runner attaining a personal best. The men's team finished sixth out of 10 teams. Sophomore JJ Webber finished sixth overall to earn first-team All-Atlantic Sun Conference honors and senior Brendan Chwalek finished tenth overall to earn second-team All-Atlantic Sun Conference honors.

- The men's and women's basketball seasons are now officially underway. The women's first game was last Friday night against a talented University of Cincinnati team and they played Monday against Miami of Ohio. The men officially tip off tonight at 10 p.m. against the University of San Diego. Our first home game will be on November 27, when the women take on Youngstown State in The Bank of Kentucky Center.

Concluding Remarks:

Mr. Chair, that concludes my report to the Board. This academic year has gotten off to a strong start, and I am proud of the progress we are making. I have often said that I was drawn to this position because of our university's greatest assets – our people. My first months on campus continue to reinforce this fact. We should all be very proud of our achievements.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee Summary: (Reports given by Dennis Repenning, Secretary)

2011-12 Annual Financial Report

Vice President Ramey and Comptroller Kerdolff presented highlights from the university's 2011-12 Annual Financial Report, including a review of the university's revenues, expenses, assets, liabilities and net assets.

- Operating revenues increased by $9 million in fiscal year 2012, including a $7.6 million increase in net tuition. NKU continues to receive less state appropriations per student than any other comprehensive university in Kentucky. NKU's state appropriations declined by $4.5 million last year and now represent only 23% of NKU's revenues.

- The university's fiscal year 2012 operating expenses per student were less than the national benchmarks and the other comprehensive universities in Kentucky.

- The changes in the university's assets, liabilities and net assets were discussed:

    - Assets grew by $21 million
    - Liabilities grew by $18 million. The review of liabilities included a comparison of NKU's debt capacity to the university's benchmarks.
    - Net assets increased by $3 million for the year primarily due to positive operating results.

Overall, the university's financial performance for fiscal year 2012 was very positive and further strengthened the institutions financial position.

Online Learning/Programs

Gail Wells, Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost, and Vicki Berling, Executive Director for Educational Outreach, provided an update regarding the university's online initiatives. As reported, online enrollment and course offerings have experienced dramatic growth over the past five years. Duplicate enrollment in online courses has grown from 2,098 in fall 2007 to 7,847 in fall 2012. The number of fully online majors has grown from 468 to 1,142 during that same time period. There are 21 fully online programs now offered.

The growth of online courses/programs is a strategic priority of the university. The intentional growth of these courses/programs has been supported by the addition of four new instructional designer positions in 2011-12; adoption of national guidelines for quality; ongoing faculty training opportunities; and a multitude of student support services. During this growth, the majority of students report they are satisfied with their online courses. NKU continues to address the challenges and opportunities facing online learning.

Center for Economic Analysis and Development

This morning we also heard from Janet Harrah, Senior Director of the Center for Economic Analysis and Development. The primary mission of the center, housed in the Haile/US Bank College of Business is to provide economic development research support for the Northern Kentucky region.

The center's research agenda has focused on three primary areas including developing a data warehouse and statistical analysis tools for Northern Kentucky; conducting economic and fiscal forecasting and impact analyses; and conducting research related to workforce development.

The center's latest research on workforce development highlights three key points:

- Talent drives economic prosperity. Not all jobs are equally important to economic growth. The road to Kentucky's long-term prosperity flows through its institutions of higher education.

- Occupations related to healthcare, education, business, finance and technology are projected to be among the fastest growing and best paying.

- Post-secondary education and training is necessary for entry into well-paying occupations.

The summary was presented by Secretary Dennis Repenning. Regent Virginia G. Fox seconded Regent Nathaniel Smith's motion to approve the report. (Motion carried)

Audit Committee Summary (Report given by Dennis Repenning, Secretary)

The audit committee met on September 28, 2012 with representatives of NKU's management team and the external auditors from Dean, Dorton, Allen and Ford. Lead Auditor, Crissy Fiscus, shared the university's audited financials with the committee and reviewed each of the subsequent disclosures and letters that must be filed with the state. As you heard this morning, the university received another clean audit with no qualifications. The audit committee had the opportunity to meet privately with the external auditors and Larry Meyer, the university's internal auditor.

I want to take this opportunity to publicly thank the internal audit staff -- Larry Meyer, Rachel Brueggen and Kristi Horine -- for their outstanding work on behalf of the board and university. Ms. Fiscus and her team praised Larry and his staff for their professionalism and assistance throughout the audit process.

The summary was presented by Secretary Dennis Repenning. Regent Nathaniel Smith seconded Regent Erik Pederson's motion to approve the report. (Motion carried)

Presidential Comments:

I'd like to wish each of you a happy and healthy New Year. I am confident that many great opportunities lie ahead in 2013 for the university. Two significant opportunities come to mind immediately.

First, 2013 will be a year of planning – and continuous progress. On Friday, we'll have our Spring Convocation. The purpose of this convocation is for me to talk about three topics. First, I will share the results from my listening tour and survey. I have held 24 listening sessions and received approximately 600 email responses to the survey I sent out in September. Second, I will share some of our accomplishments related to our current strategic plan, Points of Focus. Finally, I will share more information about the future strategic planning process, including the membership of our strategic plan steering committee. The strategic plan represents an important opportunity for us to focus our efforts and continue our progress on behalf of the university and our region. As important as the planning will be the execution of our plan. The plan is just the beginning. The most meaningful work will occur after the plan is adopted.

The second important opportunity that 2013 brings is the opening of the Student Success Center. The greatest opportunity is not the renovation of the building, but rather the synergy of our work across multiple divisions to best serve our students. We have been working for the past several months to cross-train the staff in the Student Success Center and to find joint opportunities in our work. The focus of everything that happens in the Center will be the support of our students. In addition to our collaborative efforts, we hope the Center will be a one-stop center for students. In terms of the facility, we are on track for occupancy of the plaza level in late February and anticipate we will have occupancy of the first floor level later this year.

I also wanted to share a few other important items:

Enrollment Management

We are monitoring our retention and new student applications for spring closely. As of Friday, our spring enrollment is consistent with budget projections. While we have slight declines in overall undergraduate and graduate enrollment, we have growth in undergraduate non-residents. New freshmen and new transfers are also up a bit.

Our fall 2013 numbers are trending up in every category. Freshman applications are up more than 40 percent and admitted students are up more than 45 percent. Most importantly, confirmation fees are up by nearly 100 students compared to this time last year.

Leadership Searches

As you know, we are currently in the process of searching for four major university leadership positions – Dean of the College of Education and Human Services, Dean of the Chase College of Law, Vice President for Student Affairs and Vice President for University Advancement.

Both dean searches are proceeding well. As of today, the pools are still being developed, and we anticipate that semifinalists will be identified later this month. We hope to have on-campus finalist interviews in March.

The VP for Student Affairs search is nearing completion. Finalists will be on campus this month. It is my intention to make a hiring decision by March 1.

Finally, we are in the initial phases of the VP for University Advancement search. Ken Ramey will be chairing this search, and I will appoint a search committee soon. I anticipate we will use a consultant for this search.

Graduation

We had an outstanding commencement last month with more graduates than in fall 2011. Overall, we believe we will have at least five percent growth in fall graduates. We hope to continue this positive trend with spring graduation.

Tobacco-Free Policy

In just a few minutes, I will ask you to take action on a tobacco-free policy. As was shared this morning, the University of Kentucky and Morehead State University are already tobacco-free and the University of Louisville is smoke-free. In the United States, 1,130 campuses are tobacco or smoke-free. This recommended action is consistent with the university's ongoing commitment to support and create an environment that is clean, healthy and safe for all members of the campus community. Approving this policy gives two charges to me and the university. They are:

1. To adopt a "tobacco-free" campus policy. The transition toward the policy adoption will be deliberate, with input from the campus community on how best to put our new policy into practice, ensuring that the needs of the university's varied constituents are fully understood. It is understood that this transition will take 12-18 months.

2. To appoint a Tobacco-Free Campus Task Force to provide recommendations for this transition, which will address, through the work of subcommittees, issues related to specific policy implementation plans. Such plans will reflect a commitment to respecting the voices and needs of all our campus constituents, including students, faculty, staff, visitors as well as our community neighbors.

I support this proposed policy. And, if you approve this recommendation, we are prepared to proceed with implementation.

In closing, I want to express my sincere appreciation to the members of the Strategic Planning Committee, as well as to the many other women and men who will serve on the various working groups. As you know, this process is vital to the future of our university, and I am grateful to all who are contributing to our success.

I also want to thank our faculty and staff who have been preparing diligently over the winter break for the start of the spring semester. The beginning of an academic term is always an opportunity for renewal and reinvigoration. We look forward to welcoming our students back on Monday.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee Summary: (Reports given by Dennis Repenning, Secretary)

Strategic Planning

This morning, President Mearns, Sue Hodges Moore (Vice President for Planning, Policy, and Budget) and Vickie Natale (Executive Director of Planning and Performance) made a presentation on the university's 2013 strategic planning process. They reviewed the steps that were undertaken this fall to seek feedback from the university about the upcoming process, which included a planning collaboration retreat as well as meetings with deans, chairs, leadership of the Staff Congress, Faculty Senate and Student Government Association, and directors and administrators. They also reviewed the key elements of strategic planning, guiding principles, role of the strategic planning committee and seven work groups, plans for stakeholder involvement, and the overall timeline. Finally, President Mearns introduced the members of the Strategic Planning Committee.

Tobacco Free Policy Presentation

Lori Southwood, Senior Director of Human Resources and Karen Campbell, Director of Wellness, presented an overview of the efforts to promote and adopt tobacco-free environments on college and university campuses across the nation. Discussion points highlighted current trends, health and economic impacts, and best practices related to tobacco-free policy adoption.

The presentation provided valuable information for the Board to evaluate and give full consideration for progressing towards adopting and implementing a tobacco-free campus policy within the next 12-18 months pursuant to our vote this afternoon. Such an effort would include the development of a broad task force that would be representative of a wide array of key stakeholders, who would work collaboratively to identify needs and concerns related to policy development, communication, tobacco treatment/cessation, compliance and neighborhood impacts.

Campus Beautification Presentation

This morning the Board heard a presentation from the Campus Beautification Committee which is comprised of Facilities Management staff from the custodial, grounds, horticulture and skilled trades areas. The committee was co-chaired by Mary Lee Schott, the university's interior designer and Ray Mirizzi, Director of Operations and Maintenance.

The committee was created at the request of President Mearns to consider ways to further enhance campus appearance. The committee recommended five possible projects: The addition of student artwork installations throughout campus; upgrades to the traffic circle on Nunn Drive; additional exterior campus directories that are multi-sided and internally illuminated; upgrades to the campus bus shelters; and the addition of exterior planters throughout campus including hanging baskets. Funding totaling $50,000 will be made available by President Mearns to begin implementation of these initiatives. The committee is to be commended for their efforts.

Sabbatical Presentations

This morning Dr. Gail Wells, Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost, presented an overview of the three faculty development programs offered at NKU – sabbatical leaves, summer fellowships, and project grants.

Dr. Miriam Kannan, Regents Professor, Department of Biological Sciences and Dr. Vanessa Hunn, Assistant Professor, Department of Counseling, Social Work and Leadership shared their recent professional development experiences with the Board.

A booklet summarizing 2011-12 faculty development award activities was shared with the Board.

The Board of Regents approved the report. (Motion carried)

Audit Committee Summary (Report given by Dennis Repenning, Secretary)

The audit committee met on January 8th with Larry Meyer, Director of the Financial and Operational Audit Office, Vice President Ken Ramey and President Mearns to discuss recent internal audit activity. This was one of three regularly scheduled meetings between the Internal Auditor and the Committee.

Larry provided a report on the activity completed by his office since our last meeting in September. He gave the committee an update on the progress made to correct the two recommendations submitted by our external auditors as part of their year-end testing. We anticipate that these items will be resolved before Dean Dorton returns for this year's audit. After this discussion Larry summarized the findings and recommendations for recently completed internal audits. He also gave the committee an update on the projects that are currently in process and a status update on follow-up testing for audits that were previously completed.

Finally, Larry reviewed a letter published by Dean Dorton Allen Ford that identified Best Practices for universities to consider for their internal control structure. NKU has already established these best practices but will continue to monitor their effectiveness.

Regent Virginia Fox seconded Regent Nathaniel Smith's motion to approve the report. (Motion carried)

Chair's Recommendation: Endowed Scholarship Naming

The naming of an endowed scholarship in support of students who are the first generation in their family to pursue an undergraduate degree and who have demonstrated a commitment to service of others: "The Mearns/Proud Family Endowed Scholarship."

The recommendation was presented by Chairman Terry Mann. Regent Erik Pederson seconded Regent Nathaniel Smith's motion to approve the recommendation. (Motion carried)

The Board of Regents hereby:

1. Approves the adoption of a "tobacco-free" campus policy. The transition towards the policy adoption will be deliberate, with input from the campus community on how best to put our new policy into practice, ensuring that the needs of the University's varied constituents are fully understood. It is understood that this transition could take twelve to eighteen months.

2. Directs the President to appoint a Tobacco Free Campus Task Force to provide recommendations for this transition, which will address, through the work of subcommittees, issues related to specific policy implementation plans. Such plans will reflect a commitment to respecting the voices and needs of all our campus constituents, including students, faculty, staff, visitors, as well as our community neighbors.

Presidential Comments:

Strategic Planning

As you heard this morning, our strategic planning process is well underway. Over the last several weeks, we have held 10 open forums with faculty, staff, and students to discuss strategic priorities. The forums have been well attended, and we have received lots of good ideas. We also had a joint meeting last week with the Alumni Association, Young Alumni Association, and past presidents of the Alumni Association. We have meetings scheduled with the NKU Foundation and many other community groups and business and civic leaders in the weeks and months to come.

In addition to face-to-face forums, we have offered other ways for people to provide their input. Our strategic planning website includes an online forum, and we have issued surveys to the campus community. We received 985 faculty and staff responses and more than 1700 student responses to our Mission, Vision, and Values survey.

We have organized seven work groups that are charged with looking at specific areas that will inform our plan. Each work group also has an email address that is accessible from our strategic planning website for campus and community feedback. The work groups are:

- Competitive Forces
- Demographic/Labor Market Forces
- Fiscal/Economic/Political Environment
- Institutional Trends & Vital Statistics
- Mission, Vision, Values Review
- Public Engagement Activities
- Technology Trends

These work groups include more than 100 faculty, staff, and student participants. They are presently working on reports that will help to inform the work of the strategic planning committee.

The work groups will also share their reports next week at a "stakeholder meeting." This meeting will bring together more than 100 members of the campus community to learn from our colleagues on the work groups.

In July, the committee will meet with the Board of Regents to discuss the strategic plan.

I am pleased to report that we are on schedule to present the proposed plan for your consideration at the November Board meeting.

Budget Development

On April 17, I will have a town hall meeting for the campus to share our progress on the 2013-2014 budget. The good news is that the university continues to operate on a solid financial foundation as evidenced by, among other things, our strong Moody's rating and favorable bond rates. But the external economic climate causes us to continue to budget conservatively and to continue to look for efficiencies.

These constraints will not prevent us from achieving our objectives, however. In fact, earlier this month, we received bonding authority from the state to start the renovation and expansion of the Campus Recreation Center and authority to purchase and renovate a residence hall. We intend to move forward with both projects. In addition to benefiting our students, the projects will create more than 800 construction jobs and provide $90,000,000 in economic impact.

Executive Searches

We have concluded one executive search, we are in the process of finalizing two dean searches, and we will soon begin two more executive searches.

- As you know, we have hired Dr. Peter Gitau as our next Vice President for Student Affairs. Dr. Gitau is here today and I'd like to take this opportunity to formally introduce him to the Board and our guests. Dr. Gitau is coming to us from Southern Illinois University-Carbondale where he is the senior student affairs officer. Dr. Gitau brings a wealth of experience and places high priority on partnerships with other areas of the campus, particularly with our faculty and the staff within Academic Affairs. He will officially join our community on April 1. Peter, thank you for being with us today.

- We are in the final stages of the searches for the Dean of the College of Law and the Dean of the College of Education and Human Services. Three law dean finalists have visited campus. The Provost and I met with the search committee on Friday, and we will make a decision very soon. We have one more finalist for Dean of the College of Education and Human Services visiting campus next week.

- I have selected the members of the search committees for the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost and the Vice President for University Advancement. Once all members of each committee accept their appointment, I will announce the composition of the committees to the campus.

These searches are very important to our university.. I'd like to thank the committee chairs, committee members, and especially the campus community for the work you've done and the work yet to come.

All of these efforts have been challenging and rewarding. But I want to say just a few words about some of the most enjoyable activities since I became president: my contact with…Our Outstanding Students.

One of the things I have most enjoyed over the last several months is the opportunity to get to know our students better. More than 100 students participated in open forums during the past month. Their passion, dedication, and affection for NKU was evident.

I have had an opportunity to meet many more students at our men's and women's basketball games – including our final home games of the season, which drew 6,700 fans. I have had the pleasure of meeting with the women's basketball team and having breakfast with the volleyball team. By the way, the volleyball team had the highest GPA last semester – an impressive 3.64.

Two weeks ago, I had lunch with the casts and crew from Legally Blonde and Grease. I hope you had an opportunity to see their productions. They were fantastic.

Last week I attended a concert that featured many of our students and a band named Harpeth Rising. The music was phenomenal.

I have also had the pleasure of attending several honor society induction ceremonies in the past two weeks.

And last week, I was a guest on Norse Code Radio, the student run campus radio station.

These are just some of the experiences with students that I have had during the first weeks of this semester. I continue to be impressed and inspired by our talented students and our dedicated faculty and staff. I am honored to be your president.

Mr. Mann, that concludes my report.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee Summary: (Reports given by Regent Brenda Wilson, Vice Chair)

Budget

Dr. Sue Hodges Moore, VP for Planning, Policy and Budget, and Ken Kline, Budget Director, presented an overview of the state budget environment. The state's current budget structure continues to be unsustainable. State funding for higher education has been reduced significantly over the past 15 years contributing significantly to the large tuition increases we have seen in public higher education. NKU receives the least amount of state funding per student of any of the KY public 4 year institutions and relies heavily on tuition revenue. Proposed tuition rate increases will be presented in the May Board of Regents meeting.

Public Engagement at NKU

This morning we heard a presentation on public engagement at NKU. The presentation was led by Dr. Jan Hillard, Associate Provost for Research, Graduate Studies & Regional Stewardship and included:

- Matt Kelley & Steve Oldfield, students in the Public History program
- Scott Fennell, Director of the Center for Applied Ecology
- Mark Neikirk, Exec. Director of the Scripps Howard Center
- Julie Olberding, Associate Professor, Department of Political Science, Criminal Justice, Organizational Leadership

The presentation provided an overview of the scope and value of student, faculty and staff public engagement activities to the region and to the university. The presentation included examples of public engagement efforts from across the University including:

- Public history projects carried out by the Center for Public History;

- An ecological stewardship program from the Center for Applied Ecology, and;
- Two programs led by the Scripps Howard Center for Civic Engagement

Faculty Research

Dr. Cecile Marczinski, a faculty member from the department of psychological science, presented to us about her most recent research initiative related to alcoholic drink mixers and their impact on intoxication levels. Her research has received national and international media attention. Over 100 news outlets covered the study, including an interview featured on CNN. Dr. Marczinski stated that NKU is poised and ready to make our impact known locally, nationally, and internationally for our research, innovation, and creative activities.

Student Success Center

Finally, the Board took a tour of the main level of the Student Success Center. The space has been transformed to be a hub for student involvement and activity. We heard from senior leaders of Norse Advising, Career Services, and Information Technology. In addition to describing the physical transformation of the space, the presenters discussed the re-engineering of their work to best meet the needs of NKU students and help them be successful in both their academics and in their careers. The mission of the Student Success Center is to serve as a seamless and streamlined experience to equip and empower students for success.

The Board of Regents approved the report. (Motion carried)

Policy Subcommittee Report: (Report given by Regent Elizabeth Thompson)

In July, Chairman Mann appointed a Policy Subcommittee consisting of Regent Fox, Regent Wilson, Regent Boehne and myself. The subcommittee was charged with determining whether the university's policies or procedures related to the Board of Regents' oversight should be revised in light of the July 12, 2012 Pennsylvania State University Freeh Report.

The subcommittee made eight recommendations which have been shared with the board and the president. Several of these recommendations are already underway. Other recommendations were forwarded to the Bylaws Subcommittee for their review and further consideration.

The work of the Policy Subcommittee is now complete. I would like to thank the board members who served. I would also like to thank President Mearns, Vice President Sidebottom, Vice President Ramey and Auditor Larry Meyer who provided additional knowledge and expertise.

Regent Marty Butler seconded Regent Erik Pederson's motion to approve the report. (Motion carried)

Bylaws Subcommittee Report: (Report given by Regent Terry Mann)

In January, I appointed a Bylaws Subcommittee consisting of Regent Emerine, Regent Pederson and myself. The subcommittee was tasked with reviewing our bylaws with an eye towards both modernization and policy updates.

The subcommittee met two times and has made several recommendations. These recommendations have been shared with each of you.

According to our bylaws, "The bylaws may be amended at any regular meeting by the Board of Regents by a majority vote of all the members of the Board provided the proposed amendment or amendments have been submitted in writing to the Board at least one meeting prior to the meeting upon which the amendment or amendments are to be voted upon."

Please take the next two to three weeks to review the bylaws and send any questions or feedback to Katie. Katie will compile the feedback and send it to the subcommittee. I will provide a report at the May meeting and then ask for the Board's vote on the updated bylaws.

Presidential Comments:

Leadership Transitions/Searches

As we approach the end of an excellent academic year, we must prepare for some transitions. In that regard, I express my appreciation to Gerry St. Amand. Today is Gerry's last official Board of Regents meeting in his capacity as Vice President for University Advancement. Gerry's transition to the law school faculty will take place later this summer. As you know very well, Gerry has been an outstanding addition to the University's leadership team. He is a person of integrity, and he has always been willing to assist in whatever way possible – as demonstrated by his willingness to chair two search committees this year and to serve briefly as the acting athletic director. Gerry is the personification of a servant leader.

I am going to miss Gerry's wisdom and his sound advice. Gerry, thank you for your commitment to our University. And thank you for your assistance to me.

As we prepare for commencement, we simultaneously welcome new members of the NKU community.

I am pleased to welcome Dr. Peter Gitau, our new Vice President for Student Affairs, to his first official Board meeting. Peter joined us at our March meeting, but he didn't officially start until April 1. Peter, welcome.

I am also pleased to welcome and introduce Dr. Michael Cusack, our new interim Director of Athletics. Mike has been busy meeting with coaches, staff, faculty and our student-athletes. We are fortunate that he is willing to assist us during this time of transition. Mike, welcome. And thank you.

As you know, we recently completed our search for the new Dean of the Chase College of Law. I have appointed Jeffrey Standen as the new Dean, and he will start on July 1. I look forward to introducing him to you at the September meeting.

I have also appointed three search committees to assist us in identifying outstanding candidates for Vice President for University Advancement, for Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, and for Athletics Director. All three committees are meeting regularly.

My goals are to announce the appointment of the new AD on or before July 1, to announce the appointment of the new VP for Advancement on or before September 1, and to announce the appointment of the new Provost on or before November 1.

These timelines are aggressive, and these are important positions. But I am confident that we will continue to attract outstanding men and women to serve our University.

Budget

As you heard this morning, our budget for the next academic year will be balanced and stable. We continue to budget our resources prudently. In order to achieve our institutional objectives, though, we need more state support. We may also need to consider reallocating some existing resources to align more fully with these objectives. This possibility is especially important as we contemplate the completion of our strategic plan and begin to implement that plan.

At the Spring Budget Address, I announced that we are able to invest in a modest 1.5% salary increase for our faculty and staff. This increase is well deserved, because we have often asked our employees to do more with fewer financial resources. I remain committed to investing in our greatest asset – our people.

Enrollment

While we have built our budget on the assumption that overall enrollment will be the same as last year, there is some reason to be cautiously optimistic that we may have some modest growth. The principal reason for this optimism is that our incoming freshman class is looking very strong.

Let me give you some statistics. Compared to last year, applications for Fall 2013 increased by more than 30%. As of May 1, the number of prospective freshmen who have made a financial deposit to confirm their acceptance increased 18% compared to last year. And this incoming class, as measured by median ACT score, is very likely to be the most academically prepared in our university's history.

Strategic Planning Update

Speaking of the future, let me give you a brief update on our ongoing strategic planning process. Last week, nearly 100 members of our campus community came together for a half-day meeting to discuss the progress on our strategic plan and to participate in a visioning exercise.

In this exercise, we asked participants to envision NKU five years from now - after the university has successfully implemented our new strategic plan. I told them to assume that the university is going to be featured on the front page of a newspaper. I asked each of the nine groups to outline the article that they would write about our university's achievements. The nine stories are displayed on the boards in this room. The responses were creative, and at times humorous. But most importantly, they reflect the collective optimism in our future.

After holding ten open forums on campus, I have begun to meet with many external groups including the NKU Alumni Association, the NKU Foundation, the Covington Business Council, CEOs of large and mid-size companies, Northern Kentucky business leaders, state and local elected officials, and many more. These meetings will continue throughout the Summer.

Since we began this process in January, we have made great progress. I look forward to providing you with a more complete report at the retreat in July. At that time, we will also receive your input and direction on a preliminary outline of the strategic plan.

Plaza Renovation

As part of the budget presentation, you heard a brief description of our plan to renovate the north half of the main University Plaza. I am pleased that we will be able to complete this important project in time to welcome our students back in the Fall. In addition to providing more green space and landscaping, the project will remove the concrete that is deteriorating there. Many faculty, staff, and students have told me that this project is important and beneficial. It will be a tangible investment in our increasingly beautiful campus.

Celebration of Student Research and Creativity

This morning, you also heard three engaging presentations from some of our undergraduate and graduate students. Their work is inspiring. Each of these students, and 593 others, participated in the University's Celebration of Student Research and Creativity. This celebration was the largest in the event's history – and virtually every discipline on campus participated. I'd like to congratulate the students for their outstanding work, and I am very grateful to the many faculty who served as mentors. I was proud to see this level of research and creativity on our campus. I'd also like to thank the co-chairs who made this effort possible – Dr. Judy Voelker and Dr. Steve Walker – and their committee for their many hours of hard work.

Faculty Recognition

As you know, we have a very talented faculty. I'd like to recognize three faculty members today for outstanding accomplishments.

In just a few minutes, I will ask you to approve naming Dr. Michael Carrell as a Regents Professor. Dr. Carrell is a Professor of Management, the former Dean of our Haile/US Bank College of Business, and the Founding Director of the Alternative Dispute Resolution Center. He is a nationally known expert in alternative dispute resolution. I'd like to congratulate Dr. Carrell on this well-deserved honor.

The Cincinnati Enquirer recently recognized Cindy Foster, Associate Professor in the Department of Advanced Nursing Studies and Director of the Nurse Advocacy Center for the Underserved, as one of the Women of the Year. Professor Foster was recognized for her efforts related to providing healthcare to underserved people in our community, including many veterans. Professor Foster is also an Air Force veteran. This recognition is a testament to Professor Foster's important work in our community on behalf of the University. Congratulations.

And of particular personal interest, I'd like to recognize Dr. P.J. Ball. Dr. Ball was in the newspaper this weekend for an outstanding achievement. In addition to teaching chemistry at NKU, she is also an avid runner. Dr. Ball placed 3rd in the women's division at the Flying Pig Marathon on Sunday with a time of 3:00:34.

Student Success Center

At the March meeting, we had an opportunity to visit the newly renovated Student Success Center. In April, we celebrated the soft opening of the facility. By all accounts, the Center is a vibrant addition to our campus and a place where students can go to get virtually any question answered. It is a substantial investment in student success.

On September 11, we will have an official grand opening. At that time, the transformation of the bottom level of the University Center will also be complete.

Athletics

Last week, we announced some of our Fall and Winter sports schedules. Our men's basketball team will play at Purdue University, at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and last, but not least, at the University of Kentucky. In addition, we will have a number of home non-conference games this year. We will host the University of San Diego, Hampton University, Navy, and Morehead State University. The strength of this schedule is external validation of the quality and character of our entire intercollegiate athletics program.

Commencement

On Saturday, we will celebrate commencement during three ceremonies. More than 1,600 men and women will cross the stage and realize their goal of graduating. I look forward to shaking each graduate's hand and congratulating them on their achievement. I hope that a large number of our faculty join us on this special day.

At the morning ceremony, our speaker and honorary degree recipient is Dr. Freeman Hrabowski III. Dr. Hrabowski has served as president of the University of Maryland, Baltimore County since 1992. He was recently named by President Obama to chair the newly created President's Advisory Commission on Educational Excellence for African Americans.

