Some Thanksgiving Thoughts.

In these strenous [strenuous] and distressful times when cynicism and despair are in the ascendency [ascendancy] when crime is rampart and the world seems at a crisis the thought naturally couces [?] – What have we to be thankful for. 2 I have taken stock for myself and I submit that I should be thankful for these reasons.

I am alive.

I have came [come] through sickness and am getting well. I have the most beautiful home life a man called desire – a devoted wife who is a keep mate in the truest sense of the word; a dear daughter who is a real comfort in these days of aimless and unappreciative children. I have a job, and that means much in this time of unemployment. I have a roof over my head, enough to eat, enough to clothe me. I have true and tried friends who have shown me their friendship

I have an abiding faith in the future of this notion.

I am living in the most marvelous period of the world's history in the most enlightened and fortunate country

I have a sense of humor and finally I have an unshakeable faith in a future life where our sins are forgiven us and where we are again reunited with our dear ones

And for all this dear lord I am truly thankful.