The speaker for the afternoon ceremony is Ms. Mary Zalla, Chief Executive Officer of Landor Associates, a branding and market positioning strategy consulting firm. She is a 1987 NKU alumna.

The Chase speaker and honorary degree recipient is Mr. W. Bruce Lunsford. Mr. Lunsford is the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Lunsford Capital, LLC, a private investment company headquartered in Louisville, Kentucky. He is a 1974 graduate of Salmon P. Chase College of Law.

Board Leadership Change

Finally, I would like to express my appreciation to two special people. At the beginning of this meeting, I expressed my appreciation to Regent Marty Butler for 11 years of service on our Board of Regents. Today is Mr. Butler's last board meeting. Mr. Butler, thank you for your years of dedicated service to the University and your many contributions to the Board. Our University is a stronger institution because of your leadership and commitment. On a personal note, Marty, I want to thank you for the critical role you played in providing me with the opportunity to join this university. Thank you.

And, today marks the last on-campus opportunity to recognize Regent Mann's service as our Board Chair. Mr. Mann, thank you for your leadership over the past two years during what has been a very important time for the university. Thank you for your steady leadership and your willingness to serve so ably. And thank you, Terry, for giving me the opportunity to serve.

Mr. Mann, that concludes my report.

President Mearns, Dr. Sue Hodges Moore, Vice President for Planning, Policy & Budget, and Ken Kline, Senior Director, Budget Office, provided an overview of the 2013-14 annual operating budget, and proposed tuition rates and fees for 2013-14. the library, and a grant administrative support position (two-year commitment). Undergraduate resident tuition is recommended to increase at 2.7%; 85% of NKU students receive financial aid.

Student Research

We heard from three outstanding students this morning about their research interests. Their projects included a research on widows in India, Copper Production in Prehistoric Thailand, and a cultural history of Cincinnati's public stairways. It was inspiring to see their enthusiasm and the high level of dedication that they have given to their projects.

Audit Committee Summary (Report given by Dennis Repenning, Secretary)

The Audit Committee met yesterday as part of our regular meeting schedule.

Auditor Meyer outlined current projects his office is working on. Of particular interest to the board is the Compliance Officer Search. The job description has been posted and a number of well-qualified individuals have applied.

Presidential Comments:

Enrollment

As you heard this morning, our incoming freshman class is very strong. Compared to last year, we enrolled about 140 more freshman this year than last year. And most importantly, the average ACT score for the incoming cohort is 23.3 compared to 22.7 last year.

But we must continue to focus on our retention rate. As you know, we have implemented a number of measures, most notably the Student Success Center, to help improve our retention rate. The preliminary retention number for this year shows a slight increase over last year. We have made some modest progress, but frankly not enough.

Strategic Plan

We continue to make good progress on our strategic plan. On August 30, I sent an email to the campus community that outlined our progress to date. I also shared the draft plan, and I invited the campus to join me and the member of the Strategic Planning Committee at one of five open forums to provide input and feedback. We are also gathering feedback from an online form for those who are not able to attend one of the open meetings. We remain on schedule to share a final draft of the plan with the Board at your November meeting.

Construction Projects

We are also making progess on our major construction projects. Earlier this summer, we began the renovation of the north end of the Central Plaza. This project will complete the transformation of the entire plaza into a welcoming gathering space with more trees and plants, a second outdoor amphitheatre, and a water feature. This is a project that students enthusiastically supported. We expect that the renovation will be completed in later this year.

And just as we finish up the plaza, we expect that our next major project will commence. In December, we will begin preparations for the renovation and expansion of the Albright Health Center. This project will nearly double the available space in the Campus Recreation Center and will allow for needed upgrades to the HVAC and other critical building systems. At a minimum, we expect that this renovation will earn a LEED silver designation. The expansion will also feature the first geothermal unit on our campus. The pool will be completely heated by the geothermal system and we expect that approximately 15% of the building will also be heated and cooled by the system.

For the first several weeks of this semester, Lakeside Terrace, our newest residence hall, housed students in temporary assignments. Now that those students have permanent assignments, we will begin the process of renovating the facility. When completed, the facility will house approximately 200 students. We anticipate that this residence hall will be open for the start of the Fall 2014 academic year.

As you know, the university owns several acres near the Nunn Drive entrance to campus. For years, it has been our intent to work cooperatively with a private company to develop that land into a mixed-use property. Ideas for use have included everything from restaurants to hotels to high end office space for businesses that complement our academic offerings and would offer internships and job opportunities for our students. Recently, we circulated an RFI, or Request for Information, to developers to gather ideas and feedback. We anticipate releasing an RFP, or Request for Proposal, in the near future. This project will be a front door to the university and an attractive development.

Tobacco Free

Starting on January 1, with your support, NKU will be a tobacco free campus. A comprehensive awareness campaign began last month. In addition to the banners, elevator wraps, and other signage, the University is also offering smoking cessation options. Several workgroups of faculty, staff, and students have been working on the many aspects of the implementation of our new policy.

NKU Board of Regents Meeting
September 11, 2013

Faculty Excellence

This year the University welcomed 55 new full-time faculty and 69 new part-time faculty. I'd like to offer a special welcome to these men and women and thank them for their commitment to the academic growth and success of our students. I am grateful for the constructive and collaborative relationship with my faculty colleagues, and I look forward to continuing our important work together.

I would also like to offer my congratulations to faculty members Dana Harley, Willie Elliott, Karen Tapp, and James Canfield from our Social Work department in the College of Education and Human Services. These received an award for Innovative Teaching in Social Work Education by the Council on Social Work Education. The Council was very impressed with their work in photovoice, a research methodology that combines photography and narrative description.

New Faces

In addition to new faculty, we have also welcomed some new administrators. I am pleased to welcome Ken Bothof, our new Athletics Director, Jeff Standen, the Dean of the Chase College of Law, and Eric Gentry, the Vice President for University Advancement who will join us at the November meeting. Mr. Gentry will start on October 1.

As you know, we also have several other searches underway. Later this month, the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost Search Committee will meet with semi-finalist candidates. They will work to narrow the list to three or four candidates for on campus interviews. We are presently targeting dates in October for these interviews. This position is very important for the entire campus and the committee will provide regular updates about their progress and information about the finalists.

We are also in the beginning stages of searches for several dean positions. I will inform the campus community as committees are formed and their work begins.

I am confident that we will continue to attract outstanding people to serve our university and our community.

The year is off to a very good start. I remain grateful for the opportunity to serve with you.

Regent Repenning, that concludes my report.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee Summary: (Reports given by Regent Nathaniel Smith, Secretary)

Student Presentation

John Crum, senior Biology major, presented his research on new genes that play a role in cancer development. His research contributes to early diagnosis and development of potential new treatments. John discussed the data he has produced that provides evidence that the gene MSH5 may impact cancer risk and the future questions that need to be addressed to confirm these findings.

Executive Dashboard

Sue Hodges Moore, Vice President for Planning, Policy, and Budget; Geoff Mearns, President; and Vickie Natale, Executive Director, Planning and Performance, gave a presentation on the executive dashboard with updates on how the university is performing on the metrics. The University has made progress on 18 out of 22 metrics, with seven of the targets set for 2014-15 already met. With the current strategic planning process underway, the president has identified a team to evaluate the metrics and recommend changes to the executive dashboard in support of the goals and objectives identified in the new 2013-18 strategic plan. Updates to the executive dashboard will be provided with the presentation of the strategic plan at our November meeting.

Enrollment

Provost Wells gave a presentation focused on the enrollment for fall 2013. The 2013 entering class is the best prepared in NKU's history, with an average high school GPA of 3.30 and an average ACT of 23.3. This class also benefitted from a new rolling scholarship process that yielded 820 freshmen enrolling with institutional merit scholarship funds, as compared to 488 last fall. Provost Wells concluded that the intentional enrollment strategy over the last three years to attract and enroll high achieving students has positioned NKU well for the future.

Alternative Dispute

Dr. Michael Carrell, Regents Professor and Director of the Alternative Dispute Resolution Center, provided an overview of the center's history and services. The mission of the Alternative Dispute Resolution Center is to promote the peaceful, effective resolution of disputes in the under-served markets and the public sector of the northern Kentucky region. The Center provides services for several major organizations, including the City of Covington, the Greater Louisville Metropolitan Government, and the Kentucky Department of Labor.

Student Success Center/Focus

Pat Moynahan, Vice Provost, and Ryan Padgett, Assistant Vice President for Student Success and Assessment, shared a brief update regarding the integration of student services in the new Student Success Center. The Board then adjourned to attend the Grand Opening ceremony.

Audit Committee Summary (Report given by Nathaniel Smith, Secretary)

The Audit Committee met yesterday as part of our regular meeting schedule. Members of the Audit Committee met with Larry Meyer, Director of the Financial and Operational Audit Office, President Mearns and Vice President Ken Ramey to discuss recent internal audit activity. This was one of three regularly scheduled meetings between the internal auditor and the committee.

Mr. Meyer provided a report on the activity completed by his office since the last meeting in May. He summarized the findings and recommendations for recently completed audits including University Housing, Bursar Operations and Institutional Research. He also gave the committee an update on the projects that are on schedule to be completed before this committee's next meeting.

Mr. Meyer and the committee discussed the 2013-14 internal audit plan. The plan is a result of a risk assessment process that internal audit completed during the Spring with input from university management. Fifteen new audit projects are included on this year's schedule.

At the conclusion of the meeting the audit committee had the opportunity to meet privately with Mr. Meyer.

Presidential Comments:

New Provost

Two weeks ago, I announced that I have selected Sue Ott Rowlands as our next Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. I am very pleased to welcome Sue to our team. I know that she will provide excellent leadership across our entire campus. Sue is presently the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences at Virginia Tech. She will join us on January 6. She looks forward to meeting you at the Board of Regents meeting on January 8.

Dean Searches

As you know, we are in the process for searching for three new academic deans: the College of Arts and Sciences, the Haile/US Bank College of Business, and the College of Education and Human Services. Search committees are now in place for each of these positions. We have also retained Isaacson Miller to assist us with these three searches. The search committees are presently developing job descriptions and recruitment materials, and building strong candidate pools. We anticipate interviewing finalists in the Spring. We will welcome the new deans in July.

Strategic Plan

As you heard this morning, over the last 11 months, the campus community has engaged in an extensive and thorough strategic planning process. Hundreds of faculty, staff, and students attended open forums in the Spring and Fall semesters to contribute their ideas on what should be included in our five-year strategic plan. Nearly 2,000 students and 1,000 faculty and staff completed a comprehensive survey online that asked what is important to NKU and what should be important. In addition, more than 100 faculty, staff, students, and community members served on work groups to provide detailed analyses on trends and issues impacting the university. We also conducted more than 20 meetings with external constituents to recognize the needs of our community and regional employers. This participatory process has been transparent. The end result is something that we should all be proud of.

This morning, I presented the results of these efforts to you. Our strategic plan identifies a clear, succinct mission with a vision for 2018 that will guide our work over the next five years. The strategic plan includes the goals and directions to enable us to achieve that ambitious vision.

As I have said before, though, our work does not end today. Today the real hard work begins, because the implementation of the plan is the most important part of this entire process. Indeed, the implementation is what will make our university distinctive and what will bring us success when we celebrate our achievements in 2018.

The committee has invested an extraordinary amount of time into this project. I'd like to thank each of them for their dedication, time, and thoughtful input. I'd also like to thank Sue Hodges Moore, Vickie Natale, and Kerri Beach for their outstanding support of the committee.

Faculty Excellence

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate Dr. Linda Wermeling, associate professor of social work. Dr. Wermeling was recently selected as a Fulbright Specialist. The Fulbright program helps connect scholars in the United States with colleagues overseas for collaborative projects. Dr. Wermeling has routinely worked with international social work scholars. She has previously participated in projects in Cuba and Moldova. As part of her Fulbright responsibilities, Dr. Wermeling will work with a university in Romania on curriculum development and international social work education standards. Congratulations Dr. Wermeling. Thank you for bringing honor and prestige to our university.

Enrollment Management

I have previously reported on the strength of our freshman class. I am pleased to report that we are continuing our efforts to recruit both outstanding first year students and outstanding transfer students. Last month, NKU and Gateway announced a major new partnership. The Gateway2NKU program will allow students to transfer seamlessly from Gateway to NKU to earn a four-year degree in four years. There are 25 identified degree pathways and advisors at both Gateway and NKU who work directly with students to ensure an efficient transfer process. We expect to increase the number of transfers from Gateway to NKU, and we anticipate partnering with other Kentucky Community and Technical College Schools and regional community colleges to expand this program.

Last Spring, a group of superintendents expressed interest in enhancing our School Based Scholars Program. This program allows high school students to take NKU classes in their high schools or at the university. I met with several superintendents earlier this year and as a result of their feedback, I recently approved the recommendations of a joint task force of school-district personnel and NKU staff to enhance our School-Based Scholars program. The revisions are intended to increase access to dual-credit courses for students throughout our service region. Specific program changes included: reducing the price from $337 per course to $225 per course, effective Fall 2013. This change resulted in an immediate savings of $83,778 for participating families, increased to eight the number of courses that can be completed through NKU at the discounted rate, and waived the application fee for SBS students who apply to NKU. We are presently working with school districts on a plan to help their teachers add the credentials necessary to teach college content in their schools, and we are working to develop an innovative hybrid approach that will team NKU faculty with high school teachers to provide intensive online content specifically for high school students. The first course will be piloted in Spring 2014 with approximately 50 students from five high schools.

Further, as part of the Strategic Planning process, we have identified an enrollment management implementation team to continue to work on new student, transfer, and graduate enrollment strategies. The group is being led by Joel Robinson, our Interim Assistant Vice President for Enrollment Management. I look forward to sharing more about their work at an upcoming meeting.

Tobacco Free/Commitment to Wellness

Earlier this year, the Board of Regents voted unanimously to adopt a tobacco-free campus policy and to develop recommendations for the implementation of this policy. Over the past 11 months, faculty, staff, and students have worked diligently on multiple aspects of this policy and plan. This afternoon, I will ask you to approve our tobacco free policy. The policy explicitly states that the Northern Kentucky University community deserves a healthy place in which to learn, work, live, and visit. Going tobacco-free is a major health initiative that reflects our commitment to a healthy campus.

Athletics

I am very pleased to announce that we have captured our first A-Sun championship. J.J. Webber, a junior majoring in nursing, and a cross country runner finished first in the eight kilometer race. Overall the team finished second. Additionally, Mr. Webber was named the A-Sun Runner of the Year. This is a strong accomplishment for our team, and we have much to continue to look forward to.

Thank You

Mr. Chairman, before I finish my remarks, I want to take a moment to recognize a major transition at the University. In just about 45 days, Gail Wells will finish a nearly ten-year term as NKU's Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. That is a remarkable achievement. Gail has also dedicated many more years of her career to NKU as a professor, Chair of the Department of Mathematics and Computer Science, and Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. In all, her service to the university has spanned more than three decades. I'd like to thank Gail for her commitment and counsel. She has been instrumental in helping the university grow and expand, and it is difficult to find an area where she hasn't made a significant difference. On December 3, we will host a lunch recognizing and thanking Gail for her service. At that time, many of us will share more thoughts about her contributions. Until then, Gail, thank you for your service, and thank you for your commitment to our faculty, staff, students, and our community.

A. Joint Finance and Policy Committee Summary: (Reports given by Regent Nathaniel Smith, Secretary)

Chase College of Law

This morning Jeffrey Standen, Dean of the Chase College of Law, shared an overview of the College. Lawrence Rosenthal, Associate Dean, and Nate Lennon, student, highlighted some of the College's student accomplishments, including moot court competitions and the prestigious victory in the Scribes "Best Brief of the Year" competition.

Strategic Plan

This morning, President Mearns presented the 2013-18 Strategic Plan. The plan includes revised Mission, Vision, and Core Values, as well as the goals, objectives, and strategic directions for the next five years. President Mearns recapped the extensive involvement of faculty, staff, students, and community members in the planning process over the past 11 months. Our five primary goals will focus on: Student Success; Talent Development; Academic Innovation; Community Engagement; and Institutional Excellence. The campus will begin forming teams to work on implementation plans, and metrics and targets will be presented to the Board at the March meeting. President Mearns thanked the members of the Strategic Planning Committee for their diligence and hard work on drafting the plan.

Annual Financials

Vice President Ramey and Comptroller Kerdolff presented highlights from the University's 2012-13 Annual Financial Report, including a review of the University's revenues, expenses, assets, liabilities and net position.

The University's financial performance for fiscal year 2013 was very positive. The University continued to make significant progress in building its capacity to serve the needs of our students while managing the fiscal challenges of declining state and federal funding. The University is in a strong financial position as it launches a new five-year strategic plan.

Construction Update

This morning the Board received a report on the status of the recreation center project by the University Architect, Mr. Steve Nienaber, and the Recreation Center Project Manager, Mr. Rob Knarr. The outdoor recreation field portion of the project is now complete and the fields are open.

We also received an update on the status of the renovation/expansion of the Albright Health Center Building. This portion of the project will double the size of the existing recreation space in the building and open it to provide natural light throughout the space. The building will be constructed to achieve LEED Silver certification. The new construction portion of the project and the pool water will be conditioned using a geothermal system, the first significant installation of a renewably energy source on our campus.

Audit Committee Summary (Report given by Nathaniel Smith, Secretary)

The Audit Committee met on September 27th with representatives from the accounting firm Dean Dorton Allen Ford to review the University's 2012-13 financial statements. Also in attendance were President Mearns, Vice President Ken Ramey, Comptroller Russ Kerdolff and representatives from the University's accounting, internal auditing offices. Crissy Fiscus, from DDAF, led the review and discussion.

Ms. Fiscus discussed all matters related to the audit that they are required to communicate to the Audit Committee in accordance with auditing standards. Presidential Comments:

New Provost:

It is my pleasure to welcome and to introduce you to Sue Ott Rowlands, our new Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost. As you know, Provost Ott Rowlands comes to us from Virginia Tech, where she was the dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Human Sciences, one of Virginia Tech's largest colleges.

I am pleased that Sue is joining our team. She will provide outstanding leadership for Academic Affairs and for the entire campus.

Enrollment Update:

Preliminary Spring semester data indicate that our enrollment is down slightly when compared with last year at this same time. But, students are continuing to enroll this week prior to the beginning of classes on Monday. I am pleased with the continued growth among diverse populations of students. Preliminary Spring enrollment data indicate that Latino student enrollment is up 10% over last year, African-American student enrollment is up 4%, and the enrollment of students identifying two or more races is up nearly 11%.

In addition, the outlook for Fall 2014 enrollment is positive. Presently, applications from new freshmen for the Fall are up 14% and new transfer applications are up 9%, compared with last year. So far, we have received nearly 7,200 applications from new freshmen.

Dean Search Update:

Our three academic dean searches are progressing well. Each of the dean search committees is presently evaluating preliminary candidates. The committees will conduct semi-finalist interviews in late February or early March. On-campus interviews are tentatively scheduled for late March and early April. I anticipate that our new deans will start in July. More information about the searches will be available on the college websites.

We are also in the process of searching for a new Associate Provost for Research and Dean of Graduate Studies. The committee is actively working to generate a strong pool of qualified candidates. The committee anticipates that on-campus interviews of the finalists will take place in late March or early April.

Athletics Update:

Our winter sports are well underway. This year, a number of our athletes have already been honored as the A-Sun Athlete of the Week.

- Women's basketball player Melody Doss was named Atlantic Sun Conference Player of the Week three times during the first four weeks of the season and earned her fourth Player of the Week honor this week.
- Jalen Billups was named Atlantic Sun Conference Player of the week in men's basketball after leading the Norse to an overtime win against Tulane. Jalen was also featured on ESPN SportsCenter's Top 10 for his dunk against the University of North Carolina. And his teammate, Daniel Camps, was featured on the Top 10 for his dunk against Florida Gulf Coast University.
- NKU track and field team member Danny Keller was named Atlantic Sun Conference Athlete of the Week in December after setting the school record in shot.
- J.J. Webber was a four-time Atlantic Sun Conference Runner of the Week during the cross-country season. The junior had three first-place finishes this year, including an individual win at the Atlantic Sun Conference championships in Nashville. These honors led to J.J. being named the Atlantic Sun Runner of the Year.
- Goalkeeper A.J. Fleak was named the Atlantic Sun Conference Defensive Player of the Week in men's soccer. A.J. was honored for his game winning goal – you heard that right. He scored an improbable goal after he punted the ball from the Norse goal. The ball bounced over the opposing goalie and clinched the win for the Norse.
- Finally, goalkeeper Tanner Ruberg was named the Atlantic Sun Conference Defensive Player of the Week for women's soccer following the season's opening weekend, posting a 13-save performance in a scoreless draw against in-state rival Murray State.

Legislative Session:

The annual Kentucky legislative session started yesterday. Between now and April 15, the legislature will develop the state's biennial budget. In addition to our normal discussions around university operating funds and capital funds, we will be very engaged in discussions related to the Kentucky Employee Retirement System. If this year's KERS increase is not funded, NKU's contribution to the state retirement system will increase by approximately $5 million. This increase is in addition to increases in the University's other fixed costs, which are unavoidable.

Bond Sale:

The University received some very good news about our bond sale for the renovation of the recreation center and our newly acquired residence hall, Northern Terrace (formerly known as Lakeside Terrace).

A record number of bidders competed for these bonds. The final interest rate, including closing costs, will be 3.73%. That interest rate is substantially lower than our fiscal agent had anticipated; our fiscal agent had estimated 4.35%, based on current market conditions and similar offerings. As a result of this lower rate, our total expense for interest and principal over the life of the bonds will be approximately $4.3M less than we had projected.

This result was the product of many positive attributes of NKU and the work of many good people. And it demonstrates the confidence that external professionals have in the future of our University.

Health Innovations Center:

The health innovations center continues to be one of the University's top priorities. I am presently leading a small group to refine the concept. Soon, I will establish an internal working group and an external advisory group to help determine the programmatic and funding plans. We aspire to build a facility that will enable students, faculty, and practitioners in health disciplines to teach, learn, and conduct research in innovative and collaborative ways to help the public make better, more informed decisions about their health and well-being.

January Convocation:

On Friday, during the January Convocation, I will share information about the Strategic Plan implementation teams and plans. The entire campus community is invited to this important gathering at 9:00 am in the Student Union Ballroom. I will discuss the bright future of our University as we embark on the path that will lead us to 2018 – the 50th anniversary of the founding of our institution.

Presidential Comments:

Follow-up to External Audit

In September 2013, I wrote a letter to Mr. Repenning, Chair of the Board of Regents, outlining the findings and recommendations of an independent accounting firm that conducted a thorough review of the University's procurement card policies and practices. In the letter, I indicated that, in March 2014, I would provide an update related to the University's implementation of these recommendations. Yesterday, I provided a written status report to the Board. I will share my written status report with the campus this week.

State and University Budget

Last month, I sent an email to the campus to provide information on the state's budget and the potential subsequent impact on the University's budget. As I shared, the Governor's budget recommended a 2.5% reduction in operating support for the public universities. In addition to this challenge, our University faces the additional burden of a recurring increase of $5 million to our annual Kentucky Education Retirement System contribution.

As a result of these budget pressures, and an inevitable increase in other fixed costs, I asked each vice president to prepare a budget reduction plan of 5%. These plans are due to me by April 2.

Our University is very efficient. And I know that the potential of cutting an additional 5% from the budget is going to be difficult. I am grateful to our outstanding faculty and staff for their good and constructive ideas on how we can meet this challenge. We have done it before, and I know we will do it again.

We will know more about our budget situation in mid-April, when the Kentucky Legislature adjourns. In addition to monitoring the state budget situation closely, we are also working very hard to increase next year's enrollment through enhanced recruiting and retention efforts.

Long-term solution will arrive when elected officials demonstrate leadership in implementing higher education funding methodology that reflects productivity and measurable results.

Health Innovations Center

As you know, the University's top legislative priority is the health innovations center. I remain hopeful that this very important capital project will prevail in the budget process. In order to assist us in translating this concept into a specific action plan, I have appointed an internal and an external advisory group to obtain expert input. When our collective efforts are successful, we will improve the health of our community, the Commonwealth, and our metropolitan region. We will also promote economic growth and vitality by producing graduates who earn good incomes, by providing trained talent for healthcare providers, and by improving the productivity of the broader workforce. And our innovative approach will be a model for other educational institutions and communities to emulate. I will continue to keep you apprised of our progress.

Strategic Plan Implementation Update

I have appointed nine Strategic Plan Implementation Teams to enhance key components of the strategic plan. These teams have been meeting regularly since January. Additionally, many of the teams have held open forums and created surveys to gather feedback from all across campus. And all team leaders meet monthly with me and our vice presidents to report on their progress and to share information that is relevant to multiple teams.

Marketing Proposal

Our strategic plan calls for the University to "develop and execute a comprehensive marketing, communication, and branding plan." To execute this strategy, the University has engaged the services of Landor, a worldwide marketing leader, with a major office in our metropolitan region. Over the next several months, Landor will inventory our current marketing and branding positions, evaluate our marketing and branding effectiveness, conduct extensive qualitative and quantitative research, and help the University articulate our key attributes and distinctive advantages. I look forward to sharing the outcomes and findings of Landor's work.

Dean Candidates

Over the past five days, the three academic dean search committees conducted initial interviews with semi-finalist candidates. The committees will narrow the candidate pools and bring the three most qualified candidates for each search to campus in late March and early April. I understand that we have very strong candidates. We are on target to have all three new deans start by July 1.

Student of the Year

Yesterday, Chris Hammann, a junior majoring in social work here at NKU, was given the award by the American Council on Education as the Adult Learner of the Year. Mr. Hammann is a Marine Corps veteran and president of our veterans student organization. Chris also works for the University in our facilities management department as a heavy equipment operator. This award is a national honor. In fact, Mr. Hammann is presently flying back from San Diego, where he received the award.

Mr. Hammann is just one of our outstanding students. And he is a shining example of our post-traditional students who handle many other responsibilities while they obtain their college education.

High School Visits

I have had the pleasure of meeting with a number of local high school principals. As a result of these meetings, I have been invited to present at several schools. In fact, on Monday, I spoke to an assembly of all of the students at Covington Catholic High School. Last semester, I was pleased to visit with the Conner High School senior class. Later this month, I will speak to 7th to 12th graders at Dayton High School.

I believe that these meetings, and talking to these groups, is one of the ways that I can help the University reach our enrollment targets and continue to be a University of choice for our local students.

Conclusion

While we face some challenges, I remain confident and optimistic about the opportunities we have.

Presidential Comments:

Regents Distinguished Service Award

In March, we honored three employees who embody the great spirit of our University. The Regents Distinguished Service Award recognizes staff employees who have made exemplary contributions to the growth, image, or efficient operations of the University. I am very pleased that the recipients of this year's award could be with us this afternoon. Ms. Millie McLemore was recognized in the Service Maintenance/Skilled Crafts/Technical and Scientific category. Millie has served the University for six years and is presently a systems manager in Steely Library. Ms. Jackie Marsala was recognized in the Office Clerical category. Jackie came to NKU in 2008 and presently serves as the Academic Assistant for the Department of Nursing. Ms. Tina Altenhofen was recognized in the Professional/Research Assistant category. Tina has served the University for seven years and is the Executive Assistant to the Director of the Center for Applied Informatics. Please join me in thanking and congratulating this year's winners of the Regents Distinguished Service Awards.

Dean Searches

As I shared with you in April, we have now completed the Dean searches for the College of Arts and Sciences, College of Education and Human Services, and Haile/US Bank College of Business. Dr. Katherine Frank will be the new Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Dr. Frank presently serves as the Dean of the School of Humanities and Social Sciences at Indiana University East. Dr. Cindy Reed will be the new Dean of the College of Education and Human Services. Dr. Reed presently serves as the Director of the Truman Pierce Institute and the Emily R. and Gerald S. Leischuck Endowed Professor of Educational Leadership at Auburn University. Finally, Dr. Becky Porterfield will be the new Dean of our Haile/US Bank College of Business. Dr. Porterfield is presently the Graduate Associate Dean of the University of North Carolina Wilmington Cameron School of Business. Our three new Deans will begin in July. We look forward to welcoming them to campus.

Vice President for Enrollment Management Search

Last month, we began our search for a Vice President for Enrollment Management. This Vice President will report directly to the Provost and Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs. Given the extraordinarily competitive enrollment management hiring market and in order to attract top candidates, we have engaged a search firm to assist us. The search will be conducted over the summer, and we will welcome finalists to the campus in the Fall semester for interviews. Later this month, Joel Robinson will transition to Assistant Provost for Special Projects. Ms. Leah Stewart, Director of Student Financial Assistance, will serve as the Interim Associate Vice President for Enrollment Management. I am very grateful to Joel for his service and dedication.

Landor Marketing and Branding Engagement

As I have previously shared, the University has engaged Landor, an international marketing and branding firm with a strong local office, to help us develop updated branding and messaging guidelines. The work began in early March, and I anticipate that Landor will complete its work in September. The process involves qualitative and quantitative research through focus groups, individual conversations, and input provided by the faculty, staff, students, alumni, prospective students, and business and community leaders. We have just completed the qualitative research phase where Landor's team interviewed current students, alumni, and business and community leaders. I will meet with Landor tomorrow to learn more about this initial phase of research findings. The next phase of the project will involve testing of ideas and themes generated from Phase 1 of the project.

AASCU Exceptional Universities – Outreach Initiative

The American Association of State Colleges and Universities has chosen five exceptional universities to feature in AASCU's Outreach Initiative Pilot Program. This pilot program seeks to broaden the public's understanding of the high-quality, accessible, and affordable college opportunities at state colleges and universities like NKU. I am very pleased to report that our University has been selected by AASCU as one of the five exceptional universities. This selection means that NKU will be recognized nationally for our contributions to excellence, access, and opportunity.

Student Celebration of Research and Creativity

Just a few weeks ago, the University held our 12th Celebration of Student Research and Creativity. This year, 750 students presented posters, oral presentations, or other scholarly and creative works. 139 faculty members mentored these students – and many faculty members mentored more than one student. In total, there were more than 300 projects and 25 live student performances. This is the largest Celebration of Research and Creativity yet. I would like to thank Dr. Judy Voelker and Dr. Stephen Walker for their leadership of this event. I'd also like to express my gratitude to the committee members, students, and faculty who participated in this extraordinary event.

Cyber Defense Competition Wins

Just last week, our Cyber Defense Team competed at the national cyber defense competition. These competitions are exhaustive multi-day experiences that test each team's skills in defending a corporate-style computer network under sustained attack by judges posing as hackers. At the regional competition, the team defeated state champions from the nine Midwestern state competitions, including our long-time rival, the Rose Hulman Institute of Technology, to earn a spot in the national contest. At the national competition, we fared very well. Our team placed 6th and edged out the Air Force Academy and UC Berkeley. More than 180 teams competed through the regional and national competitions. Dr. Yi Hu and Teresa Riley coached this year's team. They were assisted by alumni who were previous team members. NKU's prowess in Cyber Defense extends beyond this team. Earlier this month, a research poster and presentation by women in the NKU Masters program in Computer Information Technology won the graduate student poster competition at the national Women in Cybersecurity Conference in Nashville, beating out PhD students from universities such as NYU and Carnegie Mellon. Members of the team included Darci Guriel, Irina Vorobyeva, Helina Oladapo, and Mary Ferguson. The team was coached by Dr. Marius Truta.

Commencement

This time of year is always a special time in the life of a campus. On Saturday, we will celebrate the accomplishments of more than 1,600 students as they graduate with their undergraduate, graduate, doctoral, and law degrees. This semester we have celebrated the many accomplishments of these students and are proud of their many achievements. In just a few minutes, I will ask that you approve our honorary degree recipients for this year – Dr. Pearse Lyons, Dr. Leon Boothe, and Justice Michelle Keller. We are delighted that each of these individuals has agreed to speak at our commencement.

Regent Pederson

As you know, today is Regent Pederson's last Board of Regents meeting. Erik has ably served on our Board for the past two years and has faithfully represented our student body as the Student Government President. Personally, I have enjoyed working with him and appreciate the insight he brings to the Board's deliberations. I look forward to shaking Erik's hand on Saturday at Commencement. Erik, congratulations and thank you for your service.

Closing

In closing, this year has been a very good one. And even better days for our University are in our future.

Presidential Comments:

We have had an excellent start to the academic year. In addition to our normal activities, we also opened our newest residence hall -- Northern Terrace. The opening of this facility added 200 more beds to our residential inventory. We now have approximately 2,000 students living on campus.

The increase in campus residence halls coupled with our emphasis on evening and weekend programming is showing some promising results. For example, the evening before classes started, the NKU men's soccer team hosted the University of Kentucky. The game ended in a draw. But more than 1,900 people, the majority of whom were students, attended the game – that's an attendance record.

There are several other important initiatives and updates that I'd like to share with you this afternoon.

Campus Leadership

In addition to welcoming our new students, we also welcomed several new campus leaders. Five of these new leaders are here today. We welcomed three new academic deans. Katherine Frank, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences joined us from Indiana University, East. Becky Porterfield, Dean of the Haile/US Bank College of Business, joined us from the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. And Cindy Reed, Dean of the College of Education and Human Services joined us from Auburn University.

In addition to our new academic deans, we welcomed Kathleen Roberts. Kathleen is the Senior Advisor to the President for Inclusive Excellence and joined us from Samuel Merritt University. And in October, Kimberly Scranage will join us as our new Vice President for Enrollment Management. Kimberly joins us from Kutztown University.

All five of our new colleagues are here with us this afternoon. Please stand so that we can welcome you.

One of the most important external validations of an institution's current strength and its future prospects is that institution's capacity to attract outstanding new people. Based on this predictor, I know our future is very bright.

Enrollment

Earlier this morning you heard an update on our preliminary enrollment and retention statistics. As we shared, we have had a modest gain in our retention rate, but we must do much more. Our fall enrollment is showing a slight decrease. We are continuing to encourage new students to enroll in the second session of the Fall semester. While the fall enrollment numbers have decreased slightly, the academic quality of our freshman class has remained consistently strong. The entering class has an average ACT score of 23.3. We declined admission to more than 500 new freshmen who applied, because we are committed to our academic admissions standards.

IPP Process

As I shared at the Fall Convocation, we are halfway through the four-year reclassification process. This year, we will conduct a yearlong, campus-wide self-study of our athletics program as part of the NCAA Division One Institutional Performance Program.

The steering committee, which is chaired by Sue Hodges Moore, will evaluate our governance process and our commitment to rules compliance, academic integrity, and gender, diversity and student-athlete well-being. The steering committee and the sub-committees have met and will continue to meet on a regular basis. Regent Repenning is a member of the steering committee and a member of the governance committee.

I was also pleased that the Atlantic Sun recently took action that will allow our student athletes to participate in Atlantic Sun postseason tournaments. We look forward to our first conference postseason tournaments this year.

HIC Update

I am pleased to report that we are continuing to make excellent progress with our Health Innovations Center. Last week, I hosted a joint meeting of the external and internal advisory committees. These groups continue to make important contributions to the overall program and plan for the health innovations complex. Also last week, a selection committee reviewed RFPs from design teams and narrowed that list of applicants to five finalists. The proposals were excellent and our job was very difficult. Next week, we will interview the five finalists and select our design team for the project. I anticipate that we will make our decision by October 1.

College of Health Professions Dean Search

As you know, Dean Denise Robinson has announced that she will return to the faculty at the end of this academic year. Dean Robinson has provided excellent leadership for the College of Health Professions, especially during this time of excitement and change as we look to expand our academic programs and as we prepare to design the new health innovations center. The search committee has been assembled and has met. I will continue to update you throughout the search process.

Statewide Tour

Later this month I will start my statewide tour. The purpose of this tour is to raise awareness about our University and share the many things that make NKU distinctive and special. I will be visiting eight regions of the state, starting in late September and ending in early December. I will host receptions for prospective students, alumni, and friends in several cities and towns, including Somerset, Pikeville, Bowling Green, Owensboro, Paducah, Ashland, Louisville, and Lexington. During these visits, I will meet with community and business leaders, education leaders, and elected officials. I am also going to speak to seniors and juniors at more than 20 high schools. I'll be tweeting about my visits using #RoadToNKU.

Please join us – either in person or through social media – on the RoadToNKU.

Foundation

In July, I presented a comprehensive proposal to the Executive Committee of our University Foundation to enhance support for our University initiatives, including our fundraising activities. I am very pleased to report that the Foundation Executive Committee approved this proposal yesterday. I am grateful to the men and women who serve on the Foundation and the Executive Committee for their continuing support of our University.

PulsePoint

I often say that education has the capacity to change the trajectory of a student's life and the life of her family. NKU students are not only changing the trajectory of their lives, they are also saving the lives of people they have never met.

Previously, I have told you about PulsePoint, the app that students in our Center for Applied Informatics created. This app alerts trained personnel when there is a medical emergency in close proximity. The app has made national news in the past and it made national news again this week. Please allow me to show you just one clip of the national coverage.

As you have heard me say, something special is happening at NKU – something very special. And this represents just one more example.

The Fundraising Report summarized fundraising resources committed from July 1, 2013 through June 30, 2014 totaling $3,737,056 in support of the university.

5. Organizational Changes Report (Vice President Ken Ramey)

Following an unsuccessful search to fill its vacancy in spring 2014, the associate vice president for enrollment management position was reevaluated. At that time, a decision was made to increase the responsibility of the position. To reflect this increased responsibility, the title was changed to vice president for enrollment and degree management. With this reassessment, a decision was also made to move the Office of the Registrar back into the enrollment management structure. Presidential Comments:

P&G Breakfast

Yesterday, I joined approximately 100 NKU alumni who work for Procter & Gamble for breakfast. Our message, and our ask of these alumni, was simple. We asked them to engage with NKU – our students and our programs. We plan to continue these breakfast or lunch meetings with companies all over the region who employ a significant number of our graduates.

AASCU Excellence in Innovation

The American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) recently announced the inaugural winners in a new awards program honoring member institutions for excellence and innovation in several major areas of campus life and leadership. Our University is one of seven institutions nationwide to receive an award.

AASCU honored the NKU Center for Applied Informatics Virtual Co-op Program for its success in adapting the traditional co-op education model into an initiative that provides almost all services virtually. The program now engages more than 120 students per year. Students develop mobile apps, websites, and similar products for more than 200 companies and non-profits, as well as providing services to 50 start-ups.

Professional Grounds Maintenance Society
I am also very pleased that we recently received the Grand Award from the Professional Grounds Maintenance Society. NKU received this award for the excellent maintenance and the beauty of our grounds. NKU was one of just six winners nationally. I believe that the grounds at NKU are well maintained and increasingly beautiful. I am very grateful to the men and women of our facilities maintenance staff who care for our grounds, buildings, and other facilities. Several members of our grounds crew are with us today. Please stand and introduce yourself. Please join me in thanking them, and all of our facilities maintenance staff, for their important work.

Military Friendly Schools
For the fifth consecutive year, our University has been recognized as a Military Friendly School. This designation is given to the top 15% of all universities in the country. We are very proud to serve our military members, veterans, and families. More than 500 students are using military or veteran benefits to attend NKU.

IPP Process
As I have mentioned in previous updates to the Board and to the campus, we are presently engaged in a year-long campus-wide study of our athletics program as part of our Division I reclassification. We have formed several subcommittees comprised of faculty, staff, student athletes, and athletics representatives. The IPP study looks at governance and commitment to rules; academic integrity; gender and diversity issues, and student-athlete well-being. The subcommittees are in the process of drafting sections of the comprehensive report, which we will share with the campus in the spring in order to gather broad feedback. An important part of the IPP is the involvement of the campus in the process. I first shared details about the process at my Fall Convocation and we have since kept the campus and our broader community informed through press releases, the NKU website, social media, emails, and a presentation at our Fuel the Flame retreat in September. I'll have more to share on our progress at our next meeting.

JJ Webber
Two weeks ago, JJ Webber, a star cross country runner, defended his title and captured his second A-Sun individual championship and led our team to a second place finish. As you may recall, JJ was the first Division I conference champion at our University. We are very proud of JJ and the team for these accomplishments.

Postseason Play
As you may recall, NKU is able to compete in A-Sun postseason team tournaments for the first time this year. This is very good news for our student-athletes and our University. So far, two of our Fall sports teams, men's and women's soccer, have qualified for the postseason. Women's soccer won their first game – which was the first, of many, conference tournament wins for teams. And if the volleyball team continues their excellent play, we are hopeful that they will also qualify for postseason play. I am very proud of the excellent season our teams have had.

RoadToNKU
As you know, I am spending time visiting seven areas of the state meeting with high school students, legislators, community leaders, CPE board members, and alumni. These visits have been very productive. I have visited the Somerset, Pikeville, and Ashland areas, and spent four days visiting schools and communities in western and far western Kentucky. I have especially enjoyed talking with the high school students and their teachers. Their enthusiasm for education, and their interest in Northern Kentucky University has been strong. I will give more details about my visits during the January Convocation.

Presidential Comments:

Welcome Back

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I was pleased to welcome our faculty and staff back to campus last Monday, and I was delighted to welcome our students back to campus two days ago. As you know, our January Convocation took place last Friday. My remarks are available online. As I said on Friday, we had an outstanding Fall semester, and I look forward to another good Spring semester too. I would like to update you on some of the activities for this semester, as well as share some of our successes from last semester.

Enrollment and Retention

As you know, I spent a significant portion of the fall semester visiting communities and high schools as part of our RoadToNKU tour. During the tour, we visited 25 high schools and met with more than 3,000 high school students.

And during the tour, I met Kennedy and Jenna, two young girls from Lee County who were my guests at the Convocation. As I shared Friday morning, Kennedy and Jenna are two 6th graders from Lee County. When I visited their school, the superintendent invited them to come to my talk as two promising middle school students.

During our presentation, Kennedy asked, “So, if we go to your college, does that mean we can go to Cincinnati?”

And I said, “Yes, if you come to NKU, you can go to Cincinnati.”

Then Kennedy leaned over to Jenna and said, “If we go there, we can go to Cincinnati!”

I was so impressed with their enthusiasm that I decided that they shouldn’t have to wait five or six years to come to tour campus, to see our community, and to visit Cincinnati.

So Friday was the big day. The girls attended convocation. This photo shows the moment I revealed to Kennedy and Jenna all of the special activities we arranged for them.

The girls started their adventure with trip to our bookstore where Barnes and Noble provided some NKU gear.

Next, Kennedy and Jenna went to the Newport Aquarium where one of our alumni, Alison Ruebusch, hosted them for the day. The girls met Bravo, a 650 pound Galapagos turtle, Paula the penguin, and many of the other animals.

Melissa Gorbandt, our Director of Admissions, took Kennedy and Jenna, and their mothers, to the Montgomery Inn Boathouse for dinner before the big finale of their visit – a trip to the Aronoff theatre to see Cinderella. Another alumni, Todd Duesing, arranged for special seats for the girls.

Finally, on Saturday, the girls and their moms came back to campus to go to the circus where, I’m told, they rode an elephant! During their stay, our guests stayed in a very special room at the Rivercenter Marriott thanks to a good friend of our University. Their room had a beautiful view of Cincinnati.

Last night, Kennedy and Jenna went to the Lee County Board of Education meeting, and they told the board members about their experience in Northern Kentucky and Cincinnati. I hear they had very good things to say. And I also hear that we expect our 2021 class to be up at least two students. Kennedy has already declared her intention to attend NKU!

Thank you to Melissa, Alison, Todd, and all of the people who helped make Kennedy and Jenna’s trip very special.

Turning to some additional enrollment and retention information, as of January 5, 2015, applications to our University were up approximately 29% year-to-date compared to last year. For the 25 schools I visited, applications were up 55% compared to the same time last year. Last year at this time, 400 students from those 25 high schools had applied for admission to NKU; this year, 619 students have applied from those same high schools.

We will continue to monitor these trends closely – determining the number of students who enroll from those high schools in the years to come.

The Office of Undergraduate Admissions, within the Division of Enrollment and Degree Management, launched enhanced recruitment initiatives that included earlier outreach efforts, increased mailings, and campus-wide involvement in recruitment strategies.

With this targeted and strategic admissions planning, the Office is currently up 36 percent in undergraduate freshmen who were offered admission. With a concentrated effort on enhancing the academic profile, NKU is experiencing a 13 percent increase in merit-based scholarship offers.

Now, our efforts will begin to transition to focusing on converting admitted application into confirmations and ultimately more enrolled new freshmen. On a related note, we have not seen satisfactory improvement in our retention and persistence rates. Last year, we achieved modest improvement in both metrics. As we begin the Spring semester, though, we are not experiencing similar gains this academic year. The Provost and I will continue to monitor this critical issue.

Health Innovation Center

We continue to make excellent progress in the programming phase of the health innovation center. We are finalizing a draft building program that will be shared with the steering committees later this month. The architects will be back on campus next week for additional meetings with the user groups, steering committee, and the executive oversight committee to review the program for the education, training, and research activities for the facilities. Turner Construction will serve as the construction manager for the project, and they will be joining the design team at the January meetings.

Cyber Security designation

Just before the holidays, we learned that our University is one of 20 institutions in the country to be designed as a National Center of Academic Excellence in Information Assurance and Cyber-Security Education by the National Security Agency. This designation recognizes our strength in cyber-security education, and it enables our faculty to apply for enhanced grant opportunities through the federal government. This designation is the culmination of great work by Dr. James Walden, Dr. Frank Braun, Dr. Yi Hu, and Dr. James McGuffee.

Carnegie Community Engagement Classification

Our University has been selected to receive the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching's 2015 Community Engagement Classification. NKU originally earned the classification in 2006, the first year it was offered. The classification recognizes our institutional focus on community engagement, and it recognizes the significant engagement of our students, faculty, and staff in our community and beyond. NKU was one of the first universities to receive this designation in 2006, and I am pleased that our designation in this elective classification has been renewed for another 10 year period.

Intercollegiate Athletics

I am very proud to report that the Fall 2014 all-athlete GPA was 3.22. This number is the best semester GPA since we started keeping record of the all-athlete GPA in 1983. Last Fall marks the 7th consecutive semester that the all-athlete GPA exceeded 3.0. A total of four teams earned GPAs of 3.5 or above. The men's tennis team had a very impressive 3.7 GPA, followed by volleyball and women's cross country at 3.6, and women's tennis at 3.5. I am very proud of our student-athletes and their success in the classroom and on the competition field. And I am grateful to Ken Bothof and our coaches and staff for their continuing commitment to academic excellence.

Ken Ramey

Just before the holidays, Ken Ramey announced that he will be retiring from the University effective June 30 of this year. Ken has served our University with distinction for 37 years. His depth and breadth of knowledge will not only be difficult, but impossible, to replace. Over the next few months, we'll have many opportunities to thank and recognize Ken for his exceptional service to our University. But for now, please join me in recognizing and thanking Ken for his service.

Presidential Comments:

Budget Model Development

Last Fall, I appointed a task force to review our existing process for developing our University's budget. The task force looked at different types of university budget models across the country, and it recommended that we develop a model that is incentive-based and more de-centralized. The new budget model will promote student success, stimulate strategic growth, encourage innovation and entrepreneurship, and support transdisciplinary and institutional excellence. The guiding principles are accountability, transparency, reasonable predictability, simplicity, performance-based, and data driven. I will continue to keep you updated as we work to transition to this new model.

Fall Enrollment

The Division of Enrollment Management reports that for Fall 2015, graduate applications are up 13 percent and admits are trending up by 50 percent. This is the first time in three academic years that these trends are showing positive gains. Overall undergraduate applications are up 18 percent and admits are up 18 percent, but confirmations for Fall 2015 are relatively flat. Those freshman that have confirmed have improved quality indicators over last year (3.43 GPA and 24 ACT composite).

We see overall gains at this time throughout the admissions funnel, and the make-up of the prospective pool is more diverse and from a greater geographic distribution.

But, there are some concerns that we need to continue to monitor. Even though we are up overall in confirmations, we are experiencing a modest decline in traditional freshman (down 5 percent). We are currently working to discern why this decrease is occurring and implement strategies to positively impact the ultimate results. Financial aid packages were sent out starting this week, which is a week earlier than usual. We will continue to monitor and increase confirmations.

And we are engaging in various activities to increase confirmations. One example is a new effort by our Admissions and Alumni Affairs offices. Norse Notes is a program that enables alumni to send notes of encouragement to high school seniors who have been accepted to NKU. So far, more than 35 alumni have participated in the effort and have written more than 700 notes. We are planning another note writing party in April. I encourage all of our alumni to participate in this excellent initiative.

State Funding Advocacy

As you know, over the past two years, I have been advocating for an outcomes- based funding model for Kentucky's public universities. The Council on Postsecondary Education has been working with the university presidents to develop a model to meet key goals and objectives. Several legislators have shown a strong interest in this approach, which could produce more funding for NKU. A joint resolution was introduced in the senate directing the CPE to develop a funding model that would establish metrics and recognize the different missions of the research universities, comprehensive universities, and community and technical colleges. I remain personally committed to advocating for a model that helps to advance the goals of the Commonwealth – and that supports our University, which continues to contribute to those outcomes.

SACS Accreditation

Earlier this week, we submitted our fifth-year interim report to our accreditation agency, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. This interim report is required of all colleges and universities within the SACS region. SACS will review our report and will provide feedback. Our full accreditation process will take place in 2019-2020.

Institutional Performance Program

Earlier this month, we posted a draft of our NCAA Institutional Performance Program plan for review and comment by the University community. The draft document represents significant work and time commitment from the steering committee and from our four work groups. I am grateful to all of the committee members for their diligence, expertise, and support. I am especially grateful to Director of Athletics Ken Bothof, Senior Vice President for Institutional Effectiveness Sue Hodges Moore, and Assistant Vice President for Institutional Effectiveness Vicki Natale, all of whom have led this work. The report is due to the NCAA on May 15, and a team from the NCAA will visit the campus in the Fall.

Facilities Updates

I would like to report on three major projects. First, we continue to make very good progress on the expansion and renovation of the Campus Recreation Center. As you will recall, we expect the project to be completed in time for the beginning of the Fall semester. Presently, because of weather, the new construction portion of the project is behind schedule approximately two weeks. However, the construction team believes that this time can be made up as they begin the renovation portion of the project.

Second, we continue to make excellent progress on the design of the Health Innovation Center. We continue to meet regularly with the architects, who are refining one of the design options that has been presented. We anticipate that we will break ground on the project in late Summer.

Finally, we have closed the Callahan Bistro, the dining hall in Callahan Hall, in order to conduct renovations. These renovations are being funded by housing revenue and also through substantial support from our foodservice provider, Chartwells. The renovation will be complete in time for the beginning of the Fall semester.

Basketball Teams

As many of you know, our women's basketball team competed in the championship game of the Atlantic Sun Conference Tournament. The team played hard, but lost to a very talented Florida Gulf Coast team. I am very proud of our team and look forward to cheering them on during the Women's Basketball Invitational Tournament. We are a #1 seed, and we will host the first round game against Marshall University tomorrow evening at 7:00 pm in the Bank of Kentucky Center. We are very proud that Christine Roush was named to the Academic All-Atlantic Sun Conference team for her outstanding performance in the classroom. She was just one of five players in the conference who earned this honor. Christine is a biological sciences major, and her GPA is in excess of 3.7.

Christine not only excels in the classroom, but also on the court. Christine and her teammate, Melody Doss, both earned a spot on the All-Atlantic Sun second team.

Our men's team also had an excellent season and fought very hard in their final game versus Lipscomb. I am proud that Tayler Persons was honored as the Atlantic Sun's Freshman of the Year.

Presidential Comments:

Commencement

On Saturday, we will gather to celebrate the graduation of more than 1,600 students who have completed the requirements to earn their undergraduate, graduate, or law degree. Within this graduating class are students who have overcome great obstacles to achieve their dreams. Other students have left an enduring impact on our campus through their leadership and service. And still others have obtained outstanding academic achievements. We are proud of every graduate. We are especially proud of the 38 United States military veterans who will participate in our ceremonies on Saturday.

We will also celebrate the accomplishments of two outstanding individuals – Fred Hersch and Gary Webb.

Fred Hersch will receive an honorary degree, and he will be the commencement speaker in the morning ceremony. Mr. Hersch is an 8-time Grammy nominee and an internationally renowned jazz pianist. Mr. Hersch is a native of Cincinnati. On Friday night, he will generously perform a solo piano concert at 7:30 pm in Greaves Concert Hall. The concert is free and open to the public. We presently anticipate that more than 500 people will attend.

In the afternoon ceremony, we will bestow a posthumous degree on Gary Webb. Mr. Webb attended NKU in the 1970s, but he left for a full-time job with the Kentucky Post before he could complete his studies. Mr. Webb was an acclaimed journalist who won a Pulitzer Prize for his investigative reporting. Mr. Webb is perhaps most well known for his series of articles that alleged that the United States government turned a blind eye as Nicaraguan drug traffickers sold and distributed crack cocaine in Los Angeles to help fund the Nicaraguan Contras. Last year, Mr. Webb's life story was made into a major motion picture entitled "Kill the Messenger." Mr. Webb's ex-wife, Susan Bell Stokes, and Mr. Webb's three children – Ian, Eric, and Christine – will be at commencement to receive his posthumous degree.

Enrollment Update

I shared some good news related to enrollment at the Annual Budget Presentation last week.

As you may know, May 1st was the national priority decision day for new freshmen students. The Division of Enrollment & Degree management reports that we are up approximately 2 percent in confirmations. We are also experiencing growth for the first time in three academic years in graduate admissions. With regard to the law school, we have adjusted to the national decrease in law professionals and adjusted our admissions accordingly. Even though we are down in applications our first deposits are up 30 percent and we have received more first deposits for the Lunsford Academy compared to last year at this same time. Overall, at this time in the recruitment cycle, we are experiencing some positive gains.

Celebration of Student Research and Creativity

Earlier this morning, you heard about the Celebration of Student Research and Creativity. This special week of posters, speeches, performances, and exhibits highlights the remarkable academic and research capabilities of our students. I want to express my gratitude to Dr. Christine Curran and Dr. Zach Hart, who were the co-chairs of this special event, and to all of the committee members who worked so diligently to plan another outstanding celebration. I also want to thank the more than 130 faculty members who supervised the student projects. This Celebration is one of the hallmarks of our University's commitment to student success by providing a personal educational experience.

Faculty Awards

Last week, I attended the Faculty Honors and Awards ceremony, which was organized by the Provost. We had the opportunity to recognize faculty members who were promoted to associate professor with tenure, and to recognize associate professors who were promoted to full professor. We also recognized and celebrated several award winners. I want to congratulate the following faculty members who were recognized:

- Dr. James Walden from the Department of Computer Science and Professor Michael Mannheimer from the Chase College of Law, winners of the Excellence in Research, Scholarship, and Creative Activity Award.

- Dr. P.J. Ball from the Department of Chemistry, winner of the Michael C.C. Adams and Susan S. Adams Outstanding Non-Tenure Track Faculty Member Award.
- Judge Karen Thomas from the Department of Accounting, Finance, and Business Law, who received the Part-time Faculty Excellence in Instruction Award.
- Dr. Andrea Gazzaniga from the Department of English and Dr. David Raska from the Department of Marketing, Economics, and Sports Business for winning the Excellence in Teaching and Instruction Award.
- Dr. Isabelle Legadic from the Department of Chemistry for winning the Excellence in International Education Award.
- Professor Deborah Dempsey from the Department of Biological Sciences for winning the Excellence in Online or Technology Enhanced Teaching Award.

- Dr. Steven Weiss from the Department of Communication for winning the Excellence in University Service Award.

And finally, I want to recognize

- Dr. Cecile Marczinski from the Department of Psychological Science, for winning the Frank Sinton Milburn Outstanding Professor Award. Dr. Marczinski will formally accept her award at the Fall Convocation, and she will be the December commencement speaker.

Again, I want to congratulate and recognize these faculty members, and all of the award nominees, for their outstanding service and dedication to our students and our University.

Staff Awards

In April, at the Employee Appreciation Breakfast, we also recognized three outstanding staff members for their excellent service to the University. These staff members were honored with the Regents Distinguished Service Award – the highest staff level awards at the University.

Please join me in congratulating:

- Charles Bowen, Senior Systems Analyst in Information Technology,
- Beth McCubbin, Academic Coordinator in the College of Education and Human Services, and
- Frank Wilfong, HVAC Mechanic in Operations and Maintenance

We also recognized staff members who have achieved career milestones – including individuals who have reached 15, 20, 25, 30, and 35 years of service to our University. I again want to thank and congratulate these staff members for their dedicated service to our University.

Service to the Board of Regents

Just as commencement marks the end of one journey and the beginning of another journey for our graduates, the May meeting of the Board of Regents marks the last meeting for four of our Regents. Collectively, these individuals have 19 years of experience on our Board.

I want to express my gratitude to John Jose, Steve Meier, and Jacqueline Emerine who have faithfully served as our student, staff, and faculty Regents respectively. Each of them has contributed to the governance of our University, and they have ably represented our University and our students, staff, and faculty.

I also want to recognize Regent Brenda Wilson. Regent Wilson is concluding her second term; she has contributed 12 years of service to our University. Regent Wilson and her husband, Bill, were instrumental in the opening of our Grant County Center. Brenda has previously served as Chair of this Board. Brenda, I will miss your wise counsel, but I know that you will always be an active and vocal supporter of our great University. Thank you for your service.

Today also marks the last meeting as chair for Dennis Repenning. Over the past two years, Regent Repenning has led the Board with great passion. His affection for our University is evident in all that he has done. Mr. Repenning, thank you for your service as our chair.

Service to the University

Today also marks the last Board of Regents meeting for Vice President Ken Ramey. Ken has faithfully served our University for nearly 38 years. Our campus is demonstrably better because of his contributions. Virtually every physical space on this campus has been affected by Ken and his leadership. Ken started at NKU as a student and now he ends his career beloved by the students. Ken recently was recognized by the Student Government Association for his service, and the Inter-fraternity Council has named its annual award for Ken. Please join me in thanking Ken for his service, his leadership, and his dedication.

Mr. Chair, that concludes my report.

Presidential Comments:

Health Innovation Center

Earlier today, we celebrated receiving the second largest philanthropic investment in our University's history – an $8 million gift by St. Elizabeth Healthcare to support the design and construction of the simulation facilities in our new Health Innovation Center. I am grateful to Garren Colvin and his outstanding team at St. Elizabeth for their enthusiasm and support of what will be a transformative building and program for both our campus and our region.

I am also grateful to Eric Gentry and Julie Dials – and their colleagues – for their role in both securing the gift and the celebration and announcement this morning.

I am also pleased to inform you that we have identified a tentative date for the groundbreaking of the Health Innovation Center. The tentative date is October 21 at 11:30 am. I say "tentative" because we are awaiting confirmation from Governor Beshear's office. Once we have received confirmation, the Board, and the entire campus community, will be invited to join us for the ceremony. Invitations, which will include additional information, will be sent soon. The Governor and many other elected officials and community leaders will attend the event.

New Leaders

I am pleased to welcome six new senior academic and administrative leaders to campus this Fall. Please join me in welcoming:

- Dr. Idna Corbett, Associate Provost for Undergraduate Academic Affairs. Dr. Corbett previously served as the dean of undergraduate studies and student support services at West Chester University of Pennsylvania.
- Dr. Samantha Langley, Vice Provost for Graduate Education, Research, and Outreach. Dr. Langley came to NKU from the University of Southern Maine, where she served as the associate provost for research and graduate studies.
- Dr. Dale Scalise-Smith, Dean of the College of Health Professions. Prior to NKU, Dr. Scalise-Smith was the vice president of the Utica (N.Y.) College School for Online & Extended Studies and External Partnerships.
- Mr. Mike Hales, Chief Financial Officer. Mike came to NKU from the E.W. Scripps Company, where he spent 25 years in corporate finance. Mike is a proud graduate of NKU.
- Mr. Adam Caswell, Assistant Vice President for Government, Corporate, and Foundation Relations. Adam is also a proud graduate of Northern Kentucky University. Adam was the Vice President for Public Affairs at the Northern Kentucky Chamber of Commerce.
- Mr. Leslie Kachurek, Chief of Police. Chief Kachurek previously served as the police chief and deputy Title IX coordinator at SUNY Alfred State College. Chief Kachurek has 25 years of experience in both community and campus policing.

Please join me in welcoming these new leaders to our campus.

Enrollment

The news on our enrollment is mixed.

The quality and quantity of our new freshman class is excellent. Our incoming students are again the most academically well-prepared class in our history. And our overall freshman enrollment is higher than last year. Our law school enrollment has also increased – due mainly to a substantial increase in the incoming 1L class. The number of high school students taking dual credit courses from NKU has also increased. Transfer students from the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) are up. But, unfortunately, overall transfer enrollment is lower than expected.

Our first-year retention rate remains level at 69%. This number is better than in the past but, frankly, is not yet good enough. We will continue to work collaboratively with our faculty and staff to continue to improve in this area.

We have a number of other continuing concerns. Despite increases in some programs, our overall graduate enrollment continues to decline. And our overall enrollment numbers are approximately 2% less than we projected. This decline is a product of a large graduating class and smaller freshman classes since our largest freshman class in 2010, as well as the decline in graduate enrollment.

We will continue to monitor enrollment and associated tuition revenue very closely. In November, you will receive a full report on our enrollment and retention strategies.

New Student Orientation

As I mentioned, this year we enrolled the most academically prepared class in the University's history. This class was welcomed with an extensive three-day orientation program focused on academic and personal success.

The orientation focused on developing academic and personal skills to help our students be successful. Students were also exposed to various support offices on campus. More than 100 upperclassmen helped to orient and welcome the new students as student mentors during their orientation.

In addition to the three-day orientation program, several other offices held extended orientation. ROCKS, a special program for incoming African American students, and LAMP, for Latino students, both again had record numbers.
More than 120 students participated in FreshStart, a pre-orientation program for students who are interested in leadership and service. Students who participate in these programs are retained at demonstrably higher levels than their peers who do not participate in pre-orientation programs.

We also held our largest freshman and parent convocation in our University's history. Approximately 4,000 students, family members, faculty, and staff attended the convocation where they had an opportunity to hear from Doc Hendley, author of Wine to Water, and our book connection speaker. The students also saw an outstanding performance by our improv team led by Professor Ken Jones.

During the orientation program, we also held several social events, including inviting all new students to the men's soccer game against the University of Kentucky. More than 2,100 fans attended that game – an attendance record. And, of course, you also know that our men beat the University of Kentucky 1-0!

I am grateful to the more than 100 faculty, staff, and students who helped to plan and execute this orientation. Thank you to everyone who made our first weekend a resounding success.

School of the Arts

As part of the first week of activities, the faculty and staff in the School of the Arts hosted an orientation for their students. This was the first time that faculty, staff, and students had gathered under the auspices of the new School. More than 750 students attended the orientation, which brought together students in theatre, music, dance, and visual arts together for the first time.

Road to NKU

Next week, I will begin visiting high schools all around the Commonwealth and across our region as part of the Road to NKU tour. In Kentucky, I will be visiting seven regions of the Commonwealth. I will also be visiting local high schools in Northern Kentucky, Cincinnati, and Indiana. This year, I plan to visit more than 45 high schools, where I will talk about the excellent education that is provided at NKU by our outstanding faculty and our dedicated staff.

Awards

Last week, we learned that our University has been selected to receive the National Role Models Award from Minority Access for our commitment to diversity and inclusion. I am proud of the work that is happening all over campus to welcome people of diverse backgrounds to our University. Later this month in Baltimore, Dannie Moore, assistant vice president for student inclusiveness, will accept this award on behalf of our University.

I also want to congratulate Ms. Leyla Peña, from our Office of Admissions, who was selected by the League of United Latin American Citizens Cincinnati Council for the "Professional Excellence" award. Leyla will receive the award at the LULAC Awards Gala next week. Leyla is an outstanding member of our Admissions team, and I am grateful for her dedication to all of our students – but especially to our Latino and Hispanic students.

Recognition of Police Officers

Two weeks ago, there was a serious incident in Steely Library when a student brought a firearm to the campus. The response to this incident by our police department was outstanding. I want to thank the officers and other personnel who handled the situation swiftly and with professionalism. Please join me in recognizing Detective Bobby Pate, Officer Phillip Liles, Sergeant Greg Zelensky, Sergeant Raymond Haley, Officer Zachary Burton, Officer Tim Rechtin, and Lieutenant John Gaffin. I also want to recognize Dispatcher Gina Yoon who handled the incoming call, and Kristy Webb, executive office manager, who supported all of these efforts.

To all who were involved in quickly apprehending the student and safely handing the situation, I again offer my deepest appreciation – and the appreciation of my colleagues across campus.

Please join me in recognizing these outstanding members of our police department.

The police response was exceptional. But after any security or emergency event on campus, it is important to review our response, policies, and procedures – particularly around communication. We have heard some concerns about our communication in the immediate aftermath of the incident. I have already organized an incident review team, which will evaluate those concerns.

Mr. Smith, this concludes my report.

Veterans Day

Before lunch, we attended our University's observation of Veterans Day, a day for all of us to honor those who have served in our Armed Forces. I am proud of the many support programs that we offer to our students who have served our country. Our University is regularly recognized for our commitment to veterans. In fact, on Monday, our University was recognized once again by Military Times on their 'Best for Vets' list. Please join me in moment of reflection to honor and recognize our armed service members.

Campus Recreation Center Ribbon Cutting

After the morning session, we also celebrated the completion of the construction of our renovated and expanded Campus Recreation Center. This project is the result of the advocacy and the financial support from our students. I am proud that this Center is a hub for student engagement and wellness. So far this academic year, there have been more than 60,000 visits by 9,000 people. I am also proud that the facility is LEED Silver – further demonstrating our commitment to sustainable building practices.

HIC Groundbreaking

Three weeks ago, we welcomed Governor Beshear to our campus and broke ground on our new Health Innovation Center. This Center will be a state of the art facility to support our students' success. As a result of our Center, we will improve the health of our community, our metropolitan region, and the Commonwealth. We will also promote economic growth and vitality by producing graduates who earn good incomes, by providing trained talent for healthcare providers, and by improving the productivity of the broader workforce. And our innovative approach will be a model for other educational institutions and other communities to emulate. Over the next two years, we will expand our existing health related programs, and we will be proposing a variety of new degrees, certificates, and credentials to enhance our commitment to the health of the people in the communities that we serve.

Northern Kentucky University: A Panoramic History

Last week, we celebrated the release of a book that celebrates the remarkable history of our University – Northern Kentucky University: A Panoramic History. The book features the photographs of Thomas R. Schiff. Mr. Schiff is a world-renowned panoramic photographer who has produced several books containing panoramic photos of Las Vegas, Cincinnati, and Frank Lloyd Wright's architecture. Mr. Schiff's work has been featured in galleries around the world.

Mr. Schiff donated his time and talent to this project, and he also provided generous financial support for the publishing of the book. I am grateful to Tom for his interest in the architecture of our campus and his dedication to our University.

The book is available through Amazon.com and in our campus bookstore.

National Rankings

Since we last met, our University has been recognized with several national rankings.

I am proud that our Haile/US Bank College of Business was once again recognized in The Princeton Review as one of the nation's best business schools for the fourth year in a row. The College was also ranked among the Best Undergraduate Business Programs in the nation by U.S. News & World Report.

Last week, we learned that our student business incubator, the iNKUbator, was ranked as a top five performing university business accelerator in North America by UBI Global. Our competition included MIT, Stanford, Princeton, Purdue, the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, among other highly regarded universities.

Our Master's of Business Informatics program was ranked #11 in the country among graduate programs in business analytics by The Financial Engineer Times.

And finally, Safewise ranked Highland Heights as the seventh safest college town in America.

I am proud of these accomplishments. They are a reflection of the dedication of our faculty and staff.

NKU Apparel Now Available in Airport

As I have previously reported to the Board, one of our priorities is increasing our University's visibility in our community. I am proud that NKU apparel is now being sold in the Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky International Airport. NKU apparel is also available at Rally House in Crestview Hills, select Kroger stores, our campus bookstore, Campus Book & Supply, and online. And you can even buy NKU cookies from the Highland Heights Busken Bakery store.

Road to NKU

As you will recall, last year I initiated the RoadtoNKU tour to visit high school students and friends all across the Commonwealth of Kentucky. This year, I am continuing this tour and adding visits in Cincinnati and in Indiana. So far, I have visited six regions of the Commonwealth and spoken to more than 5,000 high school students. Next Monday and Tuesday, Ken Jones and Michael Hatton will join me in Paducah and Owensboro as they visit with students who are interested in our School of the Arts. I look forward to sharing a complete update at the January meeting.

Fall Sports

I am pleased to report that all of our fall team sports – men's soccer, women's soccer, and volleyball, earned a spot in the Horizon League postseason tournaments for their respective sports. After a very successful season, our men's soccer team fell in the quarterfinals to Wright State. Our women's soccer team also had a very successful season and lost, on penalty kicks, to Oakland University, who ultimately won the Horizon League tournament.

Andrew Schille, a freshman cross country runner, won freshman of the year honors, was named first-team all-conference, and took 4th place overall at the Horizon League championships.

Sophomore women's soccer player Macy Hamblin, was named both Horizon League Player of the Year and Offensive Player of the Year.

Basketball

The basketball season kicked off this past Saturday as the men hosted and defeated Ohio Northern University in an exhibition game. In addition to our new Horizon League opponents, we are looking forward to several high profile games including our men playing away games at West Virginia, Xavier, and Michigan. We look forward to playing in-state rival, Morehead, at the BB&T Arena. On Friday, our women will play Miami University at Miami. The women will also play the University of Cincinnati at UC. Our women will host Marquette and the University of Kentucky. Good luck to our coaches and our outstanding student athletes as they begin their seasons. I hope many of you will attend our games this year and cheer on the Norse.

NCAA Site Visit

In late October, an NCAA peer review team visited our campus as part of the final steps in our transition to full membership in Division I athletics. I am pleased to report that the review team found no issues related to our self-study report and their site visit. The review team described our report as a model report and was impressed by the broad-based involvement of our faculty, staff, and students in the development and execution of our IPP plan.

The review team noted, "The peer-review team members expressed their feelings that Northern Kentucky University provide an exemplary self-study based on campus-wide communication that fairly reflects their current situation with regard to athletics." The review team also wrote, "It was also noted by the peer-review team that the institution used the self-study process to examine and revise some processes outside of athletics. Of particular note were some changes made in their institutional personnel processes. This, in the committee members' experiences, was an unusual outcome and documented the degree to which broad-based participation resulted in institutional improvement."

I'd again like to thank Dr. Sue Hodges Moore, who led our institutional process, Mr. Ken Bothof, and Dr. Vickie Natale for their leadership and many contributions to this process.

Larry Blake

Two weeks ago, Larry Blake retired as our Assistant Vice President for Facilities Management. Larry has served our University since 2004 and has overseen many improvements to our campus – including the construction of the BB&T Center, Student Union, Griffin Hall, renovation and expansion of the Campus Recreation Center, and preliminary planning for the Health Innovation Center. And Mr. Blake was recently honored with the APPA: Leadership in Educational Facilities organization's President's Award for his exceptional achievement in facilities management and for his outstanding contributions to his professional organization. Please join me in thanking Larry for his service to our University.

Mr. Chair, that concludes my report.

Presidential Comments:

Legislative Session

Last week, the Kentucky General Assembly convened for the 60-day legislative session. One of the most important responsibilities of the legislature during this session is to enact a two-year budget for the Commonwealth of Kentucky. For the past 18 months, I have been advocating for the Governor and the legislature to fix the funding disparity that impedes our University's progress and to enact an outcomes-based funding model for higher education. The Council on Postsecondary Education has confirmed what we have known for some time: NKU is operating with an unwarranted $10.7 million funding deficit compared to the median of our peer comprehensive universities because of the absence of a rational approach to allocating the state appropriation.

In the days, weeks, and months ahead, we need your help. I will continue to meet with various campus organizations and college departments to share what we want to achieve during the 2016 legislative session, and to answer any questions that our campus community may have.

To help get our message out and to educate the public on the process of effecting change in Frankfort, the NKU Foundation has set up the website www.investinsuccessky.com. This website provides information on where we stand and how individuals can help.

I will continue to update you on the progress we are making and important developments in the legislature.

Retention

I am pleased to report that we continue to see modest and encouraging increases in the Fall 2015 to Spring 2016 retention rate. Earlier this week, our preliminary Fall to Spring retention rate was 88% compared to 85.9%, at the same time last year, for a 2.1% increase over last year.

This is good news. I am grateful to all of our faculty and staff who have worked hard to help us to recruit, retain, and graduate our students. I look forward to continued improvement in this important metric.

Vice President for Student Affairs Search

As you know, over the Summer, we initiated a search for a new Vice President for Student Affairs. The committee met diligently over the Fall semester and brought two candidates to campus late last semester.

After considering the input from the search committee, as well as the evaluations provided by those who attended the finalist interviews, I have decided to continue the search. Going forward, though, we will post the position as the Vice President for Student Affairs, without the responsibility of Dean of Students. With this change, the responsibilities of the Dean of Students will be absorbed by an existing assistant vice president. Similar to the structure in Student Affairs previously, we will have two AVP positions reporting to the Vice President: the AVP for Student Inclusiveness and the AVP for Student Support/Dean of Students. We have resumed the search process, and we will continue to seek involvement from others within the division and across our campus.

Budget Model

For more than a year, we have been preparing to implement a new budget model. Our model incorporates an approach that creates transparency and balances accountability among academic, auxiliary, and support units. The new model also engages the entire university community in our pursuit of student success, strategic growth, innovation, entrepreneurship, and institutional excellence.

In recent months, we have established new governance committees to help manage the process, including a budget executive committee, a central unit allocations committee, and a space management and deferred maintenance committee. The budget governance committees have begun meeting to put policies, procedures, and processes in place once we are in full swing next academic year.

Over the next few months, we will begin training budget officers and others with budget responsibilities on model development.

This year's strategy for developing next year's budget represents a hybrid approach that adheres to the principles of transparency and engagement. Our goals are to educate the campus community on the University's financial condition and to engage faculty and staff in generating ideas regarding strategic investments and cost saving initiatives. The Faculty Senate and Staff

Congress are already engaged in soliciting ideas. Open forums will be held to provide additional opportunities for feedback. The budget governance committees will be consulted at strategic points throughout the process.

We have also developed a website with resources, communications, and more information. The information can be accessed at http://newbudgetmodel.nku.edu.

Unless the Governor and the General Assembly allocate additional state support for our University to fix the existing funding disparity, it will again be difficult to develop a balanced budget for next academic year.

Emergency Preparedness

Over the winter break, our Police Department conducted an emergency preparedness exercise in coordination and collaboration with other local first responders. This is just one of many activities and training exercises that we are engaged in to be prepared for an emergency on our campus.

Sue Hodges Moore, Senior Vice President for Administration and Finance, is leading a cross-divisional committee to consider our emergency preparedness, emergency response protocols, and emergency communication protocols. Dr. Hodges Moore and members of the committee will provide a more detailed report at the March Board meeting.

Street Reach App

You may have read some articles in our local newspapers or seen a segment on our local television stations highlighting the creation of the 'Street Reach' app. The Street Reach app, which I mentioned last Friday during the convocation, aims to break down barriers between the homeless and street outreach services by allowing the public to make electronic reports of individuals in need. It also allows the homeless to reach out for help.

Students Justin Hill, a developer in the Center for Applied Informatics, and Brittney Kane, who is pursuing a master's degree in social work, led the project. The project was a partnership between the Center for Applied Informatics, the College of Education and Human Services, and local community organizations including Strategies to End Homelessness.

I am proud of our innovative and entrepreneurial students who are working in our community to solve pressing problems. And I am especially proud that our community seeks out our students to help address important community needs.

Athletics Update

As I also mentioned in the convocation, I am very proud that for the ninth semester in a row, our student-athletes achieved above a 3.0 GPA. In fact, we reached our highest GPA ever – 3.24. Twelve out of our 15 sports had team GPAs that exceeded 3.0. More than 30% of our student-athletes earned academic honors in the Fall semester. Congratulations to the students, their coaches, and the entire department for this outstanding achievement.

Last semester, we were also graded in a different way. Recently, officials from the Horizon League evaluated our athletic competition broadcast based on ESPN's standards. Our overall rating was an 'A.' We received the highest score possible in every dimension, including directing, game documentation, talent, graphics, and camera placement. What makes this achievement truly remarkable is that most aspects of our broadcasts are run by students with the help, support, and advice of Bill Farro from Information Technology, and Wes Akers from our Electronic Media and Broadcasting department in the College of Informatics. I want to express my appreciation to Bill, Wes, and all of our outstanding students who run our broadcasts.

Sara Sidebottom

Last Friday, Sara Sidebottom, our University's general counsel, advised me that she will retire on July 31. Sara has served our University in this capacity for 16 years. She has provided sound legal advice and wise counsel, and I am grateful for the support she has given to me. I will form a search committee to assist in hiring Sara's successor. But now, please join me in recognizing Sara and thanking her for her service.

Mr. Chairman, this concludes my report.

Chris Smith and Michael Keating

I'd also like to recognize another faculty member, Chris Smith, a photographer from our School of the Arts. Two weeks ago, Mr. Smith and Michael Keating, a former photographer with the Cincinnati Enquirer and a partner and friend of our photography program, were featured in The New York Times. Several years ago, Mr. Smith and Mr. Keating embarked on a project to photograph high school basketball in the state of Indiana. So far, they have photographed more than 100 high school gymnasiums and traveled more than 10,000 miles. If you have not yet seen the article, I encourage you to look it up. The photographs capture the special spirit of the sport and the culture.

I'd also like to take this opportunity to preview an event that our School of the Arts is hosting in September. Mr. Keating, and the Clyde Day Foundation, have generously sponsored a program featuring Livingston Taylor, James Taylor's brother. Livingston Taylor is an accomplished song writer and musician. He will give a song writing workshop for our students and will perform a benefit concert in Greaves Hall. We'll be sure to share information when more details are available.

ACE Fellow

As many of you know, we are hosting Dr. Jeremy Webster, an American Council on Education Fellow, who is spending the semester with us. Dr. Webster is the Dean of the Honors Tutorial College at Ohio University. It is a great honor to be chosen as an ACE Fellow.

For that reason, I am pleased and proud to inform you that Dr. Doris Shaw, Chair of the Marketing, Sports Business, and Construction Management Department at our University, has been chosen as a 2016-2017 ACE Fellow. Please join me in congratulating Dr. Shaw on this outstanding achievement.

Enrollment Update

Our pre-enrollment admissions reports currently indicate positive trends in new student enrollment for Fall 2016. We are closely monitoring our admit rate and the number of new students who have confirmed their enrollment for the Fall class.

For the Fall 2016 class, our confirmations are up 61 students compared to this same time last year. Our overall yield rate is also up from 15% in Fall 2015 to 22% in Fall 2016.

While international enrollments typically come in a bit later, we are pleased that we are making progress in this domain as well. As of today, international admissions are tracking significantly ahead of last year.

We are also trending up in transfer students. Compared to the same time last year, we are up 2% – or 12 transfer students for the Fall 2016 class.

We are also very pleased that the quality of our freshman class, as measured by ACT score and high school GPA, is also trending above last year's record rates.

Our law enrollments and graduate enrollments are showing positive trends, as well.

Finally, our preliminary Fall 2015 to Spring 2016 retention rate is 89%. That's the second highest Fall to Spring retention rate in our University's history.

I'll continue to keep you informed as we work through this semester and the summer to enroll these students.

Budget Exercise

Over the past several weeks, Mike Hales, Sue Hodges Moore, and I have given several budget presentations to stakeholder groups including Staff Congress, Faculty Senate, and the Student Government Association. This month, we have also held an open forum for faculty and staff to discuss our various budget pressures and to solicit ideas on how to confront those pressures. In these presentations, we have relied on certain assumptions regarding tuition, state appropriation, and enrollment to demonstrate how all of these combined factors impact our overall budget. We are also asking for the collective input of our faculty and staff. During the budget presentations, we asked for suggestions in three areas: (1) ideas for expense reductions; (2) ideas for revenue strategies related to enrollment and retention, and tuition; and (3) ideas for priorities that should be funded. Our final open forum will be tomorrow morning.

Because of the uncertainty in the state budget and our enrollment, I have also asked each vice president to prepare various budget scenarios and contingencies for a 4% and 6% reduction.

Requests for Proposals – Athletic Training and US 27 Development

In these challenging budget times, we all know the importance of being effective and efficient stewards of the resources entrusted to us. This week, we will issue requests for proposals seeking private companies to partner with us in two areas. The first RFP seeks a partner to provide athletic training services to our student athletes and for Campus Recreation. This arrangement will allow us to reduce our costs, improve the wellbeing of our student-athletes, and to provide more services to students who use our recreation facilities and who participate in intramurals or club sports.

The second RFP is to assist us in developing the property we own on Nunn Drive between US 27 and the BB&T Arena. We are seeking a partner to assist us with the planning, design, building, and financing of a high quality mixed-use development that may include retail, offices, student housing and/or market rate housing, and possibly a hotel. This partner will also assist us in planning, designing, building, and financing new student housing and renewal of our existing student housing. With the right partner, we hope to grow our on campus housing from approximately 2,000 beds today to 3,000 beds by 2026.

I will continue to keep you informed of the results of both of these requests for proposals.

Updating of the Athletics Brand

In Fall 2015, we conducted research with key stakeholders, including students, season ticket holders, faculty, staff, and alumni, regarding their experience with NKU Athletics. One result of this research was the development of visual identity guidelines for athletics. This work complements the visual and verbal identity standards that were established for the University in 2015. The new NKU Athletics guidelines allow us to speak with one voice and to elevate our brand awareness in our community, in the Horizon League, and around the nation. Top level highlights from the guidelines include: tightening of the primary NKU Athletics logo mark and establishing it as the sole mark for NKU Athletics; declaration of a primary and secondary font; development of word marks created for sport-specific use; and detailed descriptions around the use of the word "Norse" and Victor E. Viking's image. The establishment of these visual identity guidelines will not add additional expense to the University, as physical assets will be replaced during their natural life cycle.

Rich Boehne – National Award

Finally, I want to make a few remarks about the absence of Regent Boehne at today's meeting. Rich is dedicated to our University, his alma mater. And he rarely misses a Board meeting. But today, he has a good excuse for his absence – a very good excuse.

This evening, in Washington, D.C., Rich will receive the First Amendment Leadership Award from the Radio Television Digital News Association. This award is given annually to "a business or government leader who has made a significant contribution to the protection of the First Amendment and to freedom of the press." As Chairman, CEO and President of Scripps, Rich is being recognized tonight for having risen "to the top of one of America's most entrepreneurial journalism enterprises by championing a mission-focused culture and by committing the company's resources to supporting diverse views."

At NKU, one of our most fundamental commitments is to have a lasting impact on our students. And we hope that, by virtue of the education that they receive here, our students in turn will have a lasting impact on others whom they serve.

Rich regularly and graciously credits his NKU education for giving him the skills to succeed professionally and for instilling in him the values that have enabled him to live a meaningful life. And it is clearly evident that Rich has had and continues to have a lasting impact on our community, our Commonwealth, our country, and our world.

Although he cannot hear us at this moment, let's give Rich a round of applause so that he knows how grateful we are for his service and how proud we are that he is a graduate of Northern Kentucky University.

Mr. Smith, that concludes my report.

Presidential Comments:

As you know, as I mentioned a moment ago at lunch, we will celebrate three commencement ceremonies in two weeks. Our law school commencement on Friday evening, May 13 and our two university commencements on Saturday, May 14. More than 1,600 outstanding students will cross the stage and receive their diploma. You just heard about six of these remarkable students at the student awards luncheon. Now, let me tell you about how our recent graduates are doing.

Our Graduates

For the past four years, we have surveyed graduates approximately six months after their graduation. The results demonstrate the outstanding education students receive at NKU. Some of the findings include:

- Consistently from year-to-year, more than 90% of undergraduate alumni responding to the survey indicated that they are employed or are continuing their education.
- Approximately 81% of undergraduate alumni who responded that they were employed found jobs related, closely related, or somewhat related to their major in 2014-2015, an increase of three percentage points compared 2011-2012. Similarly, 91% of graduate alumni responded in 2014-2015 that they found jobs related to or somewhat related to their major, an increase of five percentage points over 2011-2012 responses.

- Finally, when asked where our alumni are obtaining their graduate degrees, the most common answer was NKU.

These results speak to our efforts to encourage students to take advantage of internships and co-ops, a focus on career development as early as a student's freshman year, and our growing reputation in the region.

Housing Demand

I am pleased to report that we are experiencing unprecedented demand for on-campus housing. Our occupancy rate for this Spring is at the highest level in recent history – 94%, including a 96% occupancy rate in Northern Terrace, our newest residence hall. And we have 455 more completed applications for next Fall than we had at this time last year – and we only have 2,000 beds! We are developing plans to house all of our non-local students. However, some local students who do not complete the application by the priority deadline may not be able to live in the residence halls. This strong demand is an important consideration as we look to partner with a developer to build new housing and to renovate our existing housing.

Celebration of Student Research and Creativity

Two weeks ago, we held our 14th Celebration of Student Research and Creativity. More than 640 students and 118 faculty mentors created posters, gave presentations, or displayed their art. The Celebration has become a signature event on our campus. It reinforces our commitment to student research activities and the strong relationships between students and their faculty mentors. I am grateful to Dr. Zach Hart and Dr. Christine Curran, the co-chairs of this year's Celebration. I also want to express my gratitude to the entire committee: Allen Ellis, Hayley Ericksen, Tyler Gabbard, Melanie Hartzel, Vanessa Hunn, Lisa Jameson, Boni Li, Gisele Loriot-Raymer, Kelly Moffett, KC Russell, Ryan Salzman, Melinda Spong, Andrea Watkins, and Kimberly Wiley. This event takes an effort from our entire campus community. Thank you to everyone who worked so hard to provide such an outstanding opportunity.

Campus Bikes

For many years, our University has been a leader in sustainability efforts. From our building construction practices, to the retrofitting of our lights, to our partnership with TANK and Zip Cars, we have taken a leadership role in reducing our carbon footprint and encouraging sustainability. Last week, we added a new dimension to our sustainability program: a campus bike share. At several places on campus, you'll see racks housing brand new NKU bicycles. Students are able to borrow the bicycles for up to three hours free of charge. We are pleased that a bike share is now part of our ongoing sustainability efforts.

Sam Quinones

Last week, we hosted Sam Quinones, the author of "Dreamland: The True Tale of America's Opiate Epidemic." Last Monday evening, Mr. Quinones spoke to a packed Greaves Hall audience of more than 650 students, faculty, staff, and community leaders. The next day,

Mr. Quinones led a Think Tank, spoke to journalism students, and participated in a series of community events. This was the first major public event associated with our Health Innovation Center. And it was a great success. I look forward to many more events associated with the HIC.

Nathan Smith, Liz Thompson, and Katherine Hahnel

This is the time in the academic year when we celebrate both the end and the beginning. We celebrate our students who are graduating and we look forward to welcoming current and new students back in a few months. We celebrate and thank those who are retiring. Today, we celebrate three Regents whose terms end on June 30th. Today marks the last regularly scheduled meeting for Regents Smith, Thompson, and Hahnel.

For the past year, Katherine Hahnel has served ably as our Student Government Association President and Regent. Regent Hahnel has been a staunch advocate for our students both here at our University and in Frankfort. Katherine, you have set the bar very high for all Student Government presidents. Thank you for your service to our University.

Regent Thompson has served our University as a Regent for six years, including service as the Vice Chair of the Board. Regent Thompson has been an outstanding supporter of our University and has dedicated her expertise to serve our students. Liz, many thanks.

Regent Smith ends his term on the Board, and also his term as Chair. Regent Smith has been a fixture on our campus since 1991 when he arrived as a freshman. Nathan bleeds black and gold, and I know that he will continue to be one of our biggest advocates and supporters.

Please join me in thanking Regents Hahnel, Thompson, and Smith for their dedicated service to our University.

Sara Sidebottom

While this isn't her last day, today marks the last official Board of Regents meeting for Sara Sidebottom. Sara has served our University for 20 years, 16 of which have been as our General Counsel. Despite often dealing with difficult issues, Sara always maintains a positive spirit and a sense of humor. I will miss her pride, her experience, and her good judgment. But I won't miss her far too frequent, unscheduled visits to my office at 5 p.m. on a Friday! Please join me in thanking and recognizing Sara Sidebottom.

Presidential Comments:

Welcome
Please join me in welcoming two new people to our University and a dedicated faculty member to her new role as Interim Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

New to NKU are Dan Nadler and Joan Gates. Dan is our new Vice President for Student Affairs. He joins NKU from Eastern Illinois University. Joan is our new Vice President for Legal Affairs and General Counsel. Joan joins us from Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center, and she is a graduate of our Chase College of Law.

Joining us in a new position is Diana McGill, Interim Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Diana is an outstanding long-time faculty member and past chair of the Department of Chemistry. She is also a graduate of NKU. Diana is respected and admired for her dedication and personal attention to our students. You may have seen Diana, and her husband Tom, at our basketball games and soccer matches. Diana and Tom are big Norse fans, and they are generous donors to our University.

Please join me in recognizing Dan, Joan, and Diana.

Status of the Reduction in Force

At the April Budget Presentation, I announced that, in order to balance the budget, it would be necessary to have a reduction in force. Last Spring, we anticipated that nearly 100 staff positions would be affected, including approximately 36 filled positions. At that time, I committed to take all reasonable and appropriate actions to minimize the impact on our existing staff.

Last week, the final employees who were affected by the reduction in force were notified. In total, 35 employees were impacted. Of the 35 employees, eight staff employees are now employed by a University partner. Four employees retired. Four employees were successful in being placed in other open positions at NKU. Two individuals voluntarily resigned. In the end, 17 employees were not able to be placed in other positions with the University.

While I know this result is difficult for those 17 individuals and their families, I am grateful to Lori Southwood and her human resources team for helping us to reduce the total impact on our staff.

Also consistent with our commitment to minimize the impact on our staff, we are piloting a voluntary reduction in work schedule program in the College of Arts and Sciences. Nine employees in the college have been notified that they are eligible. Under this program, eligible employees can voluntarily reduce their workload from the standard 37.5 hours per week to a lesser amount. A voluntary reduction of working hours was just one of the many good suggestions that we heard from our faculty and staff when we had open forums on the budget.

Flyer

On Tuesday, I learned that a flyer with racial themes was posted in a location on our campus. The flyer was posted by an unknown person, and the organization named on the flyer is not an organization that is known to or recognized by the University. The events promoted by the flyer were never held on our campus. And, of course, the flyer was not authorized by the University.

On Tuesday evening, a peaceful protest was organized and conducted by our students. I attended the event, along with several other administrators, faculty, and staff. At the event, I expressed my respect and appreciation for the constructive response by our students, and I reiterated my personal commitment to maintaining and building a campus community that welcomes diversity and values inclusive excellence.

The Dean of Students' office is actively engaged in an ongoing dialogue with our students. And we will continue to spread a message of equality, inclusion, and empowerment on our campus.

Sexual-Based Violence

Our commitment to the safety and welfare of our students is a paramount issue. We have never compromised on the safety and welfare of our students, and we never will.

As you have likely seen, there has been a significant amount of national media attention about sexual-based violence on college campuses and at off campus events involving college students. I am committed to eliminating sexual-based violence, and all violence, on our campus and in our community. To support this commitment, we have excellent staff who oversee all programs and policies related to sexual misconduct on our campus.

Gabby Maloney leads our Norse Violence Prevention Center. Gabby serves students who have been victims of violence, and she also works diligently to prevent violence on our campus and in our community. Gabby and her colleagues host a variety of programs and events that are all aimed at reducing violence. For example, the Norse Violence Prevention Center has or will host the following events on campus this Fall: Step In Speak Up Against Sexual Violence; Let's talk CONSENT training; Lean on Me: an overview on sexual and dating violence and how to support survivors; conversations about healthy masculinity; and Green Dot training. These are just a few programs and events.

Ann James, our Senior Associate Dean for Student Conduct and Rights, works to make sure that we have fair and compassionate disciplinary processes and that the rights of our students are protected.

Kathleen Roberts, as our Title IX officer, helps to facilitate conversations about sexual-based violence and the ways that we can all be involved in stopping violence.

And just a moment ago, I introduced Joan Gates. Joan and her predecessor, Sara Sidebottom, together with our Associate General Counsel Sara Kelley, work to ensure that our processes are fair, consistent, and uphold our high ethical and legal responsibilities.

As a result of the efforts of these individuals, and our entire campus community, we have a safe campus. In fact, for two years in a row, a national study has concluded that our campus is one of the safest in the country. And the number and percentage of reported incidents on our campus are below the national average and less than some of the other institutions in our region. That's very good. But it's not good enough. Through education and training, our goal is to eliminate sexual-based violence on our campus.

Therefore, after consulting with Rich Boehne, our Board Chair, I have directed our legal counsel to engage Dinsmore, a major law firm in this region, to conduct an independent and comprehensive assessment of our policies and procedures related to sexual-based violence. We believe that our policies and practices comply with federal and state law. But because of our commitment to the safety and welfare of our students, I believe that we should continue to identify ways to improve – to exceed the requirements of the law. When this work is complete, I will share the principal findings and recommendations with the Board of Regents and the campus community.

What I have just described is my professional responsibility. But this issue is also personal.

I have four daughters between the ages of 24 and 18. Three of my daughters presently live on a university campus. And one of these three is a student at NKU, and she lives only a few hundred yards from where I sit right now.

I know that Gabby and Ann and Kathleen and Joan and Sara share my professional and personal commitments – a commitment to treat victims with compassion and respect, and a commitment to end sexual-based violence on our campus.

But you may have read in the media some stories that suggest that we are indifferent to the plight of such victims or that we are trying to hide the truth about these issues on our campus. These articles have been promoted by a lawyer who would prefer to litigate his case in the media, as opposed to have the claims fairly adjudicated by an experienced federal judge. This lawyer knows that we cannot disclose information that is protected by federal student privacy laws, even when those facts would support the University's legal position.

We will continue to respect the privacy rights of our students, even when it is tempting to disclose that information in order to refute an unfounded claim or to respond to unfair stories in the media.

The media accounts that this lawyer has orchestrated are not merely annoying. They are insulting. They unfairly damage the reputations of the women and men who volunteer to serve on our Board of Regents.

They unfairly damage the reputations of the men and women who founded and built the University.

They distract and threaten to demoralize our faculty and staff, who are dedicated to the success and safety of our students.

And they undermine the justifiable pride that more than 50,000 alumni and 14,000 students have in our University.

But, ladies and gentlemen, that is the price that we must pay to respect the integrity of the judicial process, and that is the price that we must pay to honor and defend the privacy rights of our students.

Allow me to end where I began. Our commitment to the safety and welfare of our students is paramount. We have never compromised on the safety and welfare of our students, and we never will.

Enrollment

As you know, the competition for new student enrollment in our region has been significant, but our strategic investments in enrollment are yielding results. The quality of our freshman class continues to improve. This Fall, based on our preliminary data, our incoming freshman class has a median ACT score of 24 and a median high school GPA of 3.5. Five years ago, the median ACT score was 22. Ten years ago, it was 21.2. To go from 21.2 to 24 in just one decade is remarkable. It is a reflection of the quality of our faculty and our academic programs, and it is the product of our effective recruitment efforts.

This year, we have also enrolled more new international students. That number has been in flux in recent years, but this Fall we will welcome more than 80 freshmen from more than 30 countries. When you include returning and exchange students, we have students from more than 70 countries on our campus this year.
This Fall we also saw an increase in new graduate students. This is very positive news. As you may recall, the number of new graduate students at NKU has declined the last several years. I am grateful to Christian Gamm and the directors of all of our graduate programs for their successful efforts to increase graduate student enrollment.

We also continue to see measurable improvement in our retention rates. I am proud to report that, based on our projected data for this Fall, our first-to-second-year retention rate will increase by more than two percentage points this year. This Fall, we anticipate our retention rate will be 72%. In 2010, it was 66%. That's a six percentage point increase in just six years.

Athletics Update
I am pleased to share that our transition to Division I is now complete. We have been formally approved as active Division I status by the NCAA, and our student-athletes can now compete for NCAA championships. I'd like to thank our outstanding student-athletes, Ken Bothof and his staff, the members of the Institutional Performance Program Committee, the Board of Regents for your steadfast support, and our loyal fans. We have much to be proud of and much to look forward to.

Speaking of looking forward to good things, I hope you'll join us for our "Night with the Norse Gala" on October 8 at Great American Ballpark. The event is a celebration of our successful transition to NCAA Division I, and it is an opportunity for our fans from across the region to learn more about our outstanding teams and our student athletes.

Katie Herschede
Today marks Katie Herschede's last day at our University – her University – and her last official Board of Regents meeting. Katie has served our University for 10 years, the last six as the Executive Assistant to the President and Secretary to the Board. Prior to joining the President's Office team, she was the Director of Government and Community Relations.

Katie's legacy on our campus goes back much further than that. As an undergraduate, she was a strong advocate for her fellow students, representing them in various ways, including leadership of our Student Government Association. As SGA president, Katie led the effort to secure funding for our Student Union when the state legislature would not fund the project.

Katie is a proud NKU alumna. She earned her bachelor's degree in business management. And, in May 2015, she received her doctorate degree in educational leadership from NKU.

I will miss her pride, her knowledge and her experience, and her good judgment. Like so many of our graduates, she has given much back to our University and to our community. We all have benefited from Katie's abiding affection for NKU. She has had a lasting impact.

Please join me in thanking Katie for her dedicated service to our University.

Presidential Comments:

Thank you, Mr. Boehne. Good afternoon, everyone.

It has been a busy and productive semester. But before I share just a few highlights, I want to share one more piece of information about our enrollment efforts, in addition to all of the information that you received this morning.

As you recall, we hosted the Governor's Scholars Program this past summer. More than 350 GSP students were on our campus. By all accounts, it was a great experience.

To capitalize on our investment, our admissions staff implemented enhanced strategies to encourage GSP students to apply and enroll at NKU. In addition to letters and telephone calls, we used advertising on social media. And I recorded two videos – one for GSP students who were on our campus and one for all of the other GSP students – and we emailed those videos to the students.

These efforts are already paying dividends. The number of GSP students who have already been admitted to NKU for Fall 2017, compared to this time last year, has increased more than 50% - from 54 admitted applicants last year to 82 this year.

That's a good return on our investment.

Speaking of good investments with outstanding returns, two weeks ago, we hosted a regional and statewide conference on Inclusive Excellence.

The program consisted of several prominent speakers, including Dr. Damon Williams, one of the country's leading authorities on inclusive excellence in higher education, and Chris Brassell, the director of inclusion and talent management for Price Waterhouse Cooper. There were also panel discussions and faculty workshops.

We received organizational and financial support from the University of Kentucky and the Council on Postsecondary Education. But most of the heavy lifting was done by Kathleen Roberts and Regent Ward. Kathleen and Andrá, thank you. Well done.

Some good news from Academic Affairs.

On Monday, the American Association of Collegiate Nursing presented its Academic Practice Partnership Award to Kim McErlane and Tina Volz. Kim is a faculty member in Advanced Nursing Studies and Tina is the Director of Nursing Research at St. Elizabeth Healthcare. The award is in recognition for their leadership of the Northern Kentucky Nurse Interprofessional Research Collaborative. Through their efforts, we have seen significant improvement in interdisciplinary research among faculty, practitioners, and students in our region. Congratulations, Kim and Tina.

Professor Joan Ferrante is also continuing to have a lasting impact on our community. Joan is the program evaluator for a federal literacy grant that was recently awarded to the Newport Independent School District. Newport's grant is for more than $1.9 million – which is approximately $500,000 more than the grant awarded to any other school district in the country. And our students will be able to work with Joan on this project.

October was an especially busy and productive month in student affairs. Our outstanding staff and dedicated students organized many programs and events to celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month, Disability Awareness Month, LGBTQ History Month, Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Prevention Month, and Health and Wellness Awareness Month. That's right – all in just one month.

Since the beginning of the academic year, we have welcomed two new Greek organizations to NKU: Phi Mu Sorority and Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity. The continued and increasing interest by national organizations to affiliate with NKU is a testament to the outstanding contributions of our students and our staff.

October was also a very good month for our student athletes. On October 8, the members of our Go Norse Fund hosted an event to celebrate our successful transition to NCAA Division One. The event sold out – more than 325 people were in attendance. There were more than 100 silent auction items and several outstanding live auction items, including a trip to the Super Bowl, and to the Final Four, as well as a one-week stay at a beachfront house in the Bahamas. I reminded the winners of those auction items that I am a very good traveling companion, but I haven't heard from anyone…yet.

The event revenue exceeded $100,000. And it successfully introduced many new supporters to our University and to our athletics program. Ken, to you and your staff, well done.

Our teams and student athletes are having an excellent season.

Our women's soccer team earned the number three seed in the Horizon League tournament, and on Monday night, our women defeated Wright State in the first round. We play Detroit Mercy in the semi-finals on Thursday. For the second consecutive year, Macy Hamblin was named Player of the Year and Offensive Player of the Year.

After winning seven consecutive matches without losing a game, our volleyball team is currently fourth in the Horizon League.

Our men's cross country team finished third in the championship race, while our women's team finished fifth.

It's been a very good year so far. And our basketball teams begin their seasons very soon.

Finally, while speaking of great performances by our students, I hope some of you had the opportunity to see our production of "Ma Rainey's Black Bottom." Jennifer and I saw the final show on Sunday.

They play was written by August Wilson, who is often referred to as "America's Shakespeare." The play is part of a ten-play series, each play chronicling a decade in the African-American experience.

Our production was directed by Professor Daryl Harris, with assistance from Professor Brian Hogg, who coordinated the music.

Simply put, the performances by our students were remarkable. And the majority of them are freshmen or sophomores.

It was another impressive achievement by our School of the Arts.

Presidential Comments:

December Commencement

A few weeks ago, we celebrated our annual December commencement exercises. All of you – our Regents – attended these two ceremonies. Thank you for joining our graduates and their families and friends on this special day.

During those commencement exercises, we conferred more than 1,000 degrees upon a talented and diverse group of women and men. Although we have not yet tallied the final numbers, I have been advised that the number of degrees conferred may be the largest ever for our December commencement. That result is the tangible, measurable manifestation of the sustained commitment of our dedicated faculty and staff. They continue to earn our appreciation and admiration.

Enrollment

But as we continue to produce more graduates at higher rates, that success puts increasing pressure on us to recruit more students in the face of increased competition and declining demographics.

In response to these challenges, we have begun to put into effect the new Enrollment and Student Success Implementation Plan that was presented to you last Summer. We have rolled out several of these strategies, and we are beginning to see promising results. For example, we are implementing our new scholarship/need-based model and our new Tuition Incentive Program. We are also hosting the Governor's Scholars Program and enhancing the connection of School Based Scholars to our University. Our scholarship offers and acceptances are seeing significant increases in our strategic markets and student populations; SBS numbers are at an all-time high for spring semester; transfer student numbers are up; the number of GSP scholars applying to NKU has increased; and Pathfinders had the best Fall to Spring retention rate to date.

While we have seen growth in segments of our enrollment, we do face headwinds that impact our overall enrollment. As I mentioned, we graduated one of our largest winter classes in December, which is an achievement to celebrate. But our success in conferring degrees means that we have fewer students enrolled in Spring classes. Moreover, last Fall presented a unique academic calendar structure: Thanksgiving and Winter breaks fell earlier in their respective months, which shortened the academic calendar and reduced the number of available registration days before the Winter break. We learned our lesson; we have already revised our priority registration windows for the next few years to ensure that students have a maximum allotment of time before the Winter break to meet with advisors and register for Spring courses. For this year, we redoubled our efforts to reach out to students who had delayed their registration, with staff from across the campus coming together to implement the "Don't Delay, Register Today!" campaign to encourage students to register last week, the week prior to the start of classes.

We are presently tracking a bit behind our enrollment for Spring 2017, but our registration efforts continue throughout this week.

Facilities Update

Work on the Health Innovation Center is presently focused on enclosing the building and installing the major mechanical equipment. A majority of the exterior framing for the facade is complete, and one wing has been covered with its exterior insulation. The temporary roof has been installed, and the major mechanical equipment has been delivered and is in place.

With respect to the renovation of Founders Hall, all of the exterior windows have been replaced. As you know, the interior of Founders Hall was demolished, leaving only the building structure. Contractors are finishing Founders Hall from the top down. Wall framers are now on the third floor, utility rough-ins are finished on the fifth floor and will begin on the fourth, and drywall installers began work on the fifth floor last week. A new five story mechanical shaft has been cut through the building, in the area behind the elevator shafts. Structural modifications to open Founders Hall to the new construction are also under way.

The bidding for the entire project is now complete. I am very pleased to report that the entire project is currently on schedule and within budget.

US 27 and Student Housing

We are also making steady progress in discussions with Fairmount Properties for the development of the 12-acre US 27 site. Fairmount has indicated a strong interest among hoteliers for a 100-120 room hotel and retail interest is also strong. The project will include market rate apartments and office space, along with a structured parking facility. Fairmount has networked extensively throughout the university and local community, including meetings with representatives of the KY Transportation Cabinet, the NKY Chamber of Commerce, and city and county representatives. I am cautiously optimistic about the ultimate outcome.

As to the student housing project, American Campus Communities completed four focus groups with students and NKU housing staff in early December. Students reacted very positively to the proposed floor plans. Not surprisingly, affordability was a recurring theme expressed by our students. Financial discussions will continue over the next two to three months, as we work to understand the implications of building a new residence hall and completing upgrades to our existing residential facilities.

Invest in Success

In order to ensure that we have the resources to retain the faculty and staff to serve the students who will be attracted to our campus by these facilities, we must continue to advocate for our fair share of state funding. That's why we have resumed again this year our successful public advocacy program – Invest in Success.

At our January convocation last Friday morning, I outlined our two principal objectives for the legislative session that began last week in Frankfort. Our first principal objective is to persuade Governor Bevin and the General Assembly to implement the outcomes-based funding formula that all of the public university presidents have now endorsed.

Our second principal objective is to persuade our elected officials to appropriate an additional annual $5.1 million to our University to address the funding disparity that has impeded our growth and impact. Last year, as you know, the legislature approved an increase of $5.1 million for NKU. This increase substantially reduced the funding disparity. Now, we need our elected officials to finish the job – to increase our appropriations by another $5.1 million to eliminate the disparity entirely.

I am cautiously optimistic that we will achieve these two objectives in this "short session," or in the next legislative budget session in 2018.

Student-Athletic Academic Success

Speaking of success, I am pleased to report that our student-athletes had another record-breaking semester. For Fall 2016, across all sport programs, our student-athletes earned a collective GPA of 3.27 – that's the highest GPA in the history of the University. And that makes 11 consecutive semesters in which our student-athletes earned a collective GPA of 3.0 or higher.

These excellent results are the product of the efforts of many people, including the student athletes and their professors.

The academic success of our student athletes is also made possible by the commitment of our dedicated staff: Leslie Fields, our associate athletic director and senior woman administrator; Debbie Kirch, our senior academic advisor; Kalin Holland, our academic advisor; and Kelsey Dunaway, a graduate assistant. Leslie, Debbie, Kalin, and Kelsey are here with us this afternoon. Please stand so that we may express our appreciation for your contributions to this very important work.

Executive Assistant/Secretary to the Board

Finally, I am pleased to report that we have hired a new Executive Assistant to the President and Secretary to the Board of Regents. His name is Ben Jager.

Ben is a native of Northern Kentucky. He graduated from Covington Catholic High School. Ben received his BA in sociology from Eastern Kentucky University, and he earned a MA in education from Virginia Tech.

Since 2009, Ben has worked in student affairs at the University of Nebraska – Omaha, a comprehensive, metropolitan university that has a similar mission to ours. Ben also handled some special projects for the Chancellor.

While it may not be possible to replace Katie Herschede, I am confident that Ben will serve our University and this Board very well. Ben's first day at NKU will be on March 6.

Conclusion

Mr. Boehne, that concludes my report. Thank you.

Presidential Comments:

Good afternoon.

Partnership with University of Kentucky and St. Elizabeth Healthcare

Two weeks ago, we announced a very exciting partnership with the University of Kentucky Medical School and St. Elizabeth Healthcare to establish a regional medical school campus here at NKU.

The UK College of Medicine at Northern Kentucky University will be a fully functioning four-year program, utilizing the same curriculum and assessments as UK's Lexington campus. On-site faculty will have UK College of Medicine appointments and teach in small groups. They will also provide simulated patient experiences with lectures delivered from Lexington utilizing educational technology. Clinical experiences will occur at St. Elizabeth Healthcare and surrounding community practices.

The program will strive to enroll students from this region, and a certain number of spots will be reserved for NKU undergraduate students who meet the admission standards.

We are proud to partner with the University of Kentucky and St. Elizabeth Healthcare to leverage our individual strengths to bring professional medical education to the Northern Kentucky region. Among other things, this medical school campus at NKU will help us further the mission of our Health Innovation Center to improve the health of the people that we serve.

Outcomes-based Funding Legislation Update

I am pleased to report that SB153 has passed both the Senate and the House. This historic, transformative legislation will now go to Governor Bevin for his signature.

This legislation is the result of a collaborative effort among the Council on Postsecondary Education, a group of dedicated university presidents, and the Kentucky General Assembly. It will benefit higher education in Kentucky, specifically the students who will enroll in our public universities, as well as the taxpayers who help fund our institutions.

Outstanding Civic Education Leader Award

I would like to congratulate Dr. Ryan Salzman, Assistant Professor of Political Science, for receiving the Outstanding Civic Education Leadership Award from Secretary of State Alison Lundergan Grimes. The Outstanding Civic Education Leadership Award recognizes a teacher, school administrator, educational leader, legislator, or community leader who has "made notable contributions toward promoting or implementing civic learning to prepare students to be engaged and responsible citizens."

Ryan was chosen among hundreds of other applicants to represent our region for his innovative work in promoting and implementing civic learning that will prepare his student to lead lives of purpose and service. He heads the Future Leader Internship Program – and created a similar summer-away program in Washington D.C. – that brings policy issues to life by giving students access to the leaders of the Commonwealth and the Nation.

Ryan's dedication to our students and our community is a great example of the faculty members we have here at NKU. We are very lucky to have him.

Reappointment, Promotion, and Tenure

In just a few moments, I will ask you to approve my recommendations regarding the reappointment, promotion and tenure of several of our outstanding faculty members. I'd like to recognize these faculty members who I recommend for tenure and promotion. As you know, this is a significant achievement. I'd like to extend my congratulations to:

Military Friendly Campus

I am proud to report that Northern Kentucky University has been awarded the designation of Military Friendly School by Victory Media, the premier media entity for military personnel transitioning into civilian life. As a 2017 Military Friendly School, NKU is ranked in the top 15 percent of colleges and universities that are working to support military service members, veterans, and dependents as students and ensure their success on campus. This is the seventh consecutive year NKU has received this designation.

My thanks go out to Peg Adams, Director of the Veteran's Resource Station, and all of her staff for establishing an environment where our military students and their family members can find the support that is essential to their successful transition to and success at NKU. Veterans and their families are an integral part of the NKU community, and we will continue to ensure that they have the support and resources they need to be successful

Men's Basketball

Our men's basketball team made history last week in more ways than one. They defeated University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee to earn a berth in the NCAA Tournament in our very first year of tournament eligibility. We are only the second team since 1970 to achieve this remarkable feat.

Prior to the Horizon League Tournament, the team set a new school record by winning 21 games this season. This success is due in large part to Horizon League Coach of the Year John Brannen and all of his staff – they've done a remarkable job with our student-athletes. Congratulations also to Athletic Director Ken Bothof and his staff for their leadership of the program. But the lion's share of the credit goes to our outstanding players – our student-athletes. They represent us well on the court and in the classroom.

We learned on Sunday, surrounded by over 500 enthusiastic Norse fans, that the team will travel to Indianapolis on Friday to play the University of Kentucky Wildcats in the first round of the NCAA tournament. The game will start at approximately 9:40pm that evening.

I am very proud of the team and all of their accomplishments this season. They have shown the country what we already know – that there is something special happening here at Northern Kentucky University.

I will conclude with a short video that will put everyone in the proper mood for the game. [VIDEO] Thank you to Jim Nilsson and his staff for putting this video together on such short notice.

Mr. Boehne, that concludes my remarks.

Presidential Comments:

Earth Day of Service

On Saturday, which was Earth Day, Jennifer and I joined a group of students, faculty, and staff to beautify our campus. We planted flowers, bushes, and evergreen trees near the Student Union and Nunn Hall.

Our dedicated Facilities staff assisted the group: Bill Moulton, Roger McCulley, Ben Broomall, Nick Koch, Jodi Bauer, Scott Barton, Cooper Davis, and Adam Hoffman.

A special thank you to Dr. Banwari Mittal for bringing several of his students to participate in the event.

I would also like to extend my gratitude to Vice President for Student Affairs Dan Nadler, Regent Will Weber, and the entire Student Government Association and Northern Kentucky

Leadership Institute for organizing this event. Jennifer and I were honored to have been a part of it.

Senior Awards

During the lunch break, we held our annual senior awards program. This event recognizes graduating seniors who earned our University's top student awards.

Alison Hiler received the NKU Foundation's Student Leadership Award. Alison is a double major in Accounting and Finance. She has achieved many national awards through the Phi Beta Lambda organization.

Austin Stephenson received the Paul J. Sipes Award as a student who displays personal qualities of honesty, character, and industry, and who has actively participated in community affairs while maintaining a strong academic grade point average. Austin will be attending the University of Kentucky law school in the Fall.

Diana Odhiambo (o-thee-ahm-b-oh) received the University Service Award for her outstanding work as the president of the Physics Club. In this role, Diana was instrumental in providing opportunities for her fellow physics majors to succeed in and out of the classroom. She has also been actively involved in the Multicultural Leadership Conference and the Latino Mentoring Program.

Nathan Dasenbrock-Gammon received the Faculty Senate Award for research as a part of his independent study. Nathan has maintained a 4.0 GPA on his way to earning degrees in physics, mathematics, and statistics. Nathan will be pursuing a PhD in physics at the University of Rochester.

Brandon Franklin received the Excelsior Award as a student who has overcome obstacles on the way to academic success. Brandon has battled PTSD as a result of concussions sustained playing high school football. As a result of a strong work ethic and unwavering determination, he has succeeded academically. Brandon will enroll in the Chase College of Law in the Fall.

Brittany Fishburn received the Regents' Award. Brittany has served as President of the Presidential Ambassadors as well as a Peer Assistant in the Career Services office. And she earned a stellar 3.98 GPA. She will be taking her passion for student service to the University of Dayton, where she will pursue a Master's degree in Higher Education.

I was honored to present the President's Award to Brandi Mulligan. Brandi is an embodiment of our University's commitment to inclusive excellence. Brandi helped establish the Black and Brown Educators of Excellence student organization to promote diversity in the education field. Fortunately for NKU, Brandi will be staying on our campus to work in the Office of Student Engagement.

Commencement

These outstanding students are only seven of the more than 1,600 students who will be receiving a degree from NKU this Spring. In ten days, we will honor the rest of our graduating students at commencement.

In addition to the hundreds of students walking across the stage to receive their diploma, we will also award two honorary degrees. At the Chase Law commencement, Jakki Haussler will receive a Doctorate of Laws. Ms. Haussler is the Founder and CEO of Opus Capital Management, which is a registered investment advisory firm. She currently serves as a member of Chase's Board of Visitors, and she is a Founding partner of Chase's Transactional Law Practice Center. She has been an outstanding supporter of our University, and she has dedicated her expertise to serving our students.

At the Sunday ceremony, Regent Ginni Fox will receive a Doctorate in Education. Ginni has served our University with distinction as a Regent for the past six years. She retired in 2006 as the Secretary of the Kentucky Education Cabinet. Prior to that appointment, Ginni served as the Executive Director and CEO of Kentucky Educational Television. Ginni bleeds black and gold. We are very happy to award her with this degree and make her a permanent member of the NKU family.

Both Jakki and Ginni will be speaking at their respective commencement ceremonies. Our board chair, Rich Boehne, will be the speaker at the afternoon ceremony.

Commencement is my favorite day, and I look forward to seeing everyone there next weekend.

Enrollment

As we prepare to wish our graduates well, we are also actively recruiting new students.

Enrollment management has been a focus of ours over the past couple of years as we've implemented new strategies that will continue to provide our University with talented, diverse, and dedicated students. In Summer 2016, the Board of Regents directed us to develop an Enrollment and Student Success Implementation Plan for 2017-2019.

The four guiding principles of the plan are affordability, access, academics, and affinity. The plan was developed with feedback from the university community.

I am pleased to report to you that 26 action items have already been completed or are near completion and another 88 action items are in progress. I would like to share a few of the accomplishments:

- We have restructured our model for awarding institutional aid to incoming freshmen, placing greater emphasis on need-based aid. This amount of aid has doubled from last year, and it has resulted in a nearly 20% increase in the acceptance rate for these prospective students.

- We have implemented a new metro tuition rate called TIP (short for Tuition Incentive Plan) that allows us to be more competitive in Southern Ohio and Indiana markets. To date, we have nearly doubled these scholarship offers with an 80% increase in the acceptance rate.
- Last Summer, we hosted the Governor's Scholars Program on our campus for the first time since 2003. The number of GSP scholars who have already committed to NKU for Fall 2017 has increased by nearly 300%, compared to Fall 2016.
- We have also enhanced our educational diversity scholarships. To date, we have doubled the number of students offered these scholarships with the acceptance rate increasing by 40%.

We are already seeing the rewards of this program in its first year, and I believe that it will continue to pay even greater dividends in the years to come.

Another strategic enrollment initiative that has continued to increase our visibility is the Road2NKU program. Over the past three years, we visited approximately 100 high schools in Kentucky, Ohio, and Indiana. Overall, the number of applications received, students admitted, and students committed are higher than before we commenced this tour.

The Road2NKU program communicates our message that NKU is an institution on a rise and is a first-choice option for students throughout the Commonwealth and tri-state region.

Will Weber and Virginia Fox

Now, I would like to recognize two Regents whose terms are expiring.

For the past year, Will Weber has served as our Student Government Association President and Regent. Will has always been strong voice for the student body and a proud supporter of our University. Will, you are another example of the high caliber leaders at NKU. Thank you for all that you have done for NKU and for me.

Regent Fox has served our University as Regent for six years including this past year as Secretary. Ginni has always been a tireless advocate for NKU and its students, faculty, and staff. Her passion inspires each one of us to work harder and to be better. Thank you for your service, Ginni.

Please join me in recognizing Regents Weber and Fox for their outstanding service to Northern Kentucky University.

Conclusion

Finally, I would like to express my deepest appreciation to all of the Regents, those present this afternoon as well as all of the other Regents with whom I have served.

Like our faculty and staff, you clearly value the special opportunity that we have to transform the lives of the student we serve. You have respect for our important mission, and you motivate us to achieve our full potential.

I have been very fortunate to serve with you. You have consistently provided me with good advice, unwavering support, and enthusiastic encouragement. Working for you and working together with our faculty and our staff, we have accomplished a great deal over the last five years.

Thank you very much for giving me the privilege and the honor of serving as the president of Northern Kentucky University.

Presidential Comments:

Welcome

Thanks, Rich.

Board of Regents
September 6, 2017

Although I have been serving as Interim President for about 4 months, this is my first regular board meeting. And so, let me begin by thanking our Board members for the trust and confidence placed in me by asking me to serve.

Although I have had the privilege to serve in many roles during my 18-plus years at NKU, I felt blessed and honored to have had the opportunity to teach for what I believed were my final active years at NKU. However, those teaching years turned out not to be the last chapter.

Although this was not the plan, it is truly an honor to serve in this capacity. The challenges and time demands have been and are many, but leading this outstanding university the past few months has been an unexpectedly rewarding way to conclude my NKU career.

I have been doing and will continue to do all I can to help make the transition to our new president as seamless and effective as possible, and to ensure that we don't lose momentum during this interim period. In that regard, our Board must know that our staff, faculty, and leadership teams throughout the university have continued running at full throttle and have not let this transition slow them down at all. They deserve our thanks.

I do want to extend a special thanks to our executive team and the staff in the President's Office for their unwavering support for me and their dedication to make this transition successful. And, I also want to extend special thanks to our Board chair, Rich Boehne – his strong support has been absolutely indispensable during this period – as busy a professional life as he has, he is always available when needed, and his counsel is much appreciated – I don't know when Rich sleeps!

We have other people serving in new leadership roles that I'd like to acknowledge and welcome.

I'd like to extend my welcome to two new Board members, Regents Ashley Himes and Sami Dada.

1. Regent Himes was appointed by Governor Bevin this summer. When she is not serving her alma mater in this role, Ashley is the Assistant Principal of Northern Elementary School in Pendleton County, and she is a 3-degree holder from NKU.
2. Regent Dada (Sami) is a senior Communications major and, of course, President of our Student Government Association.

Thanks to both of you for your willingness to serve.

Joining us in a new university leadership position is Dr. Mary Kishman, Interim Dean of the College of Health Professions. Mary has been at NKU since 2014 when she came to be our Chair of the Department of Nursing. We are grateful to Mary for answering her university's call to serve during a very important time for the College of Health Professions and the university, particularly with our Health Innovation Center nearing completion and scheduled to open within a year.

A note about athletics. Since the end of the Spring semester, much has been happening in the Horizon League. In early May, Valparaiso departed for the Missouri Valley Conference. Shortly thereafter, the league welcomed the Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis Jaguars, otherwise known as IUPUI. We are excited to have IUPUI in the Horizon League. Their addition provides the league with a valuable presence in Indianapolis. Beyond athletics, however, this Indianapolis presence complements our recruitment plan to identify opportunities to expand our enrollment footprint. We are looking forward to creating a new enrollment pipeline from the additional exposure we'll have in this new metropolitan market only 2-plus hours up the road.

Speaking of enrollment, as most of you know, we don't have final enrollment numbers to report until the November Board meeting when we provide the Board a full report.

However, preliminary bottom line numbers as of the first day of classes show an overall enrollment decline compared to Day 1 last year of approximately .7%.

Recall that our budgeted projection was a 2.5% decline. Again Day 1 numbers don't necessarily provide the picture that we'll see once full enrollment numbers are known for our November report.

Beyond what our fall enrollment numbers will be, additional action is being taken this academic year that will positively impact enrollment for this fiscal year. This includes a launch of Phase I of our accelerated completely online programs beginning in January-March 2018. These online programs will strengthen our enrollments while simultaneously meeting students where they are and where they learn.

In the context of enrollment, just a note about the Governor's Scholars Program:

a. Geoff mentioned in his April Board remarks that we participated in the program in 2016 for the first time since 2003. As a result, we had an increase of nearly 300% in the number of Governor's Scholars committing to NKU over the prior year. We'll have final numbers in our November report.
b. We participated again this summer. Obviously, we can't yet know the numerical impact from our summer 2017 participation – that will be seen next year.
c. But, if you want to appreciate why the impact is likely to be as significant, consider letters I received recently from three of this summer's Governor's Scholars – letters from students living in Lexington, Campbellsville, and Williamsburg. Letters that speak to our academic excellence, our campus facilities, and the campus location – stressing both the comfort of a small town campus environment, yet very convenient access to an urban setting.
d. Based on the preliminary enrollment numbers from the 2106 Governor's Scholars Program and the sentiments expressed in these letters, this program seems to be a great recruiting tool for top talent.

I would also like to take a moment to recognize a few groups and individuals who have recently been honored for their outstanding work.

The Men's Basketball team will be honored by the Northern Kentucky Chamber of Commerce with their ImageMaker Award for bringing national recognition to the region during their thrilling run to the Horizon League Championship and making all of Norse Nation proud during their NCAA Tournament game. The award will be formally presented to the team at the Chamber's Annual Dinner on September 28.

The Office of Information Technology was selected to receive the 2017 Corporate Tech and Innovation Award by Lead Magazine. This award is given annually to the region's leading businesses that have demonstrated professional achievements and a commitment to cultivating a thriving and progressive business. This award will be formally presented at a luncheon on September 27.

Speaking of innovation, we have an actual rocket scientist among our faculty ranks. Physics professor, Dr. Scott Nutter, just had one of his research experiments on cosmic rays sent "via rocket" to the International Space Station. Dr. Nutter is one of a few astrophysicists that NASA selected to work with them to study these particles in space. The good news (I guess) is that the instruments developed by Dr. Nutter and his team for use on the Space Station will enable him to study these particles without himself having to travel to the Space Station. Congratulations Dr. Nutter.

Thanks to the leading work of the Office of LGBTQ Programs and Services Best Colleges recently published a report naming NKU as one of the top 50 most LGBTQ friendly campuses in the country.

We stress the importance of our people being engaged in our community and we seek to develop the leadership potential of our people. One program that does both is a NKY Chamber Program – Leadership Northern Kentucky. I am pleased to report that Dannie Moore, our Assistant Vice President of Student Affairs, is a graduate of the 2017 class of Leadership Northern Kentucky. Congratulations, Dannie.

The Board will shortly be voting on a number of presidential recommendations. One of those recommendations concerns the selection of Chuck Pettit, a retiring staff member, for Emeritus status. He is only the second staff member to receive this recognition. I am glad to see Chuck here this afternoon and want to recognize him for his 40 years of distinguished service to our university. Thanks Chuck.

Last but certainly not least, I am proud to share that our own Board Chair Rich Boehne will be honored with the prestigious Oak Award next week at the Governor's Conference on Postsecondary Education Trusteeship. The Oak Award recognizes each year an outstanding graduate of a Kentucky university who has achieved statewide or national stature and has exhibited a lifelong affection for their Kentucky alma mater. I would say that Rich is a perfect embodiment of that standard. Rich, we are very fortunate to call you an NKU alum and thank you for your dedication to our university.

Start of school

One closing observation. Prior to taking on this interim role, I considered myself pretty well-traveled around NKU. But the past four months have been some of the most rewarding and inspiring moments of my NKU career. I spent much of the week before classes speaking at the various convocation ceremonies for students, the colleges, our Library, and the university – speaking to and hearing from new students, new faculty, and the campus at-large.

I was deeply moved by the overwhelming enthusiasm of each group, and frankly in awe of the remarkable work that is taking place across our campus every single day. That week's experience, indeed the student convocation alone, couldn't help but energize and instill enormous pride in this institution. I hope all of you here today share in that feeling of pride in our institution. I am so appreciative of the opportunity to have experienced that.

Presidential Comments:

Intro:

Thanks, Rich.

In the 2 months since our last regularly scheduled Board meeting, I have spent the most significant part of my time on resource matters – both internally and externally. The primary focus of these resource matters has been on our state appropriation and on the KERS pension situation. Let me touch on both of those.

State Appropriation:

First, our state appropriation. Recall that in the last biennium, all universities experienced a 4.5% (~$2.2M) cut in their FY17 state appropriation. However, NKU received an additional $5.1M in recurring state appropriations in FY18 to address our historical underfunding. That happened because the CPE first identified the extent of our historical underfunding ($10.7M) and the Governor put the entire $10.7M into his budget request to the General Assembly. The legislative process reduced that to $5.1M, with a pledge (not legally enforceable) to address the remainder next biennium. That next biennium is now!

Recall also that during that same legislative session, a performance-based funding model was adopted for KY higher education.

This time around, after weeks of sometimes contentious meetings among all the university presidents and the CPE staff, the Council last Friday approved a budget request to submit to the Governor that included a performance-based $5.1M operating fund increase in NKU's state appropriation, as part of a larger request that included more limited operating fund increases to a few other universities.

New money appropriated for this purpose is essential to address the funding disparity among the Kentucky public universities. This is so because although the performance-based funding model contemplates moving money among the universities to address any performance-based funding disparity from year-to-year, the model is phased in over 4 years, with this year having a full 100% stop loss – meaning that no school can lose any money, so no school can gain money unless new money is appropriated.

A strong advocacy effort will be required to ensure these additional funds are appropriated.

In addition to a performance-based funding increase in operating funds for NKU and a few others, the Council also included in their budget submission the following:

a. A request for funds to offset the projected increase in KY retirement system pension costs for each of the comprehensive universities (neither UK nor UL participate in the Kentucky retirement system);

b. A request for Bucks for Brains funding – funds designed to serve as matching funds for private gifts to support certain endowments or capital projects;

c. And, a request for funds to support capital preservation – to enable universities to address the large backlog of deferred maintenance projects.

Considering the state of Kentucky's finances, support for all these CPE requests is unlikely. However, despite the state's budget woes, in conversations with a number of legislators and the Governor's office, there seems to be support at a minimum for addressing the remainder of NKU's and WKU's underfunding. Again, a strong advocacy effort will be required to keep this issue as a top priority in this legislative session. We will need you, our campus community and our region to come together again to finish the job.

In addition, there is strong support by the Governor and the General Assembly to address the Kentucky retirement system challenge in some fashion. That takes me to my second item

Pension Reform

The current pension system for most of our staff (excluding faculty and senior administrators) is KERS. NKU's current employer contribution into KERS is set at 49.5% of the employee's salary for FY18. Meaning for every dollar we pay an employee in salary, we contribute fifty cents to KERS. The total annual cost to NKU for KERS this FY (FY18) is $18.3M, up from just $3.3M in FY09. That represents an increase of $15M in our annual cost in just 9 years – over 500% increase – an effective $15M budget cut. Twice as large as all the direct cuts in our state appropriation during that time.

Think about this, an extra $15M annual contribution (an average of about an extra $20K per employee in KERS), to provide absolutely no increase in any employee pension benefit – just to fund the benefit the employee already had. This is by far the greatest cause of our limited ability over this period to provide much in the way of salary increases.

We have been told that if there are no changes to the pension system, the employer's contribution rate will increase from 49.5% to 84% next year. This would increase NKU's KERS contribution by over $12M to a total of $31M per year, an increase of 70% in one year. An extra average per KERS employee of about $15K, once again to provide absolutely NO increase in any employee's pension benefits – just to fund the benefits the employee already had.

However, the Governor and legislative leaders have committed to making major changes this year to reform the system. A draft bill is now under consideration by the General Assembly in anticipation of a special legislative session expected to be called by the Governor.

Although the bill as currently written may not represent what is ultimately passed, there appears to be strong support for some core provisions related to KERS. For example,

1. All new employees would go into a defined contribution plan. This means a 401(k)-type plan where the employee contributes a percentage of their salary with a percentage match by NKU into a fund that belongs to the employee. This is the type of system our faculty and senior administrators have had for years.

    a. Although the current draft legislation contemplates the state having its own defined contribution plan, we've requested employees be able to participate in our TIAA defined contribution plan just like our faculty and senior administrators.

    b. A valuable characteristic of the defined contribution plan is that it is portable – meaning employees get to keep their money if they move to another job with another employer.

    c. Also, if the extra $15M that NKU has had to pay into KERS instead went into employees 401(k) type retirement plan, that would have directly increased each employee's retirement benefits, unlike all this money we have poured into KERS which didn't increase any employee's pension benefits.

2. In addition to affecting new employees, Tier III employees (those who started their employment after January 1, 2014 would be transferred from KERS to a defined contribution plan. Roughly 30% of our employees in KERS are Tier III employees. (i.e., about 30% of our staff salary dollars are for Tier 3 employees);

3. We are advised further that other employees in KERS would have an option to change from KERS to a defined contribution plan;

4. Once it is known which employees remain in KERS, the state will calculate the full actuarial cost of the benefits for these employees and current retirees to determine our full liability – that liability will then be financed over 30 years and we will be provided our annual required contribution that presumably will be fixed for 30 years. We've requested more details from the state budget office regarding how we can estimate that cost.

5. Universities would have the option to exit the KERS system entirely by the paying immediately the current actuarial cost for all existing KERS pension obligations (for current retirees and current employees whose KERS benefits would be fixed/frozen upon the transfer). That cost would presumably be less than the actuarial cost for the option where many of our employees remain in KERS. We've requested from the state budget office information regarding how we can estimate that cost and regarding our ability to finance this cost.

6. All this relates to non-hazardous employees. Our NKU police officers are in KERS, but in the hazardous employee program which is significantly different and has to be evaluated differently.

We expect this bill draft to experience some amendments, and we'll keep tracking what is happening to understand fully what the legislation's impact is on NKU's cost, but also how every provision affects our employees.

We want to understand, if we as the employer have an option, what our relative costs are, but also what impact our choice would have on our employees. This is important so we can consider the total impact before making a choice.

We also want to understand the impact of choices our employees may have, so we can appropriately counsel them to help them make the best decision.

This is a very fluid process. I'll keep you updated as much as possible as we learn more.

First Amendment

In recent times, our campus has become noticeably more politically active – and that's a good thing for a university. But with that activism, comes a greater likelihood of conflict among people of competing views. And with that there comes a need for an understanding by all members of our community of the ground rules regarding free speech.

In response to this growing activism, over the past month or so I received a number of communications from students, faculty, and staff objecting to virtually every expression of views on various topics and demanding that the university prohibit certain speakers, certain views, or certain means of expression on campus. These objecting voices demanded that the university protect them from exposure to people, views, or expressions they found offensive.

Those responses, and also a more physical response that damaged an approved display on campus, convinced me that it was important to remind our campus community of what the law requires and permits of a public university related to free speech. I sent an email message to our campus community explaining how the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution applies on a public university campus.

Protecting free speech rights of people on our campus, regardless of how much we might disagree with the views expressed, and regardless of whether the speaker is a student, employee, invited guest, or simply a person choosing to come to campus to speak in our public spaces, is not our choice – it is the law. We do not have the choice to limit speech because it offends others or triggers unpleasant memories in others.

As individuals on a public campus, we have no legally protected right to be shielded from views we find offensive. Our own views on any given topic do not limit other people's rights to share opposing views, either verbally or visually, however disagreeable they might be to us. Indeed, the very intent of the First Amendment is to protect views that might represent minority or unpopular positions from the power of the majority and the state to suppress.

A public university is the ideal place for the free exchange of views and for the battle of ideas – this exchange being essential for the preservation of a free and democratic society.

As we continue to encounter the expression of competing ideas that the 1st Amendment protects, I hope that we as a community can grow to respectfully and thoughtfully engage in these important discussions.

On a more upbeat note, great things happening on campus. Let's turn first to Norse Athletics.

Norse Athletics

Senior Macy Hamblin of the women's soccer team was recently named the Horizon League Player of the Year for the third consecutive time. She is only the second player in league history to earn this tremendous honor.

On the Men's soccer team, junior Jim Barkei was just named as the Horizon League Goalkeeper of the Year.

The men's basketball program has continued to ride the momentum from last season's exciting finish. As a result, season ticket sales are up 75% from this time last year. [That means the team will have approximately 600 new Norse fans cheering in the stands every game this season.]

Additionally, the team was recently ranked #11 in the collegeinsider.com mid-major preseason poll. This is the highest ranking in any poll since the team reclassified to Division I. The team took care of business against Urbana on Saturday in an exhibition game. Regular season play kicks off on Friday at the BB&T Arena at 7pm against East Tennessee State.

The Women's basketball team also held court in their exhibition game over the weekend defeating Asbury College. They open up regular season play at home on Saturday at 1pm against Kent State. Good luck to both teams this weekend.

College highlights

1. There is also similarly momentous activity happening in our colleges. On October 19, students from our Cybersecurity program through the College of Informatics were invited to participate in a "capture the flag" competition through the US Bank Strength in Security Conference. Teams from NKU competed remotely against their counterparts from the University of Minnesota. The students put their web security, computer forensics, and general problem-solving skills to the test. The teams from NKU swept through the competition placing 1st, 2nd, and 3rd. Congratulations to the students as well as Dean Kevin Kirby and his team for continuing to put NKU on the national map regarding cybersecurity.

2. That same day while our informatics students were remotely representing the university, the College of Education and Human Services was busy hosting the Young Women's LEAD Conference on campus. The conference is for Greater Cincinnati and Northern Kentucky high school girls to come together and focus on topics such as leadership, education, and development. It is designed so these girls can connect with nationally recognized speakers, local business leaders, and one another to embrace their strengths to reach their full potential. Organizers expected 600 attendees, but over 900 students attended the event from 35 different area high schools. Congratulations to Dean Cindy Reed and everyone affiliated with this event for drawing such positive attention to the good work being done here.

3. On Friday, NKU is hosting the inaugural conference of the Ohio River Valley Addiction Research Consortium (ORVARC). ORVARC's mission is to increase collaboration among researchers, regardless of institutional and disciplinary boundaries, in an effort to address opioid addiction in the Ohio River Valley. The conference will focus on evidence-based research on neonatal abstinence syndrome (NAS), basically the impact of babies born to addicted moms. There will be nearly 200 attendees from 19 universities in Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, and Tennessee.

4. Finally, also on Friday, our Veteran's Resource Center will lead a Veterans Day flag raising ceremony at noon at the flag pole outside Nunn Hall, followed by an MRE lunch! Recognizing that Veterans Day is a time to honor all veterans, I think we have to consider paying particular attention to the young men and women who volunteer to serve today. We are in probably the most dangerous time to serve in the military since the migration to an all-volunteer military following the Vietnam War. Today's young men and women who enter military service know the enormous dangers confronting them, yet they still volunteer to serve. They are models of courage and selfless service who are true inspirations to all of us. I invite all of you to attend the flag raising ceremony to honor these young men and women.

This concludes my remarks.

Presidential Comments:

Good afternoon and thank you for the opportunity to make a few remarks before we get to the direct business of the Board.

December Commencement

A few weeks ago, we celebrated our annual December commencement. I have to say what a special privilege it was for me to be on stage to congratulate each of our newest graduates. The look of sheer joy on their faces as they crossed the stage is a memory I will not soon forget.

In December, we conferred about 1200 degrees and certificates upon a talented, diverse, and dedicated group of men and women. The number of degrees conferred in December is on par with the record setting pace of the past few years. This success is due in large part to the dedication of our faculty and staff from all organizations within the university who together focus intently on ensuring that our students continue to be retained and graduated at record numbers.

Enrollment

Although we are not yet through the first week of the semester, I have some encouraging news to share about our enrollment numbers. Although official numbers are not obtained until later, as of the first day of class, our total headcount looks to be up very slightly – by 11 students, but up. If this trend holds, it will be the first increase in spring to spring enrollment since 2011.

The momentum from the fall appears to be carrying through to the spring. On top of the large number of December degrees awarded, we are adding more new students as well as continuing to improve our retention and persistence rates. I will provide final spring to spring enrollment results after the final census is taken in March.

Student-Athlete Academic Success

Speaking of records, our student-athletes continue to shatter them in the classroom. For the Fall 2017 semester, the student-athlete cumulative GPA was a 3.37; that's over 0.1 higher than last year's record and makes 13 consecutive semesters with a GPA over 3.0.

Congratulations to the entire Athletic Department, the student-athletes, their professors and advisors for this sustained commitment to academic excellence.

And, oh by the way, our recent men's basketball victory over conference foe Oakland University was not only an exciting game, but it was televised on ESPN2 to a national audience in prime time. Great success on a national stage.

Sue Hodges Moore

Last month, Sue Hodges Moore, our Senior Vice President of Administration and Finance, announced that she is retiring from NKU at the end of February. Sue has dedicated over 40 years of her professional life to higher education in Kentucky through service to NKU, CPE, and the University of Louisville.

While her pending retirement from NKU is not news to anyone here, I wanted to take a moment in this setting to thank Sue during what is her final Board of Regents meeting at NKU. Sue, thank you for your many years of dedicated service to this university and to higher education in our Commonwealth. You have truly made an enormous positive difference in your university. You will be missed. We all wish you the best in your new endeavor as Chief Strategy Officer at Ball State University.

US 27 Development

One of the projects Sue and her team have worked on during her tenure is the US 27 development. A few weeks ago, I was joined by representatives from Highland Heights, St. Elizabeth Healthcare, and Fairmount Properties to announce the plan for a mixed-use, town center-style development along US 27 and Nunn Drive. The development will serve as an exciting gateway to our campus featuring restaurants, market-rate apartments, a hotel, retail space, and a large medical office building for St. Elizabeth and their partners at OrthoCincy. This currently vacant space will be transformed into a regional gathering place both for campus and the community.

The development agreement was signed between us and Fairmount Properties, the developer, prior to winter break. While there is still work to be done in finalizing other legal elements of the project, we expect construction to begin later this year. More to come as this exciting project takes shape.

50th Anniversary and Homecoming

Mark your calendars for Homecoming and the 50th Anniversary Kickoff. Homecoming begins on Sunday, February 4th and runs through Saturday, February 10th with the crowning of the King and Queen at the men's basketball game. The 50th Anniversary will kick off with the Alumni Awards Celebration on Friday, February 9th. Stay tuned for more information about all these events and activities.

Budget/Pension Update

Finally, we can't have presidential remarks without mention of budget.

First, we have been informed by our friends in Frankfort that our current fiscal year state appropriation will be cut by $516K. I will provide greater details to the campus within the next several days by way of a campus wide message, so stay tuned.

Second, the Governor will present his budget for next fiscal year to the General Assembly next Tuesday, January 16th. We've been warned to expect further cuts, so as we manage the current year cut, we will do so with an eye on preparing ourselves for what is likely to follow.

At the same time, the Governor and General Assembly assert their continued intent to address pension reform to get our arms around a program whose cost is at the heart of the state's financial challenges. We received some indication that the Governor's presentation will include alternative budgets – one with and one without pension reform.

We have been strong advocates for pension reform that transforms our current system into one that is sustainable and affordable for the state and for us as a public employer. So, we look forward to working with our elected leaders over the next several weeks as they continue this pension reform effort.

Despite the challenges with the state budget, including the pension concern that has a substantial and direct adverse financial impact on us, we are not letting up efforts to obtain the remaining equity funding that the Governor and General Assembly addressed partially last biennium.

To that end, I am sending out a message today to the entire campus community and our friends urging your strong advocacy with the Governor and our legislators to address the remaining component of NKU's funding disparity as the state addresses these other issues. Your strong efforts were responsible for our success last biennium in obtaining an additional $5.1M is state funding, and we are encouraged by numerous government officials that a strong advocacy effort this year can also be successful. So, we need your advocacy - please read my message and follow up as requested to contact the Governor and our legislators – it will make a difference. Thank you in advance for your response to my request.

Mr. Boehne, this concludes my remarks.

Presidential Comments:

Founders' Day Luncheon

We just finished a wonderful Founders' Day Luncheon today as another event in our 50th anniversary celebration for our campus. We had the opportunity, with the help of some wonderful students, to take a trip back in time of those 50 years to focus a great deal on those amazing people who were here at the very beginning to help build the foundation for this university. It took this special group of folks to do that, people who are willing to step up when there was nothing and to create from that. And of course, we all sit here today as the beneficiaries of the work they've done to get us started. We've been carrying the load, some for a few years and some more years than that. We also have the future leader in the room as well. We want to thank all of those founders for the work they did in establishing the strong foundation for our future.

Homecoming Recap

It has been just over a month since we celebrated the university's 50th anniversary kickoff and homecoming, but the events of that weekend were so wonderful and inspiring, I wanted to share just a few of the highlights.

We honored some of our most outstanding alumni at the awards ceremony that weekend. Bruce Lunsford, a 1974 Chase grad, was honored with the Outstanding Alumnus Award. Senator Wil Schroder, also a young Chase grad, was recognized with the Outstanding Young Alumnus Award. Our own Board of Regents Secretary Andrá Ward was given the Distinguished Service Award for his many contributions to the campus and our community. Congratulations Andrá. And last but certainly not least, Dr. Jacqueline Emerine, associate professor of Communication and a former faculty regent herself, was recognized with the Faculty/Staff Strongest Influence Award for her impact on our students' educational and career aspirations.

We are fortunate to have faculty like Jacqueline and people like Andrá who dedicate so much of their personal and professional talents to work for the betterment of our students and our university. NKU would not be what it is today without your service and dedication.

Also as a part of Homecoming, students, faculty, and staff participated in Service on Saturday. These monthly events coordinate service activities throughout the area to help local organizations. Over 1,000 hours were logged during that February event. For anyone interested in participating in the future, the next Service on Saturday is this Saturday. If you can't make it this Saturday, you can make it on April 21 and join Peggy and me there. You are all invited. You can sign up on the Community Service webpage.

Individual Recognition

One of our sororities has also made a recent impact on our community. Delta Gamma has raised over $18,000 through their philanthropy events for two local nonprofits – Service for Sight and the Cincinnati Association for the Blind and Visually Impaired. Congratulations to the women of this chapter for making such an outstanding contribution to the community.

Two of our faculty members were recently recognized nationally as being at the top of their respective fields. Dr. Kristine Hopfensperger and Dr. Kirsten Schwarz were highlighted by the American Association for the Advancement of Science as two of the top 15 researchers in the country within the food and water security community for their commitment to engage the public on these vital issues.

Dr. Hopfensperger is an associate professor of Biological Science and the director of the Environmental Science Program. Dr. Schwarz is also an associate professor of Biological Sciences and directs our Ecological Stewardship Institute.

Congratulations to both of these individuals on this wonderful honor that brings recognition to them individually of course, but also reflects great credit on our university and our region.

There is also great work being done by our junior faculty as well. Assistant professor of psychology, Dr. Justin Yates, has earned two prestigious awards this year. He is the recipient of the American Psychological Association Division 28 Young Psychopharmacologist Award as well as the Division 25 B.F. Skinner Foundation New Researcher Award. Wonderful professional recognition by a junior member of our faculty. Congratulations!

These are a few examples of the kind of quality that we have scattered throughout our faculty. We try to highlight a couple at these meetings that we can identify so that over time we get a sense of appreciation for the excellence of our faculty at NKU

We also recently learned that our Board Chair Rich Boehne will be inducted into the Kentucky Journalism Hall of Fame on April 9 for his outstanding contributions to journalism and media during his illustrious 30 year career in the business. Congratulations Rich.

Reappointment, Promotion, and Tenure

In just a few moments, I will ask the board to approve my recommendations regarding the reappointment, promotion, and tenure of several faculty members. I'd like to especially recognize those faculty who I am recommending for tenure and promotion. This is a significant accomplishment and milestone in a faculty member's career and deserves special recognition. I'd like to extend my congratulations to:

Men's Basketball

Last night the team took on the University of Louisville. Now the outcome wasn't exactly what we'd hoped for, but to have the opportunity in our first two years of eligibility for postseason play to have to encounter the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville, two perennial powerhouses in college basketball in our state, says something about the rapid advancement of our program here at NKU. We're really proud of the way our team and our athletic department overall has acquitted itself as junior members in the NCAA DI arena.

There is much to celebrate individually about this team as well. For starters, several players received individual all-conference honors. Drew McDonald was named to the All-Horizon League First Team. Lavone Holland II was named to the Second Team, and Jalen Tate earned spots on both the All-Freshman Team and the All-Defensive Team. Congratulations to these players for these honors.

Military Friendly Campus

I am also proud to report that we have been designated with gold status as a 2018 Military Friendly School by Victory Media, which is the premier media entity for military personnel transitioning into civilian life. We are the only gold status institution the Tri-State area.

Congratulations to the team at the Veteran's Resource Station and to all faculty and staff who have played a part in recruiting, serving, and retaining these students.

Budget/Pension Update

Finally, let me speak directly about work in Frankfort affecting our financial posture in very significant ways.

First, a note about our budget challenges that you heard about this morning from Mike Hales, our CFO. The greatest single challenge is our pending nearly $13M increase in our KERS contribution for FY19. That represents a 70% increase in one year. That Frankfort-directed unfunded mandate will require dramatic personnel cuts if relief is not obtained in some manner. Understand that 90% of our discretionary budget, that portion from which we can take cuts to meet this obligation, is personnel costs. A $13M hit represents about 140-150 positions based on average compensation level of both salary and benefits. That's a major hit. And that is what is at stake from just our increased pension costs alone.

In response to this challenge and other budget pressures, our advocacy efforts have focused on two priorities:

1. Equity funding to complete the effort started last biennium to bring NKU's state appropriation level in line with that of other KY public universities. Seeking at least another $5.1M based upon the recognized funding disparity between other KY public universities and NKU.

a. The CPE included $14.7M in its budget request for higher education that includes $5.1M for NKU, representing our share under the state's performance funding model.

2. Pension relief and reform – that is reform that significantly reduces the cost that we bear or direct relief from the nearly $13M increase in our mandated contribution.

   a. One way would be passage of pension reform legislation that dramatically reduces the cost to the system and, in turn, reduces our required contribution;

   b. Another way would be to provide NKU a direct state appropriation to cover the increase, as is done with all state agencies, except for higher education – the CPE requested $47M in its budget for that very purpose to cover the increase of the KERS cost for all the comprehensive universities. They don't have to request anything for UK or U of L because none of their employees are in the Kentucky Retirement System. They are all in a defined contribution plan.

   c. Another way would be to enable NKU to exit the KERS system under terms that remove or reduce dramatically this significant and increasing KERS burden while minimizing, at the same time, the potential impact that such a change would make on those employees moving from KERS to a defined contribution plan.

In our discussions with legislators and the Governor's office, we have made it very clear that the dramatic pension impact also aggravates the funding disparity among KY comprehensive universities because NKU has the largest increase in mandated KERS contributions of all the KY comprehensives.

1. The Governor introduced pension reform legislation in partnership with legislative leaders in both the House and Senate that would have not only reformed the state pension system, but also would have reduced our pension obligations. Essentially, it established a system that would gradually migrate from a defined benefit program to a defined contribution program, by doing the following things with the KERS system:

   a. All new hires would be placed in a defined contribution plan;

   b. All Tier 3 employees (roughly less than 5 years) would be moved from KERS to a defined contribution plan;

   c. All other employees would have the option to opt out of KERS and into the defined contribution plan;

   d. Over time, all employees would be in a defined contribution plan, but it would be phased in; and

   e. No action on that pension bill has been taken by the General Assembly.

2. In addition, the Governor presented his budget bill, which he explicitly described as the budget that is needed assuming no pension reform and no tax reform. And that bill included the following:

a. No equity funding, either direct for NKU or higher education under CPE's request under the performance funding model;

b. No state appropriation to NKU or other universities to provide direct relief for the nearly $13M mandated increase in our pension contribution;

c. A 6.25% cut in the state appropriation for all state agencies to address the pension financial crisis which produced for us a cut of $3.2M under that budget; and

d. A directed cut of the funding for the Kentucky Center for Mathematics – a state mandated program run by NKU, and that's another $1.3M cut in that budget.

3. In response to that, we argued that NKU's state appropriation cut of 6.25% and the KCM cut were designed specifically to help solve the pension problems. While at the same time, we were being required to pay our own share of the pension costs and that was essentially a double tax on NKU. The House responded to that in its budget bill:

   a. The House removed the 6.25% cut in our state appropriation;

   b. But it retained the cut in funding for the KCM;

   c. And like the Governor, however, provided no appropriation to relieve us of the nearly $13M KERS increase; and

   d. Provided no equity funding.

4. These matters are now in the hands of the Senate.

   a. The most visible action by the Senate has been the introduction of two bills addressing pension reform and pension relief:

      i. SB1 is the broad-based pension relief bill, an alternative to the Governor's pension reform bill, which provides much more modest changes than the Governor's bill, but is still designed over time to reduce the cost of our pension system and makes reasonable and fairly modest changes in benefits to make the system sustainable.

      ii. SB66 is a separate bill that is much more targeted to address the needs of KY comprehensive universities and some hybrid state agencies, by establishing a more economically favorable way for NKU and select others to exit the KERS system entirely, if they choose to do so. At the moment, however, SB66 is being held pending action on SB1.

      iii. There is no doubt in my mind that the combination of SB1 and SB66 is more beneficial to NKU and our people than the conditions we face today. I would strongly urge as part of our continuing advocacy effort that we let the Senate and other legislators know that we support those efforts. This is not the only solution to the problem, but among the solutions that are being examined seriously at the moment, it offers the best opportunity for us.

      iv. SB66 in particular, from my perspective, is the only action in Frankfort that offers any opportunity for us to gain some meaningful pension relief from our nearly $13M hit that we are going to confront in only 108 days!

b. Senate leaders are also seriously considering and working toward including some equity funding in their budget, but that also may depend on the outcome in passing pension reform and relief legislation. The other challenge with introducing equity funding by the Senate, while many want to do it, two years ago the Governor included it in the budget. The House took it out. The Senate was able to put it back in. As the Senate has described to us, it is much easier to put it back in, if the original budget had it included even though it later came out. There's a challenge there. There are a number of champions, and they're not only from Northern Kentucky's caucus. There are some other strong supporters for that equity funding. And that would go a long way toward offsetting whatever other fiscal challenges we are confronting as a result of whatever the budget is as well as the pension situation.

c. I can't stress enough the importance of continuing our advocacy efforts, meaning your calls, emails, and personal contacts to let our legislators know you support their work on SB1, SB66, and equity funding.

Senior Awards Luncheon

During the Board's lunch break, we held our annual senior student awards program. This event recognizes graduating seniors who have earned seven of the university's top student awards.

Zane Wagner received the NKU Foundation Student Leadership Award. He is a student in the College of Informatics and has a sterling 3.99 GPA. Zane is very involved on campus through the Presidential and College of Informatics Ambassadors, peer coach in the Informatics Advising Center, and various community roles.

Austin Gullet was given the Paul J. Sipes Award as a student who displays qualities of honesty, character, and industry, and who has actively participated in community affairs. Austin has dedicated his time on campus to the Norse Leadership Society and Colleges Against Cancer. He has also been very involved the past three years with the Covington Independent Schools as a student mentor.

Aaron Luken was honored with the Excelsior Award as a student who has overcome obstacles on the way to academic success. Aaron is a first generation college student who has been the primary caretaker for his grandparents all through college. Despite this, he has been very involved on campus while earning a 3.5 GPA.

Kaitlin Peed was presented the Faculty Senate Award for excellent research in an independent study. She is a Fine Arts major with a 3.91 GPA. Her ambitious independent study involved the exploration of human connections by comparing different mythologies through sculpture.

Alison Kumar received the University Service Award for her contributions to the University and surrounding community. Alison is a very involved student on campus through Theta Phi Alpha Sorority, Presidential Ambassadors, Resident Assistant, and the Norse Violence Prevention Center to name a few.

Will Haueter received the Regents' Award. Will is a captain on the baseball team and four-year starter. He represents the team on the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee. Will has done all this while maintaining a 4.0 GPA. Fortunately for us, he'll be returning to NKU in the fall in the accelerated MBA program.

I was honored to recognize Adam Langsdale with the President's Award. Adam has made a tremendous impact on the development of community at NKU. After a semester abroad at our partner university in South Korea, Adam was inspired to dedicate enormous amounts of his time here mentoring all international students and those domestic students studying aboard.

What a wonderful group of students who have achieved so much while also contributing so much to the vitality of campus life and to the service of others.

Commencement

These outstanding students are just a few of the more than 1,600 students who will be receiving a degree this weekend at our commencement ceremonies.

In addition to the hundreds of students walking across the stage to receive their diplomas, we will also be awarding some honorary degrees. At the Chase College of Law commencement on Friday, the Honorable Amul Thapar will be receiving an Honorary Doctor of Laws degree. He is a federal judge on the United States Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. He also is the first Indian-American judge named to the federal bench.

At the Sunday ceremony, Mr. C. Bruce Johnson will receive a Doctor of Letters degree. Mr. Johnson is an NKU political science graduate and award-winning news anchor with WUSA in Washington, DC. He is active locally and nationally in volunteer public service. Like many of our students, Bruce is a first-generation college student who has gone on to great professional success, while also dedicating much personal time to community engagement.

Also receiving an honorary degree on Sunday is Ms. Alice Sparks. Ms. Sparks is a proud NKU Regent Emeritus. She served as board chair in 1994, making her the first woman to chair a public university board in Kentucky. Alice has always been very involved on campus, serving on the Go Norse Fund Board Executive Team, the NKU Foundation Board of Directors, and through her generous contributions to student scholarships and the athletic department.

Mrs. George Rieveschl, as she continues to prefer to be addressed formally, will also be receiving an Honorary Doctor of Education degree. Ellen is one of our most generous philanthropists. Her dedication to STEM education on this campus has resulted in significant gifts in support of scholarships and scientific instrumentation in the Hermann Natural Science Center and the landmark Digitorium in Griffin Hall that bears the name of Ellen and her late husband George.

Commencement is one of my very favorite times of the year. Commencement provides the validation for all the hard work and dedication by our staff and faculty – the success of our students. And I look forward to seeing everyone there this weekend.

Enrollment

The spring enrollment census has concluded since our last meeting. We are up 0.3%, which is our first spring to spring enrollment gain since 2011. Our primary gains come from our new accelerated online programs, incoming graduate and transfer students, and the continued growth in School Based Scholars, who are high school students taking college courses through NKU.

However, we continue to see challenges in the enrollment among our degree seeking undergraduate students.

Earth Day of Service

A week ago Saturday, my wife, Peggy, and I and a small group of staff and faculty had a great day surrounded by students as we celebrated Earth Day by working to help make our campus a bit more beautiful. We planted trees and mulched near the BB&T Arena so that our guests for commencement this weekend will enjoy a lively spring atmosphere.

Thanks to the Office of Student Engagement and the Student Government Association for coordinating this wonderful activity. Specific thanks go to AJ Miller and Regent Sami Dada for helping to make this great day happen. I would also like to recognize our top notch NKU Horticulture Team for helping out all of us amateur landscapers.

Although, I still wonder how it was that I was assigned to the tree planting team!

Budget

On Monday I sent a message to campus detailing the latest developments from Frankfort at the end of last week regarding two items with a significant impact on our budget posture and our capacity to deal with budget pressures – pension cost and tuition rate caps.

Without repeating the full details from that message, the actions taken by the Governor on Thursday to allow HB362 to become law means that our KERS pension contribution that was scheduled to increase by $12.8M will be frozen at current levels for one year. This relieves a significant budget pressure for the upcoming fiscal year, while still presenting us with a serious financial challenge for the second year of the biennium.

And, on Friday the CPE approved a 2-year tuition increase cap of 6%, with no more than 4% in one year. This 2-year cap provides us greater knowledge and flexibility to plan more effectively beyond just one year as we assess how to manage the myriad of budget pressures this year and next. This added flexibility regarding how we are permitted to use tuition increases to the extent we consider it necessary to address our budget challenges is very helpful.

The bottom line results from the recently completed legislative session is very positive as it relates to the first year of the biennium. Although we will experience a 6.25% direct cut in our state appropriation, our projected performance funding allocation will likely exceed the direct cut and net us a positive $2M in state appropriations. We won't know the specifics of the performance funding allocation from CPE until later this month. Combined with the freeze in our KERS contribution, this positive result comes at a critical time as we confront some of the largest internal budget pressures in years.

Those internal budget pressures include:

1. Our projected fixed cost increases will be about 3 times higher than normal, with increases in health insurance, other insurance, utilities, and projected faculty promotions leading the way;
2. The new Health Innovation Center opening produces significant recurring operations and maintenance costs;
3. We enter the 4th year of a significant annual increase in our continuing financial aid commitments;
4. We confront the need for key investments in matters related to safety and compliance;
5. There is a strong interest to invest in high growth academic programs and our planned fundraising campaign; and
6. In my opinion, there is a strong need to invest in some compensation increase for our workforce.

These internal pressures, standing alone, will require that we make budget cuts and reallocations, but not at the dramatic $20M+ level that we originally feared for the coming fiscal year.

As I mentioned in my message, the Board is tentatively planning for a special Board meeting on May 17th to make budget and tuition decisions, and we'll follow that the next day with a presentation to campus.

I understand and appreciate the high level of anxiety our people have been experiencing, given the uncertainty we've faced regarding the depth of the financial pressures we would have to manage. I also recognize that the mere delay in knowing the specific impact has contributed to that anxiety. We will move as expeditiously and prudently as possible to finalize these important decisions to help settle the campus and return our focus to the important work ahead of us.

I want to personally thank all our employees, including all of you here today, for your patience and support during this very trying time. And, thank you for your continued unwavering dedication to serving our students in the face of this adversity.

NKU Awarded 2018-2019 Gold Award as a Military Friendly School

I am proud to announce that NKU has once again been named a Military Friendly School by Victory Media, the premier outlet for military personnel transitioning into civilian life.NKU received the Gold Award for embracing military service members, veterans, and family members as students to ensure their success on campus.

This is the 8th consecutive year that NKU has received this designation, and NKU is the only Gold status school in the Tri-state area.

NKU is also ranked among the nation's top colleges for veterans in 2018 by The Military Times.

As a veteran myself, I am very proud of NKU's recognition for serving this key constituency.

Regents Boyce, Slaughter, and Dada

Finally, I'd like to take a moment to recognize some individuals completing some special service to NKU.

I want to express my gratitude to Rick Boyce, Arnie Slaughter, and Sami Dada who have faithfully served as our faculty, staff, and student Regents respectively. Each of you has been an excellent representative of your constituent groups and provided a wonderful example of leadership and dedication to this university. Thanks you for your willingness to serve. From my perspective during this past year in particular, I've appreciated that support and your service.

Today also marks the last regular Board meeting as chair for Regent Rich Boehne. Over the past two years, Rich's very steady leadership has been a tremendous asset to not only the Board but to the university during a critical time of leadership transition for NKU. As interim president, Rich's thoughtful and wise counsel during that period, his willingness to be there when I needed someone to talk to has been extremely valuable to me this past year. Rich, I could not have done this job as I have without your help. This university owes you a great debt of gratitude for the extra service that you've had to put in during this transition period.

Arne Almquist

Today marks the last Board of Regents meeting for our Library Dean, Arne Almquist. Arne will be joining Lamar University in Beaumont, Texas closer to his roots. He has been at NKU since 2011 and has made a significant impact on the library and the university as a whole. Arne, you will be missed and we wish you the best of luck in your new endeavor. I can say that I feel proud to this day to have served on the search committee when we brought him here.

Presidential Comments:

Good afternoon.

We have important university matters to conclude this afternoon, with three business-related presidential recommendations for the board to act on.

Considering the timing challenges caused by late action in Frankfort on matters related to state appropriations and tuition authorizations, I appreciate the Board convening this special meeting to consider these important matters at the earliest opportunity.

Before proceeding with the Budget and Tuition Presentation that relates to the first two presidential recommendations, I'd like to make just a few remarks related to the context of this presentation and our recommendations.

The 2018 legislative session, a budget session, was truly a wild roller coaster ride.

Leading into the session, we had three advocacy priorities:
1. Avoid or at least minimize direct cuts in our state appropriation for FY19 - recall how we experienced a mid-year non-recurring cut of $516K, and we were advised to expect further recurring cuts for FY19.
2. Obtain the other $5+M in equity or performance funding to complete the process of funding NKU on an equitable basis with other KY public universities, a process started in 2016.
3. Pension reform and pension relief from the planned $12.8M increase in our KERS pension contribution.

With those priorities, we sought advocacy support from our campus community, our alumni community, the NKUF, regional business groups that rely on NKU for talent production, and other friends of the university.

The wild ride started on January 16th with an initial budget proposal that would have done the following:
1. Cut NKU's state appropriation by $4.5M (an 8.8% cut)
2. Provide NO equity/performance funding
3. Provide no relief from the $12.8M KERS increase
A total negative fiscal impact of over $17M. And, of course, that does not include any internal budget pressures that we would also have to address. That was the reason we started planning for cuts in the $20+M range.

During this period our advocacy efforts accelerated. I want to thank all who advocated on our behalf to avoid the kind of drastic fiscal impact we confronted. Although as the session proceeded we experienced some positive steps forward, then some steps back, then back and forth, the end result was more positive than we could have expected based on the starting point on January 16.

That much more positive ending point for the Frankfort element of our FY19 budget would not have happened without two important forces at work:
1. A strong advocacy effort (again, thanks to all who advocated - it absolutely made a difference), and
2. The strong leadership of our Northern Kentucky legislative caucus, and particularly the strong efforts of 3 senators in key leadership roles - Senators Damon Thayer, Chris McDaniel, and Wil Schroder. We'll hear shortly about the performance funding component in our budget plans. That funding would not have happened, without the key push by the senate and these three leaders in particular. And folks, this is not about political parties, it is about individual legislators in key leadership positions exercising their strength for the good of our region and our university.

So, the outcome of the session for our FY19 budget is positive - details discussed in the presentation. But, of course, other internal budget pressures remain to be addressed - details also to be discussed in the presentation.

This has been a very difficult time for all those on NKU's leadership and support team who have been actively engaged in this legislative and budget process. And, the same can be said of our Board members. So, thanks to all of you for the hard work during this most challenging of times.

But, let's not forget, indeed let's make sure we affirmatively acknowledge and appreciate that the last several months have been extremely difficult for every one of our 1500 or so NKU faculty, staff, and administrators.

The enormous anxiety and stress experienced by our entire workforce during this period of great fiscal uncertainty with potentially dramatic negative consequences, not only for the university, but for our people, has been palpable. In my 19 years at NKU, I have never seen such a level of anxiety and worry among our people. Both the depth of the possible consequences and the delay in obtaining certainty have contributed to this condition.

But, let me say this about our people. Throughout this period of great anxiety and stress, our employees have come to work, on time, done their jobs, served our students, and helped them succeed, all without missing a beat. They have demonstrated a high level of professionalism in the face of adversity. And, I am proud to say I served alongside this dedicated group of professionals.

So, thanks to every NKU employee for your contribution to our continuing success in these most challenging times.

Presidential Comments:

Thank you Chair Scheben and members of the Board.

Introduction

Thank you again to Ken Harper, Clyde Middleton, and their families. It means a lot to us that you were able to join us today to allow us to celebrate your leadership in the creation of Northern Kentucky State College 50 years ago. We definitely would not be here today were it not for each of you.

Student Success & Enrollment Management

Our enrollment picture offers mixed results. We are experiencing a greater than expected enrollment decline. The budget that was approved in May was calculated with an expected 1.1% enrollment decline. This figure was determined by our historical retention and persistence rates as well as real-time enrollment tracking. Currently our projected enrollment decline for Fall 18 is approximately 4.0% when excluding our accelerated online students. This has an estimated shortfall to budget of approximately $2.7 million for Fall 18. While we don't know exactly the reason for the decline, preliminary analysis seems to suggest that many of our students are returning to work or dropping down to part-time status in order to work.

If we do nothing and given our historical fall to spring retention rates, we could expect a similar $2.7 million shortfall in spring 2019 as well. Based on the analysis from IR and EDM offices, if we retain 540 students over the course of the year, we will make up all of the loss we may incur through the enrollment decrease. I have asked the Cabinet to work collaboratively with our colleges and schools and across divisions, to come up with tactics for retaining and/or recruiting these 540 students.

These 540 students though represent more than just tuition dollars and numbers on a spreadsheet. These are 540 individuals who chose to get their education at NKU. Now let's spend the next few months reminding them why they made the right choice and that this is the university that will provide them with the future they have dreamed of.

I would also like to affirm that this projected budget shortfall will not affect the planned compensation increase set to take effect in January. This is true for two reasons. One is that I am confident that the campus community will work together to retain these additional students. And secondly, I am firmly committed to ensuring that our dedicated faculty and staff are fairly and adequately compensated for the hard work they do on behalf of our students.

It is because of this commitment that our singular purpose must remain on student success. The process by which we will establish the strategic framework that will guide not only the next three years but lay the foundation for several decades for NKU is well underway. I have received all nominations for individuals to serve on the core team. That group will be named very shortly, and they will actually begin their training this week. We will also be launching a strategic framework website, which will serve as the public face of our campaign for individuals to participate in and learn about the process. Stay tuned for more exciting updates.

Regional Engagement

As I mentioned at convocation, the focus of our strategic framework will be on student success that aligns with regional needs. An outstanding example of this is the newly launched Clinical Research Certificate in the Department of Allied Health in the College of Health Professions. This post-baccalaureate certificate is a partnership with the CTI company, and will educate employees to work as business/regulatory managers of clinical trials. There are currently 10 CTI employees enrolled in this program.

Over the past two months I have had numerous meetings with our community and business partners including St. Elizabeth Healthcare, Fifth Third Bank, Corporex, BB&T, Western & Southern, and Duke Energy as well as the Chambers of Commerce for Northern Kentucky and Cincinnati. They say many great things about our students who they employ and continue to ask me how we can work together to meet the talent needs of the region.

New Appointments

I would like to recognize a couple of new campus leaders with us today. Dr. Valerie Hardcastle is the new St. Elizabeth Healthcare Executive Director for Health Innovation and the Vice President for Health Innovation. Dr. Hardcastle comes to us from the University of Cincinnati where she mostly recently served as their co-director of the Weaver Institute for Law and Psychiatry.

I would also like to welcome Dr. Jim Buss, inaugural dean of the NKU Honors College. Dr. Buss joins us NKU from Salisbury University in Maryland, where he served as Dean of their Honors College.

We are so glad the two of you are here and very much look forward to the exciting work that will happen in the HIC and Honors College.

Highlights & Accomplishments

Congratulations to Dr. Denice Robinson and Dr. Bethany Bowling on being awarded a $1 million grant from the National Science Foundation to provide STEM scholarships for students with financial need.

Over the summer, the Center for Applied Informatics was honored with the 2018 National Association of Colleges and Employers Chevron Award for outstanding achievement for innovative programs in college career services. Congratulations to all associated with this exemplary work.

In August, we participated in the American Dreams Academy sponsored by the entertainment and lifestyle retailer HSN. The Dreams Academy was a two-day scholarship-based summit aimed at emerging entrepreneurs who were looking to launch their business. As hosts, many of our faculty staff, and even Regents participated in the event. Thanks to Jill Henry, Zac Strobel, Rebecca Volpe, Stephanie Hughes, and Regent Norm Desmarais for their role in making the Dreams Academy such a success.

Upcoming Events

The grand opening for our beautiful new Health Innovation Center will take place on Wednesday, October 17 at 1:30pm. Final details are still being finalized, so stay tuned for more.

That concludes my comments for today's Board meeting.

Presidential Comments:

Thank you Chair Scheben and members of the Board.

An update on Success by Design

- During NKU's 2018 fall convocation, I shared with the campus that design thinking tools and Vijay Govindarajan's 3-box solution methodology would be utilized in an accelerated timeframe of six months to develop a 3-year strategic framework for NKU.
- Since October 1, 2018, the Strategic Framework Core Team has been collecting input and ideas through TalkShop sessions conducted with students, faculty, staff, and members of the community and the region. To date, we have had almost 1,700 face-to-face engagements with all stakeholders through 77 TalkShop sessions.
- On October 22, we launched our website at nku.edu/SuccessByDesign, which included an online survey format, as well as Whiteboard Wednesdays. This has led to additional engagement, including online responses to questions focused on access, completion and career & community engagement, plus 62 respondents to a closed-ended survey.
- Overall, engagement — both internally and externally — has been incredibly beneficial to this important work and we will continue our external face-to-face discussions through December.

One-time investments

- Through the summer and the start of the fall semester, we witnessed an unanticipated decline in enrollment, largely due to a smaller entering first-year class and a decrease in retention of continuing students.
- This challenge needed immediate attention and action. After consulting with various campus constituents, I authorized a one-time investment of $1.2 million for marketing, retention and recruitment efforts that will impact both current and new students enrolling in fall 2019.
- Vice Presidents Eric Gentry and Kim Scranage have taken the lead in our marketing efforts.
- Provost Sue Ott Rowlands and Vice President Dan Nadler co-lead the retention efforts.
- Vice President Scranage and Assistant Vice President Leah Stewart are leading our recruitment efforts.
- Key efforts include:
  - Promoting the EDGE program
  - Nov is free application month
  - Expanded micro-grants, advising, and strengthening programming in the Center for Student Inclusiveness
  - Targeted marketing to international students, high demand programs, 12 high schools, and bilingual students
- They are all engaging faculty, chairs, deans, staff and students in this collaborative work to deliver results.

FUEL NKU and Kroger partnership

- On November 8, 2018, NKU, the NKU Foundation and The Kroger Foundation announced a partnership to fight food insecurity on this university's campus.
- The first phase of the partnership will expand FUEL NKU, our food pantry, to more than seven-times its current size—from 300-square-feet to 2,300-square-feet.
- During the 2016-2017 academic year, 650 NKU students visited the pantry and that number has increased every year.
- Construction will begin in the late fall and is expected to be complete by early 2020. We are so grateful for Kroger's commitment to our pantry and their help in making a lasting impact on the lives of our students and their success.

Health Innovation Center Grand Opening

- Northern Kentucky University dedicated the new Health Innovation Center (HIC) on October 17, 2018.
- We welcomed Kentucky Gov. Matt Bevin and St. Elizabeth Healthcare President and CEO Garren Colvin in dedicating the university's newest building.
- This $105 million project is home to NKU's College of Health Professions and the Institute for Health Innovation. The Kentucky General Assembly allocated $97 million toward the construction of the HIC, which is the first new academic building constructed on NKU's campus since Griffin Hall opened in October 2011.

St. E Physicians ground breaking at NKU's entrance

- Leaders from NKU, St. Elizabeth Healthcare, OrthoCincy, Fairmount Properties, Campbell County and Highland Heights broke ground on the new St. Elizabeth Physicians medical office building on October 18, 2018.
- This facility, located on the north side of Nunn Drive and US 27, will offer urgent care, primary care and specialty physicians, in addition to OrthoCincy's onsite orthopedic office, physical therapy and other emergent orthopedic services. It is scheduled to open in early 2020.
- The medical office building is Phase I of the Town Center mixed-use project that will transform the gateway to NKU's campus. Later phases will see the development of restaurants, retail space, market-rate apartments, hotel, parking and new public gathering spaces.

OKI award for NKU's town center project

- NKU's Town Center project will receive $861,704 to improve access to the mixed-use development, thanks to the award from the Ohio-Kentucky-Indiana Regional Council of Governments (OKI).
- The improvements will include a transit super stop, turn lanes on Nunn Drive, upgrade and reconstruction of old sidewalks and a new pedestrian/bicycle path linking NKU's campus to the new development.

Highlights and Accomplishment Updates

- The inaugural Spotlight on Scholarship event was held at the end of October, showcasing the research, scholarship and creative activity of over 30 faculty members.
    - The winner of the Sol award (named for the Norse goddess of enlightenment) was Kirsten Schwarz from Environmental Science for her research and community engagement work focused on strategic depaving on the westside of Newport.
    - The runner-up was Sara Drabik from Electronic and Media Broadcasting for her work on women in coffee.
- The Institute of Health Innovation has been awarded a Rural Communities Opioid Response Program Planning grant for 2018 from the Federal Office of Rural Health Policy, part of the Health Resources and Services Administration.
    - This federal grant supports treatment for and prevention of substance-use disorder in rural counties with the highest risk. Our partners are Owen County Schools, Three Rivers Health District, the Northern Kentucky Area Development District, the Owen County Drug Prevention Coalition, and Northkey Community Care.
    - With this grant, we will seek to identify and close gaps in early intervention and access to treatment and services in Owen County and across the entire Northern Kentucky region.
- For the first time since 2010, the Chase trial team won the Kentucky mock trial competition, beating both UK and Louisville. Congratulations are in order for the team of Stephanie Brockman, Zach Epperson, Christy Hiance, and Sheree Weichold.
- The Haile/US Bank College of Business' Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship (CIE) was selected as one of the five finalists for the "Outstanding Contribution to Venture Creation" award at the 2018 Global Consortium of Entrepreneurship Centers' annual conference in October.

    - NKU is among some great company for the 2018 honor – Michigan State, Babson College, The University of Notre Dame and University of Stockholm, Sweden.
    - The CIE was selected from more than 100 submissions that were reviewed by peer institutions to recognize the very best in entrepreneurship education.
- More than 800 young women from area high schools attended the 8th annual Young Women LEAD conference hosted by the College of Education & Human Services November 1 & 2 here at NKU. Young Women LEAD is a leadership conference for high school girls focusing on leadership, education and development. The purpose of the conference is to empower high school girls to embrace their strengths and to reach their full potential.
- A highly successful partnership to operate our on-campus Early Childhood Center was created between Northern Kentucky University and the University of Cincinnati. This partnership has resulted in a significant increase in enrollment and also allowed for continuation of NKU's Child Care Access Means Parents In School (CCAMPIS) Grant, which provides funds of approximately $135,000 on an annual basis to help low-income parents with campus-based child care services.
- The Division of Student Affairs received a three-year grant of nearly $300,000 from the Office of Violence Against Women – Campus Grant to continue the university's efforts to reduce sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking on campus.
    - The grant is housed in the Norse Violence Prevention Center and will make possible a range of services, including specialized training for campus law enforcement, healthcare providers, university personnel, and others who are often first responders.
    - With the grant, we are able to hire a full-time project coordinator/prevention specialist, hire a part-time advocate to expand our direct service capacity, expand our prevention efforts with African American, Latino, and international students, and provide trauma-informed yoga for survivors of sexual assault.
- More than 10,000 student community service hours have been performed to date this semester.
- Norse student-athletes continue to excel in the classroom. Following an impressive 3.37 cumulative GPA in fall 2017, NKU's student-athletes elevated the bar to a department-record 3.47 GPA in the spring semester. Every program posted a cumulative grade point average above 3.13, including a 3.7 by the men's tennis program that led the department. The softball program registered a 3.67 GPA, which earned recognition by the National Fastpitch Coaches Association for being the second-highest in the country.
- Baseball's Will Hauter was named a CoSIDA Academic All-American over the summer, while both Rikard Lindqvist and Hannah Fischer of the men's and women's soccer programs, respectively, were recently named CoSIDA Academic All-District honorees and voting is currently taking place for Academic All-America honors.
- Northern Kentucky Athletics' core values include both inclusiveness and community engagement. While the 2,909 hours of community service attributed to the athletic department last year are impressive, three of our teams in the last four years have partnered with Team IMPACT to truly impact the lives of three youth with chronic illnesses.
    - The baseball program first got the ball rolling when it signed Alex Murray.
    - Volleyball followed suit in January 2018 with the signing of Taylor and Leah Conrad and, most recently, softball signed Destiny Owen.

- Volleyball senior Haley Libs is one of 10 national finalists for the Senior CLASS Award, an accolade aimed at honoring student-athletes for staying in school and excelling in the community, classroom, character and competition. Libs is a perfect 4.0 student-athlete in Exercise Science, who is also a three-time team captain and three-time All-Horizon League First Team performer.
    - Further, Libs makes annual trips to Norton's Children's Hospital, which treated her own pediatric leukemia, to support the youth currently hospitalized.
- NKU's student-athletes are also excelling in competition. Women's soccer earned yet another top-3 regular-season Horizon League finish, while the volleyball program recently tied for second place in the Horizon League, its best finish in the brief Division I-era. Alex Willis was named the Horizon League Men's Soccer Freshman of the Year after recording 16 goals, which was the third-most in the NCAA at the conclusion of the regular season and seven assists. And, Drew McDonald was named the Horizon League Preseason Player of the Year for the second year in a row.
- NKU's Lead Enterprise Architect, Kasilingham Vimalan was awarded the Rising Tech Stars Award. This award honors IT professionals who are on the fast track to becoming the future technology leaders in our region. Lead Tribune Media Group, the publisher of Venue Magazine, Greater Cincinnati's Lifestyle publication, and Lead Magazine, the publication for Business Executives, selected Vimalan for this award. Vimalan's outstanding achievements were highlighted when he received this award at The Rising Star Awards Ceremony that took place at the comSpark Tech and Innovation Summit on September 18.
- Kathleen Roberts partnered with Norse Advising in the design and delivery of a 5-module series on cultural competence for Master Advising Certification. The program will be scaled to include all administrative and academic units and eventually be developed into an online course.
- To A Degree is the Gates Foundation's postsecondary success podcast that highlights the people, institutions and organizations working to provide all students with a high-quality and affordable higher education experience.
    - The American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) collaborated with To A Degree and the Gates Foundation to capture the perspectives of campus leaders at its 2018 Annual Meeting in late October.
    - To A Degree recorded three podcasts at the meeting focusing on leadership and innovative solutions to improve equity and student success.
    - I had the pleasure of taking part in the "Keeping the Promise" podcast along with Shippensburg University of Pennsylvania President Laurie A. Carter and State University of New York at Fredonia President Virginia Schaefer Horvath.

That concludes my comments for today's Board meeting.

Presidential Comments:

Thank you Chair Scheben and Members of the Board.

Happy New Year and welcome back to everyone. I hope that your break was both restful and enjoyable.

I know Sue already recognized her, but I would like to welcome the new interim dean of the Haile/US Bank College of Business Johnna Reeder Kleymeyer. This is her 2nd week on the job. I was introduced to Johnna as a member of the presidential transition committee, and as the former President and CEO of REDI-Cincinnati. Johnna's experience in economic development and regional collaboration to attract and retain companies aligns well with NKU's mission of leveraging partnerships to connect the talents within the College of Business with the needs of the region. I am delighted to have Johnna lead the Haile/US Bank College of Business during this time of transition.

Commencement

On December 15, just prior to the holidays, we conferred more than 1,110 degrees to our talented graduates at commencement.

It was an honor to shake hands with each of our graduates and see hope and excitement on their faces—this was a very special moment for me as it was my first commencement at NKU.

Fall Forum

On December 12, we held the president's fall forum during which I updated the campus on the highlights and accomplishments of the fall semester, a progress report on the strategic framework, and an enrollment and budget update. We also presented an early look at our FY20 budget planning effort. As part of that planning, I provide an update on the options we were considering to address the pension challenge.

Since the Forum, we continue to work closely with members of our legislative caucus, colleagues from the other six state universities and the Council on Postsecondary Education (CPE), to draft a bill that aligns with the proposed priorities that were presented at the Fall Forum and other constituency meetings. The legislature is adjourned until early February, but upon their return we expect action upon our priorities.

We have met with both Senate and House leadership, the Governor and his staff, and other legislators from across the state to educate them on the elements of the proposed consensus bill, while emphasizing the urgency of the issue for Kentucky's public higher education institutions.

Kentucky Postsecondary Education Symposium

On December 18, a team from NKU, including Regents Ward, Boehne, Shumate, Baranowski, Bauer, Edelen, Provost Sue Ott Rowlands, Vice President Dan Nadler and I, attended the Kentucky Postsecondary Education Symposium in Louisville. This event included higher education leaders from across the state who gathered to discuss how we can collectively affect the future of the Commonwealth through a more educated citizenry. The day was capped off by a keynote address by Arizona State University President Michael Crowe on the role of postsecondary education in the 21st century.

I look forward to seeing how we can put some of the ideas from that symposium to ensure that NKU is at the forefront of the goal to provide postsecondary credentials for 60% of Kentuckians by 2030.

Enrollment Update

We have some encouraging news regarding our spring enrollment.

As of the first day of classes, overall headcount is up 5 percent and FTE is up 2.6 percent over last spring. These increases are mainly due to accelerated on-line programs with some improvements in retention and persistence. Therefore, we are projecting to be up in overall enrollment for fiscal year 19.

With the unexpected decline in on-campus degree-seeking students at the beginning of the fall semester, I challenged the campus to reach ambitious retention and enrollment goals from the fall to spring semesters, and we have seen some early success. Preliminary first-year retention of degree-seeking students as of the first day of classes is up over last year. Moreover, we have again started to close the gap between overall retention and URM retention.

Retention is up because we are retaining the students who are currently enrolled despite the loss of enrollment last fall. This is an indicator that the one-time investment measures put in place last semester are paying dividends. This was accomplished through a collaborative and sustained effort across campus.

Enrollment is critical for our continued success, and I would like to extend my gratitude to all for this crucial work. Let's keep it up.

Online Program Rankings

Our online education programs are a significant reason for the positive enrollment. We were recently recognized by the Community for Accredited Online Schools for our online learning offerings in 2018-19, ranking on the following lists:

- Best Online Schools in Kentucky
- Best Online Bachelor's Degrees
- Best Construction Management Schools
- Best Radiology Technician Schools

Considering the relative youth of our online portfolio, it is very encouraging to be nationally recognized for our efforts.

Since launching accelerated online programs in spring 2018, we have grown from 174 students across 13 degree programs and 0 certificates to more than 1,400 students in 20 programs and 8 certificates.

Entrepreneurship and Innovation Grants

Collaborating with regional partners, NKU is enjoying great success in the area of entrepreneurship and innovation.

At the end of November, the Northern Kentucky Entrepreneurship Council was awarded a $750,000 grant through Kentucky's RISE Program to emphasize entrepreneurship and innovation in regional economic development through informatics, health innovation and logistics innovation.

NKU will lend its expertise through the College of Business, the College of Informatics and the Institute for Health Innovation.

Additionally, Tri-ED, the Institute for Health Innovation and St. Elizabeth Healthcare were recently awarded a $731,000 grant from the US Department of Commerce Economic Development Administration to build the Northern Kentucky Health Innovation Initiative, the first time funding of this type has been awarded in Kentucky.

The RISE grant and local matching funds amount to a $2.8 million innovation and entrepreneurship investment in our region. We are excited to showcase how our talented faculty, staff and students can benefit our region and state.

Kentucky Governor's School for Entrepreneurs

NKU is now the official Kentucky Governor's School for Entrepreneurs site. Beginning in the summer of 2019, 70 Kentucky students will learn and engage in product innovation and business model design at NKU. GSE will work closely with NKU's Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship, as well as local business, education and government leaders, to support regional entrepreneurs, foster talented high school students and cement NKU's reputation as an innovation hub.

Success by Design update

On Friday, January 11, the Strategic Framework Core Team held a day-long retreat to analyze the data produced during various engagement opportunities in the fall. The Core Team will continue to develop the framework around the theme of advancing student success – with a focus on access, completion, and career and community engagement - aligned with the needs of the region. While we have moved onto the next phase of the strategic framing process, it has become clear that our strategic planning process will be constantly evolving as the regional needs change. In this new paradigm, we will be required to constantly innovate, adapt, and execute in an iterative process as we stay responsive to the needs of the region and beyond.

I want to recognize the ongoing work of the Core Team and the outstanding work contributed by the Resource Team. This group of nearly 100 subject matter experts produced valuable reports on such topics as institutional alignment, the labor market and diversity/equity/inclusion. We hope to publish these reports on the Success by Design website soon.

Administration and Finance Highlights and Accomplishments

Tim Ferguson, Chief Information Officer was selected for the Cincinnati Tech Power Player: Class of 2019 list of leading IT executives for Southwest Ohio and Northern Kentucky by Lead Tribune Media Group. This recognition celebrates the great work of technology leaders, influencers and advocates that help to foster deeper community.

Athletics Highlights and Accomplishments

NKU student-athletes posted a 3.47 GPA in the fall 2018 semester, edging spring 2018's cumulative 3.46 to establish yet another department record.

This is the 15th-straight semester NKU student-athletes have had at least a 3.0 GPA, the ninth-straight semester they have posted at least a 3.2 and the third-straight above a 3.3.

Volleyball tied for second in the Horizon League regular-season and battled its way to runner-up in fall's Horizon League Tournament. Both finishes are program-bests in the Division I era.

Women's soccer finished third in the Horizon League regular-season and reached the league tournament for a fourth-straight season.

Academic Affairs Highlights and Accomplishments

At November's annual Kentucky Academy of Sciences meeting, 18 College of Arts and Science students won awards for research presentations.

Congratulations are due to Ariel Porter, a Biological Sciences major, who was accepted into the first class of the University of Kentucky College of Medicine - Northern Kentucky Campus, beginning in Fall 2019.

MPA student Lindsay Lomax was presented a "Heart of the Community" award by the Center for Great Neighborhoods in November. This award recognizes Covington residents who have made “significant contributions to their neighborhood or school.” Lindsay helped spearhead a back-to-school party at Goebel Pool that fed 50 families, distributed school supplies and gathered input for future park improvements.

Our School of the Arts was represented at the Kentucky National Association of Teachers of Singing (NATS) student auditions in October. This transdisciplinary experience included several NKU faculty: Rita Larkin and Catherine Keen from Theatre & Dance; Kimberly Lazzeri and Joy Burdette from Music; and three pianists, Mika Komuro, Dasom Kwon and Natasha Pence. In total, 18 students from SOTA and the Music Prep program competed in the student auditions. An impressive 13 advanced to the semifinals, with five placing in the finals, from each of the studios.

Lisa Jameson, program head for Visual Arts, was honored with the Kentucky Higher Education Teacher of the Year award from the Kentucky Art Education Association at the annual fall convention. Congratulations, Lisa.

The department of Political Science, Criminal Justice, and Organizational Leadership, in collaboration with Chase College of Law faculty, is launching an undergraduate Bachelor of Arts law degree this spring. This multidisciplinary major will provide advantageous legal training for careers where a JD is not required.

CINSAM was recently awarded the Kentucky Association for Environmental Education’s Community Partner Award. CINSAM was nominated by a Kenton County Schools teacher for professional development work in STEM education, especially the Next Generation STEM Classroom project.

I am proud to announce the College of Education and Human Services received final certification for national accreditation at the initial-licensure level by the Council for Accreditation of Educator Preparation in fall 2018, recognizing excellence in educator preparation.

The College of Education and Human Services’ Special Education Program received national professional recognition by the Council for Exceptional Children. Ours is the only such program in the state of Kentucky to receive this recognition.

The College of Education and Human Services’ $770,000 Kentucky Traineeship Program federal grant was recently renewed, allowing NKU to offer tuition assistance for courses leading to teacher certification in Special Education and Integrated Early Childhood Education programs.

Student Affairs Highlights and Accomplishments
A highly successful Student Parent Holiday Help Initiative was conducted in which generous donations were collected from NKU faculty and staff, resulting in the sponsorship of 36 student parent families comprising 42 adults and 69 children. There were 21 departments/offices, 3 student organizations, and 11 individuals involved to make this possible.

Upcoming Events
This Friday, January 18, we will gather for our Spring convocation. In place of the usual address, we will view Unlikely: In Pursuit of a Better U, a documentary that focuses on the college dropout crisis and systemic barriers some students face in pursuit of education and a livable-wage career. An expert panel of faculty, staff, students and community members will follow.

The morning will begin at 9 a.m. in the Student Union Ballroom and conclude around 11:30. I hope you can join us for what should be a very meaningful morning.

On Monday, January 21, we will be closed to observe Dr. Reverend Martin Luther King Jr Day. However, more than 800 Norse students, faculty and staff have graciously volunteered their holiday to perform needed acts of service throughout the region.

And finally, mark your calendars for Homecoming Week Feb. 2-9. Festivities will include the annual Alumni Awards on Feb. 8th and the men's basketball game the next day. I look forward to seeing you all there.

Presidential Comments:

MLK Day of Service
On Martin Luther King Jr Day, I was proud to join nearly 800 Norse students, faculty and staff as we spent the day volunteering in the community at 28 different sites. It was exciting to see so many people helping to make our community a better place. I hope this can become a yearly tradition for our campus. Thanks to the Office of Student Engagement for coordinating this event.

Homecoming Recap
Last month we celebrated homecoming by recognizing some of our most outstanding alumni at the awards ceremony that weekend.

Tom Munninghoff, a 1976 Chase grad, was given the Outstanding Alumnus Award. The Distinguished Service Award went to two very deserving individuals – Diane Sticklen-Jordan, a two-time NKU alum, and former NKU Foundation President Barry Kienzle. The Outstanding Young Alumnus Award was given to 2014 grad Brad Jolly. And last but not least, former staff regent Arnie Slaughter was honored with the Faculty/Staff Strongest Influence Award. For anyone who knows Arnie, it would be hard to find a staff member who is more dedicated to our students that he is.

We are fortunate to have so many dedicated and talented NKU alumni in our community. Congratulations to all the winners.

Career Expo

On February 27th, NKU's Career Services held their annual Career Expo in the Student Union. With a maximum of 139 employers in attendance recruiting and interviewing our students, we had 802 students and alumni participate in this important event. This was a record-breaking attendance, up 41% in student attendance from last year and up 23% from our previous record in 2014. This is exciting news, particularly as we look at ways in our new strategic framework to expand the career preparedness of our students and embed career readiness throughout the lifecycle of the student. I want to thank Career Services for their leadership of this event, and to all those who partnered with Career Services in supporting our students.

Cyber Defense Team

NKU's Cyber Defense Team placed first in the 5-state combined Collegiate Cyber Defense Competition in February. Teams were from KY, OH, IN, MO and WI. This means we beat Purdue as well as our archrival the University of Louisville. This round was done online, and the NKU team competed from the donor-funded JRG Cyber Threat Intelligence Lab in Griffin Hall. The team headed to Chicago the weekend of March 15-17 to compete in the Midwest Regionals for the seventh time in ten years and placed third overall. Two Electronic Media and Broadcasting students traveled with the team to do a "reality TV" style mini-documentary on the experience.

Physical Disability Campus Ranking

We were recently named as a top 10 campus for supporting students with physical disabilities by College Magazine for our accessible residence halls, classrooms, and transportation options as well as general campus advocacy related to disability awareness and inclusion. Congratulations to Director Cindy Knox and her staff in the Office of Disability Programs and Services for providing excellent support to our students.

Military Friendly Campus Ranking

We were also recognized as a military-friendly campus by Viqtory Media which is the premier publication for service members transitioning back into civilian life. This is our 9th straight year on this list. Congratulations to the staff in the Veteran's Resource Station for the outstanding service they provide to our military families.

FUEL NKU Opening

Back in February I was honored to join Kroger CFO Mike Schlotman as we opened the new FUEL NKU food pantry. Through a generous partnership with Kroger, we were able to greatly expand the physical space, food offerings, and hours to help support the needs of our students. This will go a long way toward helping the growing number of students who face food insecurity.

Reappointment, Promotion, and Tenure

In just a few moments, I will ask the board to approve my recommendations regarding the reappointment, promotion and tenure of several faculty members. I'd like to especially recognize those faculty who I am recommending for tenure and promotion. This is a significant accomplishment and milestone in a faculty member's career and deserves special recognition.

Individual Recognition

I would like to recognize Lori Wright, director of TRiO Student Support Services and graduate student in our Ed.D. program, who together with a group of women from NKU, Cincinnati State, and Mt. St. Joseph, are writing a collaborative, co-authored dissertation on feminist leadership in the academy. They also received permission to write a graduate textbook as an extension of their doctoral dissertation. We are very proud of the work of our staff and graduate students and look forward to the publication.

Dr. Holly Riffe of the department of Counseling, Social Work and Leadership in the College of Education and Human Services has been recognized as Outstanding Educator for 2019 in Cincy Magazine. Congratulations to Holly on this tremendous honor.

Dr. Steve Crites of the department of Teacher Education of COEHS received a continuation of the Kentucky Traineeship in Special Education grant of $777,000,000 for the 2019-2020 school year. This grant is funded by the Kentucky Department of Education with federal money from the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act to provide tuition funding for graduate students seeking certification in special education.

Lastly, I am proud to announce that our Student Regent Hannah Edelen was recently awarded the prestigious Henry Clay Internship in Public Policy through the Kentucky Society for Washington. Hannah will intern with the Kentucky congressional delegation this summer in Washington, D.C. Congratulations Hannah.

Pension Update

The legislature adjourned on March 14 not to return until March 28, where they will have one day to override any gubernatorial vetoes and act on legislation. Any bills passed on March 28 will be subject to gubernatorial vetoes without ability to override.

There are two bills relating to NKU pension reform:

SB41

An amendment was filed to SB41 last Thursday to freeze KERS contribution rates on all quasi agencies, including universities, for one more year. While we appreciate a one-year freeze, this is not a long-term solution. Earlier this week, Senate leadership stated they did not see this bill passing either, and we echoed our continued support for HB358.

HB358

House Bill 358 reflects the consensus proposal recommended by all of the affected universities. Working together since late summer, we developed this plan as a solution to our pension challenge. Representative James Tipton, Chair of the House Budget Review Subcommittee on Postsecondary Education, worked with us to develop this proposal and carried it through its passage of the House.

After passing the House, the bill was sent to the Senate and amended by Sen. Chris McDaniel through a Senate Committee Substitute (SCS), with language that was less favorable for NKU.

The amended language does not allow for a "level-dollar" approach to paying off our unfunded liability which would reduce NKU's contribution amount since we are over-paying the system currently using the % of payroll calculation.

The committee substitute also added all quasi-governmental agencies to our bill rather than it being a standalone higher education bill. The quasi-agencies received different options in the bill than us, specifically that existing employees at these quasi-agencies would not have the option to stay in KERS or opt to a defined contribution plan. This became an issue for non-university quasi-agencies with employees close to retirement milestones that prefer the option to stay.

The Senate passed this version of HB358 and sent it back to the House for their concurrence. The House did not concur and sent the bill back to the Senate for them to recede on the SCS.

The General Assembly adjourned last Thursday without taking further action.

It's our understanding House and Senate members will attempt to meet during the recess to develop a solution. We will continue to work with members of both chambers to aid finding a solution.

Athletics Highlights

Alec Sandusky won the 5,000m event at the Horizon League Indoor Track & Field Championship, earning First Team all-Horizon League honors. Sandusky followed 24-hours later with a third-place finish in the 3,000m. On the women's side, BriAuna Keys finished second, earning a silver medal, in the women's 400m.

The men's basketball continued its unprecedented success in the DI era, winning the Horizon League Tournament Championship and sharing the regular-season title this year. In just three years with active Division I status, we have claimed two Horizon League regular-season titles (2018, 2019), two league tournament titles (2017, 2019) and has played in two NCAA Tournaments (2017, 2019) as well as the NIT (2018).

Our players have also racked up several individual honors this year. The accolades include Jalen Tate making his second straight Horizon League All-Defensive team.

And what can you say about Drew McDonald that hasn't already been said? Drew broke the school record for most free throws made in a career and became NKU's all-time leading scorer with 2,011 points on his way to being named as the Horizon League Player of the Year.

Our players also shine in the classroom. Both Drew and Dantez Walton made the Horizon League All-Academic Team as well.

Now I come from a hockey school, so I'm still learning what it means to be a college basketball fan in Kentucky, but I don't think I could have asked for a better first year as president than this one. I think my voice is still hoarse from that buzzer beater shot against Oakland.
The team will play in the first round of the NCAA Tournament on Friday at 1:30pm against Texas Tech in Tulsa. It will certainly be an exciting day for our campus and community.

Upcoming Events

Celebration
NKU's Celebration of Student Research and Creativity will take place on April 9th in the Student Union. This will be a day of posters, presentations and performances given by students from across the university. We encourage everyone to come and see the amazing level of scholarly and creative work being done by our students.

Inauguration Week
Next week begins my inauguration week. The goal is to use this week as an opportunity to celebrate NKU and how we contribute to student success and regional progress. Every day has a theme: Tuesday is community appreciation day, Wednesday features events related to current and future student appreciation, and Thursday is a celebration of our staff and faculty.

There are a few events I'd like to call out:

On Tuesday at 8:30am we will be cutting the ribbon on the Rockwell Automation and CBT Company Mechatronics Lab in the Business Academic Center Room 111.

Also on Tuesday at 10am will be a dialogue on regionalism that will feature our three country judges executive and will be moderated by Johnna Kleymeyer, interim dean of the Haile/US Bank College of Business

Tuesday and Wednesday are Making Teaching Public Days where we will open up a few of our classes to the community to witness the excellence faculty we have on our campus.

On Wednesday at 10am, we will be hosting a Diversity and IT Leadership Panel which will feature some of the most prominent IT leaders in the community and will be hosted by Maureen Doyle, chair of Computer Science in the College of Informatics.

Friday is investiture day and I hope all of you can make it to the ceremony at 2pm in BB&T. A reception will follow.

This is an exciting week for me personally but also for the campus to celebrate its successes as we collectively look toward the future.

For a detailed list of all the events next week, please visit the inauguration website.

Chair Scheben and members of the Board that concludes my remarks for today's meeting.
